RFK, Nixon Lead Field in Nebraska Test

OMAHA (P) - The familiar political weathervanes pointed Saturday toward Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, as the likely top runner in a field of four Democrats in Tuesday's Nebraska presidential primary.

Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, his state campaign wrapped up, was being carded as the winner of the popularity poll voting and the new owner of Nebraska's 16 Republican convention nominatin votes.

The bustling Kennedy, campainging in South Dakota for that state's June 4 primary, was to wind up the day with an Omaha park rally on his return. Sen. Eguene J. McCarthy, D.Minn., Kennedy's chief rival, scheduled a resumption of his low-keyed campaign today after a swing through Oregon and California.

KENNEDY'S OPPOSITION in this prairie state test is split in such a way to indicate that if his supporters turn out as expected, he could top a popularity ballot that would not necessarily give him control of Nebraska's 30 convention nominating votes. Delegates are elected individually in the primary, and most of those whose names are best known in the state are regarded as supporters of Vice President Huber H. Humphrey.

Kennedy himself discounted local predictions hat he might get as much as 50 per cent of the Democratic vote.

He said in an invterview he was "not going to join in that numbers game." He said those who were saying is advance that he might come up with a majority are just laying the groundwork to pin a failure on him if he doesn't.

McCarthy aiready has laid down the premise for a second place run to Kennedy. He said that the presence of noncandidate President Johnson's name on the ballot and a sketchily organized write-in for Humphrey will divide the Kennedy opposition and make it difficult for him to keep pace with the New Yorker.

Humphrey, has had his organization disavow any write-in efforts.

NOBODY IN EITHER the Kennedy or McCarthy camp had a good guess on how many voters might write-in Johnson on their ballots despite his March 31 announcement that he would not accept renomination.

It was the general opinion that the progress Paris peace negotiators make before election day might influence some voters to cast their ballots for Johnson on the off chance that the August convention might draft the President.

The state's relatively meager contribution of 30 delegate votes toward the 1,312 needed for the Democratic presidential nomination could be split up without much reference to the outcome of the primary.

Nixon's supporters remained confident he would overwhelm Gov. Ronald Reagan of California, whose name ison the ballot, and Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, for whom a write-in campaign of sorts is being conducted. Nixon got 62 per cent of the vote in Nebraska in his losing race to John F. Kennedy in 1960. Perennial candidate Harold-Stassen, former governor of Minnesota, and Americus Liberator of Valentine, Neb., also are on the REAGAN HAS NOT campaigned in the state, but his supporters bought prime television time for a taped program dipicting his political life and airing his views on national issues. John Mason, Lincoln laywer who heads a "Write in Rocky" organizaton predicted a "surprising vote" for the New York governor. But few local politicians seemed to agree with him.

If Nixon leads the ticket as expected, Nixon is sched- .uled to collect the support of the bulk of the state's 16 convention votes toward the 667 he would need for the presidential nomination! His camp thinks there will be few, if any defections. Rep. David T. Martin, R-Neb., predicted Nixon will rack up 65 per cent of the Republican vote. He said Reagan way poll a fair number of vot es"but I don't look for any sizeable vote for Rockefeller." Gov. Norbert Tiemann, also a Republican, has estimated Nixon's potential vote as high as 70 per cent.

S.S. CATALINA RESTS AT SHIP GRAVEYARD

By JACK BALDWIN

The "Big White Steamer," the ship that carried more than 2.5 million tourists to and from Catalina Island, was towed to a ship's graveyard on Saturday, suffering, claim her operators, from a series of incurable maritime maladies.

Charlie Stillwell, president and general manager of MGRS Company Inc., which has operated the 2,240-passenger SS Catalina on a round-trip basis be-tween the mainland and the city of Avalon since 1960, ordered the vessel to the scrap heap after declaring the situation "hopeless" Saturday morning.

The 63-year-old operator, speaking with moist eyes and a voice that cracked with emotion said:

"My God, I don't want to do this. I have no choice!"

STILLWELL SAID a clause in the contract with the maritime union pre-vented any possibility of selling the ship to an interested buyer in the Philippine Islands.

"I discovered the contract with the unions declares I must pay one month's salary for every year a crew member has worked aboard the vessel if the ship is sold to a foreign country," Stillwell said.

"Under those terms, I know of at least two men I would have to pay $8,000 cach in severance pay," he noted. "That means I would have to put out 'more in severance pay than I would be able to get by selling her," he said,

"Today, reluctantly, I ordered the SS Catalina taken to the yards of the National Metal and Steel Co. We will remove approximately $4,500 in new radar gear, some other electronic equipment and salvageable furniture," Stillwell said.
"As scrap steel she will bring about a penny and a half a pound. Maybe a little more for the bronze propellers. It should total out to about $38,000," he

Stillwell said he realized the crosschannel cruise ship was doomed when the Marine Engineers Beneficial Association and the Marine Firemens Union refused to yield on what he claimed were unrealistic demands for manning the

"I LOST $28,000 last year and a total of $111,000 since I started operating the ship in 1960. The U.S. Coast Guard ruled that I need but 43 men to man the vessel. But the unions demand I man it with 64 men. It simply is not economically possible to operate with that much featherbedding," Stillwell charged.

"When I ordered the ship towed from the Catalina Terminal here in San Pedro and taken out to anchor, many people said I was merely trying to blackjack the unions. I wasn't kidding then. I am not kidding now. The 'Big White Steamer' will sail no more," he said.

Earlier last week, Stillwell said he had received two inquiries from the Philippines from companies expressing interest in purchasing the SS Catalina as an inter-island cruise ship. However, as of Saturday, he said he had talked with only one prospective

It was during this discussion that he discovered the "sleeper clause" relating to the month-per-year severance

During the past eight years, Stillwell has operated the SS Catalina during the month of May on weekends only, starting daily service between the mainland and the island on Mcmo-

THE DISCONTINUANCE of service of the Big White Steamer has been noticed in an upsurge of passengers carried by Catalina Motor Cruises, which also operates out of the new $2 million Catalina Terminal in San Pedro.

Tim Mazur, president of CMC, reported Saturday his five boats had carried more than 850 passengers to the

"We can handle at least 2,000 passengers on a weekend," Mazur said.

The CMC has on order two $1,100,000 aluminum-hulled, 25-knot boats of 500 passenger capacity. The first hoat is due to be delivered in April of 1969; the second is scheduled to be delivered 90 days after the first one, Mazur said.

LBJ Says Secret Probe Hits Budget Cut Viet AID Graft Dangerous

New York Times Service

HOT SPRINGS, Va. -President Johnson warned Saturday that a budget reduction of the size contained in the pending tax bill would "sow more seeds of despair and frustration" among the poor throughout the nation.

He stopped short, how-eyer, of threatening to veto the tax increase legislation if congress passes it with the present requirement that government spending next year be reduced by $6 billion from the level Johnson proposed in his budget in January.

Instead, the President expressed the belief that congress itself would come to ree with him that a budget reduction of $4 billion is as much as is possible to undertake "safely."

Johnson's statement came as reports continued to circulate in Washington that new attempts would be made next week to loosen the spending restrictions that were contained in the tax bill, approved Thurs-day by a joint Senate-House Conference Committne. It is this bill that contains the mandatory $6-, billion spending cut. Johnson made his appeal in a speech before the Business Council, an organiza-tion of more than 100 business executives, most of them heads of giant corporations, which meets periodically with government officials to exchange ideas on public issues.

Striking Machinist Reject 'Final' Offer

SAN FRANCISCO (UPT) - The strike by 6,000 machinists against major employers in San Francisco remained deadlocked Saturday after union negotiators rejected a "final" offer.

W. J. Ray, managing director of the California Metal Trades Association, said the employers presented a proposal that was better than one which ended a walkout against Ampex , Corp. in Redwood City.

WASHINGTON (AP) --- A secret Senate report charges there are definite indications of kickbacks in a U.S. construction project in South Vietnam - a country where, it says, millions of dollars are being "squandered because of inefficiency, dishonesty, corrup-tion and foolishness."

The 75-page document, prepared by Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., after a tour of Southeast Asia last December, urges a broad congressional investigation of U.S. operations and programs in the war zone.

Ribicoff's report has been filed with the Senate permanent investigations subcommittee. The document has not been made public, but the Associated Press obtained a copy of it.

Ribicoff describes the Agency for International Development mission in Saigon as "one of the most overblown bureaucracies l have ever seen."

"It is obvious," Ribicoff writes, "that a thorough investigation in depth would swiftly bring about corrective measures which would save many millions of dol-lars in federal funds."

In reporting on U,S.-financed construction pro-jects in Vietnam, he says the General Accounting Office should examine contracts held by Pacific Architects & Engineers Inc., a Los Angeles firm, and RMK-BRJ, a joint venture that includes Raymond International of Delaware, Inc., Morris Knudsen of Asia Inc., Brown & Root Inc., and J. However, MGRS president and general Manager Charles Stillwell failed to do two things:

1. Notify the scrap metal operators he wanted the ship scrapped.

2. Notify the Public Utilities Commission that he is scrapping the ship and cutting off the service which he is obligated by law

At the scrap dock, an official, who requested anonymity, said the ship was "just using our dock."

"I don't think there's any intention of scrapping her nothing has been discussed, on that score. We do have a 30-day option to buy her,

Meanwhile, at the Public Utilities Commission offices in Los Angeles, officials said they "expected" Mr. Stillwell to begin his regular San Pedro to Catalina runs with the steamer May 30.

"If he planned for some reason to stop the service, he is obligated to notify the Public Utilities Commission—this he has not done.

THE REQUEST to be relieved of the obligation, Patterson said, must be filed with the Commission, and unless the group gives him permission to cease operations, he "must" continue or be in contempt of the Commission.

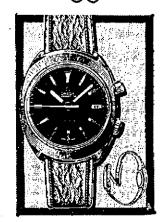

"All we can do." Patterson added, "is assume Mr. Stillwell will have the sup in operation by May 30and we can take no action until he fails to do so."

Rescued Miners (right), 14 in All Can't Stop Grinning as Friends Gather Round Shortly After They Emerged

5 Days of Uncertainty Gives Way to Joy for Rescued Miners

HOMINY FALLS, W. Va. (P) - At first there was only silence as, one-by-one, 15 coal miners stepped out of the mountain that had held them captive for five

They walked slowly, stiffly, from a conveyor belt toward their families, their miners' headlights piercing the pre-dawn mist.

Then, as if by signal, the realization came to miners, families and rescuers alike: They were really safe. They were out.

The men were trapped late Monday morning when water from an abandoned coal mine flooded the shaft in which they were working. Freedom came early Saturday morning. Five days of uncertainty fell

This is really it" shouted Mrs. Lonnie Bennett. "This is really the best time.

THERE WAS a great rush forward by the 200 people there and the scene became hedlam. The men, blackened from hardhat to boot, clumsily put their arms around their wives but 118 hours of crouching in the musty, damp darkness made even this motion difficult.

Their faces split into wide grins.

"Hi va. Barney, how's the boy," shouled the 49-yearold Bennett to a friend.

It seemed everyone was hugging everyone else. The grime rubbed off on the outsiders, but nobody

They were the lucky ones. Another 10 men, not heard from since Monday when millions of gallons of water poured through a wall breach, are presumed dead. Efforts to reach them

A team of mine safety engineers belly-rode a conveyor belt through the low tunnel to reach the men and led them to safety at 5:20 a.m. The men had been in the Gauley Coal and Coke Co. mine 118 hours, cramped in a coal pocket not high enough for a man to stand.

Ambulances whisked the 15 to their homes minutes after the rescue and a preliminary medical checkup. Nine later went to a hospital in nearby Richwood for examination.

"They are strong men and all appear to be none the worse for their experience," said Sister Mary Monica, administrator of Sacred Heart Hospital. "Some are suffering from minor dizziness and a

SURE OF RESCUE

Heroic Foreman Eased Long Wait

RICHWOOD, W.Va. 1/Pi— "We had to kneel, crawl and walk hunched over for 30 feet in a flooded tunnel with only our noses above the water's surface."

Frank Davis, one of the heroes of the ordeal in which 15 miners were entombed for five days, was describing the first hours of Monday when "water level was four inches from the ceiling of the tunnel.

Davis was with 14 others when the mine's narrow nassageway suddenly filled with water, Davis, the foreman, ordered the others to a higher level and went deeper into the mine to check on another group of

MINER EDWARD Bozo Rudd went with him.

They got only part of the way, when it became impossible to go farther. They were also prevented from rejoining the 13 others.

'At the beginning, Rudd thought this was the end," Davis said, "but I managed to persuade him to look at the brighter side, that we would be saved."

"I told him, don't hope do, anything in the way of rescue before Thursday night. But we're definitely going to be rescued," Davis

Rudd didn't believe him fully, however, Davis said, until he heard over the mine telephone that water was being pumped out of the mine entrance.

"That's when we knew we were all right," Davis said. "He admitted we were all right then."

DAVIS HELPED direct rescue operations over the telephone, crawling occasionally to the flooded passageway to check on the water flow. He also gave words of encouragement to the group of 13 over the telephone, advising them to "keep cool," Friday morning he and Rudd were able to link up with the others again.

"We embraced each other and the men were tremendously happy about this clear cut evidence that water was receding," Davis

The 43-year-old Davis has worked in the mines since he was 17. He is a deeply religious man and teaches Sunday school at the First Baptist Church in Rich-weakness in their legs, but this is only to be expected."

THE BREAKTHROUGH to the men - marooned one mile inside from the mine entrance -- came almost suddenly. It followed a, frustrating night when rescue directors had to set back the estimated rescue hour time and again.

Though officials knew the men were on high ground and dry, they want-ed the water level in the flooded passageway as low as possible. Giant pumps capable of draining 3,200 gallons per minute from the shaft, labored through the week to lower the water.

The miners, once the safety engineers reached them, climbed aboard the slow-moving conveyor belt, lying as flat as they could, and moved toward the mine opening where families and scores of newsmen waited. Elwood o'Dell was the first man out, then another, then a group of six. Another few seconds and the final seven followed.

Rescue teams tossed blankets around the shoulders of the chilled men while Dr. Lee B. Todd gave each a hasty checkup.

Water poured through the mine wall Monday where the work crews were cutting a coal vein. They apparently broke through to an adjacent abandoned mine filled with water.

Thirteen men in group were stranded one mile from the mine entrance. Two others were trapped a mile and a half into the mine. The 10 still missing were two miles inside the downhill-sloping tunnel.

"WE PRAYED and sang and talked about living a better life when we out," Ottie Junior Walton said after he reached home. "We had a real religious bunch down there "

"The hardest thing to get used to down there was sleeping on that coal," he "Man, it sure was

Rain Pelts Wide Area of Nation

Associated Press

Heavy rains filled already swollen streams and rivers from southern Texas to southeastern Missourl Saturday and much of the rain was accompanied by strong winds.

San Antonio, Tex., recorded .91 inches of rain in six hours while Austin, Tex., measured .75 inches. Little Rock, Ark. had .45 inches. A storm that moved through Ohio left a pattern of from one-half to one inch in the state.

Wind gusts up to 70 miles an hour ripped through Yorktown, south of San Antonio. The winds-torm was accompanied by a heavy downpour. A funnel cloud was seen 20 miles south of Memphis, Tenn., Saturday afternoon. The widespread rain covered an area from Iowa to Texas and eastward into Florida and up to New Jersey.

Tornado watches were in effect for parts of southeas-tern and south central Texas and for parts of Tennessee, Alabama, Kentucky and Mississippi.

In the South, Homestead Air Force Base near Miami, Fla. was deluged with a downpour of 3.91 inches. Miami itself got only 80

Police said Owen toldthem he ordered Small to leave when he "tried to make advances," but when Small refused the two men drank beer and argued for an hour.

Then, Owen said he took a .22-caliber rifle from a hedroom closet, told Small to leave again and shot him while he stood in the doorway.

The suspect told officers he summoned police after the shooting.

County Pay Hikes Outlined

Pay adjustments recommended for Orange County's more than 6,000 employes will be reported to the supervisors Monday as averaging 6.5 per cent, with fringe benefits figured in the wage package.

William C. Harl, county

William C. Harl, county personnel officer, revised the previously-announced 5.5 per cent hike by explaining that pay changes to nurses will be included although their schedules of pay had been approved previously.

He said the pay increase proposed to be $3.324 million is actually 6.2 per cent, and that the fringe benefits account for the rest.

Supervisors meet Monday at 2 p.m. to hear department heads outline their budgets and to hear demands for even higher pay from Manager John H. Sawyer of the Orange County Employes Association. He wants a 9.5 per cent pay hike for the county workers. It would cost over $5 million.

It will be the first of a series of meetings; they will meet at 9:30 a.m. both Thursday and Friday for day-long sessions on the pay scales.

Hart said that the pay scale revisions for most employes is 5.5 per cent, representing two steps on the salary scale.

WASHINGTON - The Soviet Union has attempted to launch advanced spacecraft designed to carry men around the moon at least 12 times in the last 17 months, analysts here believe.

This is far more extensive preparation for manned flights around the earth and to the moon than Moscow has acknowledged.

Although each of the 12 flights is believed to have carried a re-entry capsule capable of holding several astronauts, the Russians have described only one launching as a test of manned spacecraft.

That was the ill-fated flight of the Soyuz 1, in which Col. Vladimir M. Komarov was killed on April 24, 1967.

The Sovuz flight was the only one of the 12 known to have carried a human passenger. Two of the flights have never been acknowledged by Moscow, but have become known through United States sources. These were unsuccessful attempts last October and last month to send assemblies weighing 40,000 to 60,000 pounds into an orbit that would send a passenger capsule around the moon and back Supposing, however, that Long Beach and other po-lice departments of comparable size didn't have budget restrictions? What kind of police department could be built for the community and how would the M.department's service and image be changed?

For Police Appreciation Week, Dr. John P. Kenney, Long Beach State College professor of criminology Atalks about the possible new frontier in police work if money were no object. Dr. Kenney has worked as a consultant to police departminets on planning and reorganization.

HE CONCEDES THAT police departments must live within a reasonable onerating budget and rates Long Beach's department rather high, but he would make some imaginative innovations:

 Emphasis would be shifted to crime prevention. · Crime fighting would become computerized,

 Training techniques would be radically changed. A higher standard of quired for rookie officers, Helicopters would supplement mobile patrols. • Merit increases in Salary would be paid qualified field officers.

• The traditional police uniform would be changed. • The name of the department would be changed. Police are rigid traditionalists, Dr. Kenney says, and changes come hard. But the main job of police is and should be crime prevention, he points out. Today, be-cause of manpower shortages and lack of funds to implement new programs, he believes, the emphasis is on enforcement, not prevention.

HE WOULD beef up the police intelligence section so that potential crime spots would be known. He would put officers in the field to take an active part in deliquency control; he would have officers concentrating on crime-prone areas to root out the cause. This special force would be on detached duty from the police department, would not necessarily be in unirm but would ing foot patrol working directly with the residents and the merchants of the crime-prone area.

This would mean devoting full time to crime pre-

Traffic, he says, is one of the police major problems. Motorcycle patrols are a good tool, but not the answer. "It tends to isolate the officers from the total police force. I would recommend patrol cars instead of motorcycles."

He would improve communications between officers in the field and the stationhouse even to the extent of providing officers with Dick Tracy wrist watch radios.

He would create a police library section in the main library with a librarian assigned to gather and catalogue police science mate-

"Today's starting pay scale for police officers is comparable to industry," he says, "but the problem is the way the police departments traditionally pro-mote personnel. In order for an officer to get a better salary, he must be promoted out of the working police role into an administrative job. This leaves much of the real professional po-out of about 300,000 voters is expected in the balloting today-for a new president and National Assembly. Opposing sides are so confident of victory the presidential loser may not accept defeat peacefully.

The prospect of a violent aftermath has caused an exodus of Panamanian familes from this steamy capital, some going to the interior for the weekend and others traveling aborad.

Arnulfo Arias, 67, a U.S.educated medical, doctor turned farmer, and David Samudio, 57, an architectural and construction engineer, are the leading presidential candidates in a three-man race. The third aspriant is Dr. Antonio Gonzalez Revilla, a prominent neurosurgeon backed by the small Christian Democrat party.

Twice ousted forcibly from the presidency, Arias has the support of a powerful five party coalition that look about 70 per cent of the presidential vote in the 1964 elections.

'Pill' Shipments to Carry Warning

WASHINGTON (AP) - Most women taking birth control pills will never see the nine-page warning label that will be required after June 30 on shipments of oral contraceptives to druggists and physicians.

The new label, ordered Friday by the Food and Drug Administration, is primarily for the benefit of those filling and prescribing the pill. Any warning to the patient apparently would be done verbally by the doctor or druggist.

In essence, the label cites findings recently published by British researchers indicating those taking the pill increase their chances of death or disease from blood clots by seven to 10 times.

ALBERTO BOLET Symphony Leader

Bolet Is New L.B. Conductor

The two-year search for a permanent conductor for Long Beach Symphony Orchestra has ended with the appointment of. Alberto Bolet, former conductor of the Havana Philharmonic in Cuba and present conduc-tor of the Bilbao Symphony in Spain-

The selection was announced by Phil Hattery, president of Long Beach Symphony Association.

When he received news of his appointment, Bolet was preparing for a tour of South Africa where he will conduct 41 concerts for the South African Broadcasting Company and five performances of Mozart's opera, "The Magic Flute."

HE SAID, "I am happy and full of enthusiasm over the appointment and look forward to working with the Long Beach orchestra

Bolet was guest conduc-tor for the orchestra's Jan. 28 concert in Long Beach City College Auditorium.

Born in Havana, Bolet was educated and performed widely in Europe. He spent several years in Los Angeles, taking part in Southern California musical activities. He returned to Cuba where he conducted the Havana orchestrá until 1958 when he left because of the political regime.

"I am against the Com-munists," Bolet said

The dynamic director is a frequent guest conductor of Europe's major orchestras and has been engaged a dozen times by the BBC. In the United States, he has conducted the Philadelphia Orchestra and the Dallas and Miami Symphonies in addition to the Long Beach

TWO YEARS ago, Lauris Jones, conductor of Long Beach Symphony for 10 years, resigned. He now is conductor of the San Gabriel Valley Symphony Orchestra.

In the interim, the position of music director has been filled by Akira Endo, who in January won third prize in the 1968 Dimitri Mitropoulos International Music Competition for Conductors. He was the only contestant from the United States to reach the finals and win a prize this year. Endo is on the faculty of Long Beach City College where he is conductor of the college orchestra.

Bolet's contract for one year gives him the option to renew for two consecutive years.

At the close of his South African tour in September, Bolet will move to Long Beach with his wife and son, 9 Two adult sons live on the East Coast.

Wilson Clobbered Again, Won't Quit

LONDON (AP) - Prime Minister Harold Wilson brushed aside demands for his resignation and determined Saturday to ride out the political storm from his Labor party's most catastrophic defeat ever in local

Despite a hostile electorate and press, shakiness in the British pound and a reported division in his cabinet, Wilson was generally expected to hold his office for the coming months at Commentators from all shades of the political spectrum agreed in print that as long as Wilson retains his health and his will to stay at No. 10 Downing St., he is relatively safe over the near term.

BUT THERE was widespread doubt whether he could pull off his long-range gamble — two more years of austerity designed to pull Britain out of its. deep economic troubles, hefore he must call the next general election in 1971.

Asked if he was going to resign, Wilson replied: "The answer is in the nega-

The prime minister, who once said "a week in politicis is a long time, a month is longer and a year is an eternity," has bounced back before.

He brought Labor back from a rout in local elections in 1965 to a victory in the 1966 parliamentary election that increased the party's majority from 4 to

But the drubbing of Laborites in municipal elec-tions across the country last week was unprecedented. Labor lost 1,307 municipal seats and gained 13.

Soviet Space Junk in Fiery Re-Entry at Cape Kennedy

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) -Part of a rocket used to launch a Russian spaceship made a fiery re-entry into the earth's atmosphere over Americas' spaceport Saturday, putting on a spectacu-lar display for area resi-

The space "junk" first appeared as a fireball in the predawn skies, and apparently broke into pieces in searing re-entry.

Police switchboards were flooded with calls from persons wondering about the

"It looked like they (the pieces) were in formation," said police Sgt Bruce Gordon, one of three officers who reported seeing the fireball, "It was the weirdest thing I'd ever seen in my life."

OFFICIALS at America's space center said it was "just a happenstance" that the junk came down over the Cape Kennedy area.

There's nothing unusual at all about this," a spokesman said. "Another Sovietobject came in over the Caribbean and Atlantic last month and that also was

In the past, Cuban Pre-mier Fidel Castro has complained that pieces of malfunctioning American rockets, launched from Cape Kennedy, have fallen on his Communist island.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said the rocket body that fell to earth Saturday was from the Molniya 1 communications satellite spaceport, launched from the Soviet space center at Tyuratam on April 21.

Gordon and officer Bill Wolford were on patrol when they first saw the fireball streaking north-

They radioed dispatcher Jack Link who said he also saw the fireball. He estimated it was about 1,000 to 1,200 feet or higher in the

"IT WASN'T falling from the sky — it was going in a straight line," Gordon said. "At first, we saw one big fireball and then it separated into four or five smaller fireballs - all of them had fiery tails. Then about 10 seconds later, they separated into nine or 10 smaller objects."

Rocket parts go into orbit with each satellite launched and all the debris eventually falls back into the earth's atmosphere.

Nearly all the space junk is burned up by the tremendons heat of friction generated as the objects plunge into the thick laver of air blanketing earth, much like a meteor does.

The Air Force's North American Air Defense Command tracks all space to identify any significant pieces that return to earth.

Sino-Canada Plan to Add 'Stability'

New York Times Service

ister Pierre Elliott Trudeau says Canada must soon bemaking direct contacts. with Communist China as a contribution to "international order and stability."

In a speech in Vancouver he said he would offer diplomatic recognition "under suitable terms."

"The present situation in which a government which represents one-fourth of the world's population is diplomatically isolated even from countries with which it is actively trading is obviously unsatisfactory," he

Trudeau had mentioned Canada's "unsatisfactory" relationship with mainland China which, nevertheless, has bought enormous quantities of Canada's wheat over the last decade, during his campaign for the Liberal party leadership.

HE EMPHASIZED it for the first time as prime minister, significantly, in a west coast address in which

OTTAWA - Prime Min- he called on Canada "to take advantage of its ringside seat on the Pacific."

> The prime minister, who took office three weeks ago, was addressing the British Columbia Council of Foreign Industries, whose members are responsible for 75 per cent of the production of the province's most important industry --lumber and pulp and paper.

Trudeau did n ot say what he regarded as "suitable terms" for recognition of China's Communist government. Before he became prime minister he said on several occasions that Canada could not, after 20 years, withdraw recognition of the Nationalist Chinese government on Communist China has been adamantly opposed to the "two-China" concept advanced at the United Nations by various countries, including Canada.

Crisis Plan to Suspend Bonn Parliament Decried

BONN - About 30,000 West Germans descended on the federal captial Saturday waving red flags and shouting rhymed slogans to protest proposed "emergen-cy legislation" that would empower the government to suspend parliament during a major crisis.

The Bundestag act on the proposal soon.

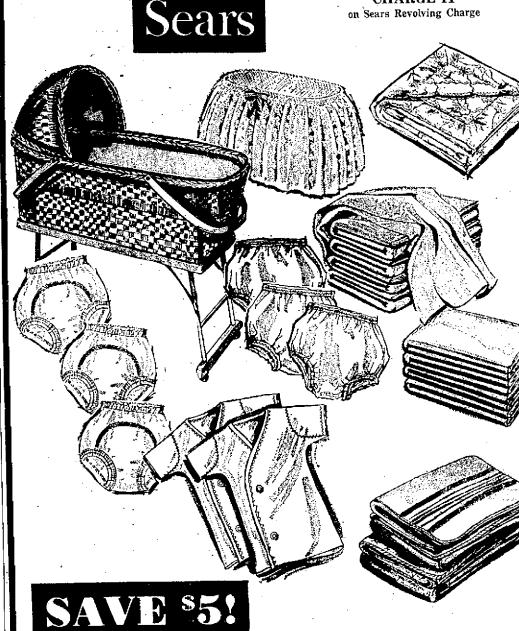

The proposed legislation is opposed by German liberals and leftists, who compared it to the emergency law of the prewar Weimar government. They say that Hitler used the Welmar law to introduce his totalitarian Nazi rule in 1933.

The siege atmosphere began when state and local police rolled out barbed wire fortifications around the Federal district along the Rhine, Motorized units blocked traffic in the vicinity of the Bundestag

PROUD OLD IRVINE MANSION FACES DEMOLITION MONDAY Storied Old House Has Held Social Events, Plus One Mystery

Irvine Mansion to Be Razed

By MOLLY BURRELL

A landmark through nine decades of Orange County history will crumble Monwhen demolition squads start razing the Irvine mansion in Tustin.

The former scene of some of the county's brightest social events, hostel for distinguished visitors, home of one of the area's most colorful characters, and final setting for one of its more baffling mysteries will soon be a memory.

Company officials who authorized the demolition, expressed regret that the home could not be converted into a museum. Engineers, however, recently pronounced it beyond repair and its fate was sealed.

THE 30-ROOM frame structure at Myford Road and Irvine Boulevard sheltered four generations of the family that pioneered the huge Irvine Ranch, carved from three Mexican land grants in 1864. From San Francisco came Scotch Presbyterian merchant James Irvine to oversee his holdings and start his office home in 1876. Subsequent additions in 1892 and 1934 enlarged and revised the mansion into which Irvine's son, James II moved his family from the earthquake city in 1906.

The year 1959 was the mansion's real nemesls, although it was another six years before fire gutted the home and left a scarred shell of former magnifi-

On January 11, 1959, the head of the clan, Myford Irvine, 60, was found dead in the basement, felled by bullets from both a pistol and a shotgun. Subsequent investigations, and exhumation by the Orange County District Attorney's office substantiated the original verdict of suicide, a verdict which was challenged by the family.

tion enveloped the case as officials sought reasons for death of one of the Southland's wealthiest land barons, Finally, in October, 1959, the district attorney declared Irvine's wounds were self-inflicted and marked the case closed. That same year the family moved to Corona del Mar and the lower part of the mansion was converted to office headquarters.

The mansion's most colorful resident was James Irvine II who brought his bride there in 1892 for a visit to what would be his home for 50 years, Devoted to his hunting dogs and horses, fond of fireworks, poetry, and bridge, James II filled the mansion with Indian artifacts and favorite dogs, the yard with quail cages, and the swimming pool with trout. Prior to the days of hot water heaters. Irvine installed on his roof a self-designed solar heater of reflecting panels and coils which supplied hot water.

That was his major concession to comfort prior to 1934 when he authorized central heating, a blessing indeed in a menage of 14foot high ceilings. James' previous replies to complaints about the cold was 'wear a pair of these'' as he hiked up his trousers to reveal long woolen under-reptitiously tossing a single hone to the assembled covey which waited near his

PERSUADED to install a swimming pool on the west side of the mansion, James Il subsequently pronounced it a "waste of good-irrigation water" and stocked it with trout. A few years lat-er he had the pool filled in

LAGUNA ART TO FETE FOUNDERS

To mark the 50th anniversary of the Laguna Beach Art Association, it will show the work of its founding artists at an exhibit June 19.

Along with the show will be a nexhibit "in retrospect," detailing advances in art and changes in interpretation and technique. Following the anniversary, the 14th annual All-California Exhibit sponsored by the association and the Festival of Arts will open. It will be shown July 12 through Aug. 25, coinciding with the Pageant of the after two of his favorite dogs drowned.

Irvine imported several hundred dollars worth of fireworks for his annual July 4 celebration at the mansion — a celebration to which distinguished house guests like Mme. Modjeska, her husband Count Bozenta and pioneer aviator Glenn Martin were often invited.

WITH THE death of James II in 1947, Myford Irvine became master of the manor and a new era of hospitality began. After his death in 1959 and the ravages of fire and neglect, the mansion slowly deteriorated until today it resembles a neglected setting for some post-bellum movie. Still intact and well kept, however, are the lush gar-dens, nurtured by successive generations of horticultural Irvines, which will remain as the only reminder of the past.

Even the ranch headquarters, now parceled among new buildings and trailers in the area east of the mansion will soon disappear, destined for relocation in an ultra-modern high rise building in Newport Center.

Trio Still Missing in Missouri Caves

By LOWELL McKIRGAN

HANNIBAL, Mo. (AP) - A year has passed since three Hannibal boys disappeared after one announced: "We're off to the caves." Not one piece of physical evidence has been found to indicate their fate.

Joey Hoag, 13, shouted to a sister on the afternoon of May 10, 1967. It was the last anyone in the Mississippi River community of about 20,000 heard from Joey who was seen walking with his brother Billy, 11, and Craig

A search of the caves which honeycomb the limestone beneath the city and surrounding countryside revealed nothing. Hundreds of volunteers crawled through the caves which at most points are measured in inches.

"I HAVE TO FACE UP to it some day," Mrs. Helen Dowell, mother of Craig, said recently in an interview. "I can't help but feel they are buried some place around here ... but God only knows where."

Mrs. Dowell has been reluctant to talk at length about her missing son and his friends, ther usual answer has been, "I don't want to exploit a tragedy." She is a waitress at the Becky Thatcher restaurant in

Mrs. Hoag said recently she had received new information about her missing sons. She declined to reveal the nature of the information or its source.

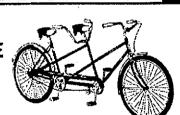

"We can't give up and we won't until we find them one way or the other," she said before losing her voice

During the past year another son, Michael Hoag Jr., 25, died in an automobile accident. Mike had helped search for the missing boys. He was the oldest of the 11 Hoag

The search began the evening of May 10 after one of the boys failed to show up for a church meeting. The Mark Twain Rescue Unit of Hannibal was called out and initial efforts were pointed at Murphy's Cave on Hannibal's south side, near the homes of the boys. The rescue unit also searched the river and some islands.

A Department of Justice "strike force" has been sent from Washington to search out organized crime in the eastern district (Brooklyn, Queens, Staten Island, Nassau and Suffolk) and to coordinate existing law enforcement agencies.

Criminals Run Wild at N.Y. Airports

-The Port Authority, which operates the airports in the metropolitan area, has added to its 142-man police force at Kennedy. It has also submitted to the airlines 24 recommendations to keep unauthorized persons out of their cargo areas and known criminals from their employ.

-In Queens, Dist. Attn. Thomas J. Mackell has kept a grand jury busy since January investigating conditions at Kennedy and other matters involving organized crime in the county. The grand jury has questioned witnesses who testified at the state investigation hearings.

The pending legislation to give the waterfront commission supervision at the airports has stirred deep controversy.

censing and other fees would cost them $750,000 a year at Kennedy alone, some trucking companies that would come under Waterfront Commission jurisdiction at the airports and such long-standing opponents of the commission as the International Longshoremen's Association.

The proposed legislation would give the expanded commission supervision over all airports within a 100-mile radius of the Statue of Liberty, except for military landing fields and airports handling less than 20,000 tons of cargo annually. Commission authority would extend to Kennedy and La Guardia airports in New York; Newark and Teterboro in New Jersey, and a projected jetport in the metropolitan area whose site is yet to be freight terminals, trucking concerns and other companies handling air cargo on the ground would have to be licensed, and their employes would have to be registered with the commission. A system of licensing fees and registrations, to be paid by the employers, is included in the proposed legislation. A man convicted of a felony or high misdemeanor could be barred from an administrative position in a union and from work at the airport unless he received a full pardon or a parole board's certificate of good conduct.

Most of the underworld influence uncovered in the air freight industry has been at Kennedy, whose sprawling 4,900 acres are overcrowded with cargo buildings and heaps of unguarded freight piled even on the aprons of the flying field. More than 40,000 persons are employed full-time ltants, operators of air at the airport.

Sun-tanned and hearty, Juergen Wagner and crewman Holger Rahlif sailed up Alamitos Bay escorted by at least a dozen small craft that met their boat off Pt. Fermin where the 29,700-nautical mile cruise began nearly two

"I had always had a dream to sail around the world," explained Wagner, a hotel and restaurant owner from Ulm, Germany, and a member of the Hamburg Yacht Club.

I had a little sailing blue blood in my-veins from my parents who have sailed for more than 40 years," he continued. He also had considerable sail-racing experience in the Flying Dutchman class behind him in Europe.

"Holger was an old friend and on the cruise he came to be not a crewman but even more of a friend," Wagner said. "In nearly two years with just the two of us on the World Cat, there was never one bad word between us."

"If there had been," joked Rahlff, "in the catamaran we could have sawed the hulls apart and paddled away."

RAHLFF, a 24-year-old medical student from the Uniersity of Hamburg, did not have his 33-year-old companion's "sailing blue blood" but had also loved the water since he was a child. His previous experience was in racing eight-oared or four-oared rowing shells.

The young sailors started their world cruise, the first in an unballasted catamaran, by setting out July 2, 1966, in the Trans-Pacific Race from Pt. Fermin to the Hawalian Is-

"WE MADE the crossing from the Indian to the South Atlantic oceans during the off season between winter and spring," Wagner said. "I don't remember a single day that we had winds of less than 30 knots.

"In four days we were hit by three storms from three different directions and none of them, had less than 60 knot winds. The winds would blow, then yeer around and hit us from somewhere else. "We had to change with each other at the helm every 20 minutes because the temperatures were near the freezing point." Although many similar-sized craft have sailed around the world, the only other catamaran to circumnavigate the globe did so with lead ballast in her hull.

The boat's designer, Woody Choy compared the pairs 195 day's, 20 hours at sea to Sir Francis Chichester's single-handed voyage in the Gypsy Moth. "Sailing is a dangerous sport - like auto racing or mountain climbing — but with proper seamanship it is perfectly safe," Choy said. "Nothing man designs, includ-ing a rocking chair, is completely safe. But with seamanship like that of Juergen and Holger, sailing can be as safe

Legislators Get Together On Job Bills

THE CALIFORNIA Legislature's ability to act constructively in this election year is being severely tested. Partisan tempers have been ruffled by budget-cutting differences and by Gov. Reagan's "political slum clearance" remarks, which he said were misinterpreted. Compounding the inter-party squabbles is a dispute between the Senate and the Assembly over a pre-primary re-

Yet there is real hope for accomplishment in one field, the reorganization of the state's efforts to promote full-time jobs for the more than 400,000 unemployed Californians.

A PACKAGE of six bills to further that purpose has the strong bipartisan endorsement of Speaker Jesse M. Unruh and Minority Leader Robert Monagan. Joining them in statements of support were Lt. Gov. Robert H. Finch, chairman of the state's Job Training and Placement Council, and Leon D. Ralph, the young South-east Los Angeles legislator who • heads the Assembly Subcommittee "on Urban Problems.

"The bipartisan nature of these ... bills indicates the seriousness with which we all view the critical need for action now," Finch observed.

Unruh also emphasized that "partisan politics has no part to play" in the attack on critical urban job-

Cooperation Fine, But No Merger

MAYOR SAM YORTY came down from Smogville the other day to revive the old project of merging the Los Angeles and Long Beach harbors.

. Rotarians were pleased to welcome the visiting dignitary. Responding in kind, Yorty kept his remarks in a noncombative vein. Rather than an outright merger, he argued primarily for combining the administration of the two harbors to save money.

to outlive," said the mayor.

This sounds reasonable enough. Long Beach harbor officials are not opposed to listening to any specific ideas the mayor may have for cooperation between the two ports in the interest of economy.

However, they too are troubled on the score of provincialism. As is well known, Los Angeles has a provincial and outmoded system in which the mayor himself can exercise a great deal of power over its harbor. He appoints and may der the guise of a merger.

Resources Development to provide a wide range of services to chronically unemployed persons. It would also establish a system of "job agents" responsible for counseling, training and job placement of hard-core unemployed.

-AB 1046 would provide technical help to small businessmen who desire to locate in ghettoneighborhoods.

-AB 109 would establish the nonprofit regional California Job Development Corporations backed by a guarantee loan fund to help finance minority business ownership and employment incentives.

-AB 1777 would encourage banks to participate in California Job Development Corporations.

-AB 1966 would grant tax incentives to small business employwho place hard-core unemployed persons in full-time jobs.

Again in a bipartisan vein, the package incorporates a number of suggestions that originated in Gov. Reagan's office.

MUCH OF the legislation is aimed to reach directly into ghetto neighborhoods where the unemployment rate is reported above 30 per cent — "probably worse than it was during the depression period of the 1930s," according to Sen. Ralph C. Dills, D-Gardena. The statewide jobless average is 4.6 per cent and the national average 3.5 per cent.

Sponsors of the package believe it is "clearly the most important legislative development of 1968." It is encouraging that party rivalries have been set aside in the opening stage. While all the bills should be subjected to close scrutinv. the leadership of both parties must resist the provocations of the campaign season as they guide the proposals to final passage.

EDITOR: My next door neighbor called my attention to the Long Beach Community Improvement League by showing me some literature dispersed by the League. The package also contained your very fine presentation of the League's projects here in Long Beach. ## Race Issue in Probation Dept. Squabble

A RACIAL issue has thus far been kept under the surface in the controversy whether a man without a college degree should take over the reins of the County Probation Department.

Center of the controversy is Clarence Cabell, a Negro, who is director of the county's central juvenile hall.

Only department-head jobs historically assigned to minority-bloc employes have gone to Negroes in recent county history. The boss of the county janitors presently is a Ne-Robert Z. Hardon, chief of building services.

And the man who has the tough job of trying to smooth racial relations in the ghetto areas also is a Negro — Herbert Carter, executive director of the Human Relations Commission.

EXCEPT FOR that, Negroes have not been appointed to major department directorships in Los Angeles County's sprawling government.

The current controversy developed over county personnel screening to replace Chief Probation Officer Leland C. Carter, who is retiring from his

$29,484-a-year job. Cabell, who doesn't have a college degree because his service dates back to the era when probation officers didn't have to obtain a degree for county employment, finished second in an April 11 civil-service exam for Carter's job.

Under county rules that certify the top three test-scorers as eligible, Ca-

In other words, the union has called for disqualifying any one without a college degree — a move that would rule out Cabell. The union sued unsuccessfully for a court order to that effect. Similar appeals for a degree-requirement were rejected by County Supervisors.

In all public statements, the union has said that its prime interest is in maintaining standards of education.

Union official Ralph Merola told supervisors that elimination of the college requirement is a "slap in the for union members because entering probation officers now must have at least a bachelor's degree.

Personnel Director Gordon T. Nesvig, who doesn't have a college degree, previously ruled that there is no need to impose a college requirement on county officials who already have demonstrated their administrative the topic of race has been whispered about increasingly.

THE ANTI-Cabell faction insists that everything is stacked in Cabell's favor so that County Supervisors can have an election-year showcase appointment of a Negro to a major job. Supervisor Kenneth Hahn, who faces an election challenge from Negro Los Angeles Councilman Billy G. Mills, would profit politically from such an appointment, according to one theory.

In most cases, County Supervisors pick the top scorer for an executive

The pro-Cabeli faction insists the stress on a college degree by the union is not its real area of concern. Rather, it theorizes, Cabell is known as a strict administrator and isn't liketo be favorable to union organizing activities.

If a college degree ever becomes mandatory to hold onto top county executive positions, heads may roll all over the county "campus."

Among those without a degree: Chief Administrative Officer Lindon their stock reply was, "We know History remembers the party as the "Know-Nothings."

Encyclopedia Americana, discussion of a number of off-beat parties and factions from 1800, reports that most of the Know-Nothing records were ultimately destroyed, and notes that the movement was "a strange and sinister phenomenon in American society, fortunately broken up before it became too dangerous."

It had its disquieting hour in history however. It elected five senators and 43 representatives in the 34th Congress (1855-57), governors Massachusetts and Delaware, mayor of Boston and virtually all the Massachusetts legislature.

How about the Quids? This faction was a group of Republicans opposed to the Jefferson administration's alleged backstairs influences over Congress. A scomful critic called their leader, John Randolph of Virginia, "tertium quid," - Latin for nonentity.

LOCOFOCOS got their name at a stormy Democratic Party meeting Oct. 29, 1835 in New York's Tammany Hall. The chairman tried to end the meeting by extinguishing the lights. His opponents outwitted him by lighting the newfangled Loco-Foco matches and carried on.

There was a scenario in the 1850s something like the contemporary phenomenon of a Communist who worked for the FBI and became a darling of the John Birch Society.

Millard Fillmore started his career with the Anti-Masonic Party and ended it as the 1856 presidential candidate of the Know-Nothings. The Anti-Masons were dedicated to denying election to all members of sesocieties, particularly the Masons, while the Know-Nothings were based entirely on secret societies.

THE ANTI MASONS followed the 1826 disappearance of an author who purportedly disclosed secrets of the Masonic order. Masons were gen-erally blamed for his disappearance.

The Anti-Masonic Party's first can-didate for President was William Wirt of Maryland - a Mason.

Third party efforts have had many failures, and a success. The Mugwumps, named for the Algonquin Indian term for "big chief," but popularly defined as a political bird with his mug on one side of the fence and his wump on the other, failed to dent Grant's landslide victory of 1872.

But the Bull Mooses (Progressive Party) cost Republicans the Presidency in 1912. The name derived from leader Teddy Roosevelt's claim he was "fit as a bull moose,"

Economist Knifes Property Tax

From Our National Bureau

WASHINGTON - In a report to a federal commission, a noted economist has let a few arrows at a tough old dragon—the property tax.

The economist, Dr. Dick Netzer of
New York University, recommended several ways of defanging the creature in a scholarly study he submitted to the National Commission on Urban Problems.

Dr. Netzer's study and conclusions are particularly worthy of note in urbanized areas of California, which have crazy-quilt patterns of jurisdictions which take varying bites from the property tax buck.

There are, for example, some 3,000 taxing agencies in Los Angeles County with total rates that vary from $6.64 in Beverly Hills to $11.69 in worth $16,000 (assuming there were such a thing) would cost its owner $265 while the tax on the same home in Compton would be $462.

THE COMPTON-Beverly Hills comparisons epitomizes Dr. Netzer's contention that the property tax as now generally applied is manifestly unfair, that it fractures the budget of the poor man to a relatively greater extent than it does that of the well-to-

Dr. Netzer obviously would like to see elimination of the property levy, which he calls "a generally inferior tax instrument." But he realistically would settle for changes in the system that would make it fairer and with less of a tendency to grow

Some of the changes he suggests are mechanical. For example, use of computer techniques for the valuation and billing functions of the assessment process in large jurisdictions (over 500,000 population) would result in greater uniformity. This has been tried in California with "extraordinarily good results."

Dr. Netzer points out that efficient use of such a system in many areas calls for a wider geographic assess-ment range and leads to the far touchier hypothesis of larger tax base

One method of the latter is regional or state-wide taxation of business."to eliminate local competition for economic activity and attendant pressures on land use planning."

HOWEVER, DR. Netzer gives more attention to the possibility or regionalized financing of such governmental basics as schooling, which accounts for about half of property tax bills.

"Under this scheme, state school ald would continue as at present, but Netzer explains. "The area authority would levy a uniform area-wide property tax and distribute this revenue and the state aid on a per pupil basis. "For most school districts; this would provide adequate program levels. However, they would be free to supplement the levels with local lev-

THIS SPREADING of the tax base described by Dr. Netzer has been successfully used in California in some other areas, such as flood control, but its application to functions such as education is not likely to be warmly received by local politicians who jealously guard their taxing autono-

He recognizes this by stating that the alternatives to property tax increases and inequities "require a willingness to accept real change in that most conservative of all institutions, local government."

Even within his academic cloister, Dr. Netzer can hear the protesting screams of tens of thousands of city councils and school boards.

THE NEW POLITICS. By James M. Perry. Clarkson N. Potter, Inc., $4.95.

Examined in the 230 pages are the new techniques, resources and gadge-try utilized by politicians to influence, and oft-times to manipulate, the American voter,

Dozens of recent political campaigns for high office gave Perry, a senior editor of the National Observer, reasons to infer that "the old order finally has changed."

He is convinced that the traditional party organization can no longer win elections when opposed by the new managers and new techniques.

Old methods of campaigning, in the author's view, now give way to such modern devices as scientific polling, imaginative use of television and the employment of computers to process data.—Jim Goodrich.

TWO LARGE VOLUMES have come to my attention. One is titled "Catalog of Federal Assistance Pro-It has 701 pages - beautifully printed and charted. The other is a "Handbook for Local Officials," 300 pages with pictures of President Johnson and Vice President Humphrey to lead off. Both volumes give over 600 federal assistance programs available to individuals and other levels of gov-

It is an indication of how we have come to be so dependent on the federal government for most of the things people in other generations did for themselves. It is also the reason for the controls over our daily lives that have been taken over by a govern-ment that gives to us with one hand and takes away even more with the

THE TRAGIC PART of these welfare programs is that in many ways have destroyed the individual initiative of many people who count on government checks to finance them for things past generations have provided for themselves. But the power of the federal government is increased over these people who are described by one writer as "not being willing to shoot Santa Claus."

We have seen this trend in operation in many past generations in other countries. It was the cause of the disastrous inflation and destruction of the economy in Germany - when the value of the currency was reduced to a point where it took a million marks to buy what five would buy a few years before. Today it takes 640 lira in Italy to buy what 20 would buy before World War II. In Brazil it takes 3200 cruzeiros to huy what 20 would buy at that earlier period.

By contrast we have maintained most of our individual freedom and monetary stability in this country. But it is being eroded away at an increasing pace -- as government spending on these programs is much greater than it takes in — and yet these volumes encourage ever greater demands for more subsidies by government rather than that people accept greater responsibility to do for themselves as follows: "Freedom is the right to make decisions — on religion — on politics — on economics — on purchases — on your family relationships - on your friends. The difference between communism and capitalism is the difference in where the decisions are made. In a Communist society the decisions are made at the peak of the political pyramid. In our society, which we call capitalistic, those decisions are made at a rather low level and they are made tentatively. These decisions are either confirmed or rejected by the

More recently that same motor company marketed a Mustang. The marketplace confirmed the decision made by the leaders in Ford. In Russia a Mustang would be nothing more than a wild horse on the western plains.

Gov. Ronald Reagan wants to put a ceiling on family welfare benefits at $275 a month. Local welfare administrators call the proposal "unrealistic."

"I don't know how it would work for a family of eight," commented Gordon Johnson, Long Beach office director of the State Department of Public Social Services.

"I can't make it now on $500," said a mother of six, who heads her house-

County Supervisor Kenneth Hahn charged that Gov. Reagan was using the poor as "punching bags" in his proposal aimed at reducing state expenditures.

Hahn said: "I do not see how any family with six children or more should be expected to live on $275 a WHILE ADMITTING a need for welfare reform, Hahn suggested the big push ought to be to find jobs for persons on relief rolls.

Reagan's basis for asking that the welfare budget be shaved: welfare re-cipients are increasing in California at per cent over the last decade while the population went up only 38 per cent, noted the governor.

Some 12,547 Los Angeles County families on public assistance have six or mote children.

In Long Beach, 5,000 households draw benefits under the Aid to Families with Dependent Children.

Relief checks rarely cover family expenses, so recipients have to look for supplementary incomes, according to social workers.

Recommended by the Presidential Commission on Civil Disorders (Kerner commission) is an increase in welfare benefits to the plateau of the an-

$3,335-a-year mark set by the Social Security Administration for an urban ramily of four.

SUCH A family on relief in Long Beach each year gets $2,652 - or $683 less than the suggested hike.

Local welfare administrators tend to go along with the commission's recommendation, reports social services chief Johnson.

A large elderly population and many immigrants would benefit from an increase in relief checks.

Welfare reformists sharing that philosophy would drop from relief rolls all able-bodied men able to work and mothers who have baby after baby out of wedlock.

In the central city the most pressing relief problem arises in the broken home where no one can hold a job.

A much-publicized report by Daniel Moynihan depicted the plight in such a household.

Left to rear the children is the woman. Her husband moved out of the house when he could not find work to support his family.

She is too occupied with household chores to work.

Rent takes a chunk of the welfare

Most of the time the mother cannot marshal enough money to feed and clothe the brood

Ill-fed, ill-clothed and neglected at home the children suffer. In school they lag in grades.

PUBLIC WELFARE, observed the Kerner commission, "is designed to save money instead of people, and tragically ends up doing neither."

Not only does it exclude large numbers of persons in need, in the opinion of the commission, it also provides assistance below the minimum needed for a decent existence.

Criticized by the panel were the policies that keep "millions of men and women" from federal funds they need but cannot qualify for because they are neither aged, handicapped nor the parents of minor children.

Because the only protester was using his own residential property for business, the Planning Commission has voted to permit Dooley's Hardware Mart to use residential property at 30-34 W. Home St. for a parking lot.

Loren A. Smith of Fullerton, who owns a duplex which is surrounded by parking lots for Dooley's, contended the store is isolating residential property with its parking lots and thus cutting their value.

"It's like living in a house trailer in the middle of a freeway," Smith declared.

RICHARD Dooley, vice president of the hardware firm, said the property which is being "cut off" by the proposed new lot is firm, zoned for residences, but is being used for a real estate agency.

Commissioner Edwin J. Wilson pointed out that Smith purchased his property after it already had been surrounded by parking lots, and that he is using half of the duplex as a

Restoring Cemetery a Problem

The problem of how to restore the old Yorba Cem-etery, which the County of Orange took over last year to convert into a county monument, is plaguing the Board of Supervisors.

William J. Phillips pervisor from Fullerton who engineered the acquisition from the Roman Catholic Archdiocese, said vol-unteer contributions might reinforce the county's outlay to restore the cemetery, which lies on a knoll in a field near Esperanza Road and Orangethorpe Avenue in the county's northeast-ern section.

The Placentia-Yorba Heritage Society donated $250 toward the restoration, but that's only a small part of what the county may have to spend.

COUNTY Administrator Robert E. Thomas said fencing and lighting the cemetery will cost at least $5,400. If a resident caretaker is assigned, it will be "much more" costly.

Vandalism at the cemetery, long untended, has included the theft of some headstones.

The cemetery is the burial site of most of the pioneer Yorba clan; the burial ground was sanctified in 1858 when Bernardo Yorba estabilshde it for members of his family and for other pioneer Mexican and Span-

ORANGE COUNTY INDUSTRY HELPS

Job-Finding Group in Business

By MOLLY BURRELL

An organized effort to channel hard core unemployed into the mainstream of Orange County's economic life is now under

In an office in the County Chamber of Commerce building in Anaheim, the newly formed Management Council for Merit Employment is in business under the direction of a former Army lieutenant colonel whose specialty is public relations.

Says Allen E. Deming: "We hope to be both liaison and catalyst in a pilot program patterned after a private foundation in Los Angeles. The liaison would be between minority unemployed and industry. The catalyst activity would hopefully stem from our rapport with industry and minority groups," he says.

MODEL FOR the group's activities is the Los Angeles Management Council for Merit Employment, Training and Research formed by Chad McClellan in 1965 following the Watts riots. That group has been responsible for cutting an estimated 30,000 minority unemployed to work in jobs which 70 per cent of them still hold, says Deming.

The Orange County

group, two years in the organizing, is the outcome of 1966 County Chamber of Commerce recommendation for a "comprehensive program to improve the situation of disadvantaged minority groups, prevent the further establishment of ghettos in Orange County, and to motivate and train the so-called 'hardcore' unemployables in order to remove them from federal, state and county welfare and relief rolls." Its tion with representatives of board of directors is headed by Dr. Arnold O. Beckman and reads like a Who's Who of Orange County industry.

OBJECTIVES of the Orange County Council include inventory of existing employment needs of minorities and industry, a survey of existing and possible training programs, an analysis of skills needed for various jobs, and, when advisable, recommending revised testing and hiring procedures.

"We won't be able to talk to each individual, we haven't the personnel," says Deming, "We'll deal with spokesmen for the various groups."

Deming's public relations background includes Army public affairs posts, chief of Army Information Service in Hollywood, adviser to movie, TV, radio and news media. He just completed five months as technical adviser to David Wolper on tried without results - nere's good news.

Exclusive Formula Promptly Stops Itching, and Relieves Pain of Piles In Most Cases

A scientific research institute discovered a special medication which has the ability, in most cases - to promptly stop the burning itch, relieve pain and actually shrink hemorrhoids.

IT'S A (FIVE) GRAND FEELING.

A's owner Charles Finley Saturday. It called for $5,000 raise after Hunter's perfect game Wednesday night. His catcher, Jim Pagliaroni of Long Beach, got $1,000 raise—and gold watch from Hunter. Story on Page S-2.

NEW YORK (P) - The last of the old Yankees has become a folk hero at Yankee Stadium.

When Mickey Mantle pops high to the shortstop the kids in the upper deck boo the man for catching the ball. And when Mantle gets hold of one and rides it into the yawning caverns of the old stadium, the place throbs

It wasn't always the same. In the 1950s, Mickey caught it from all sides if he struck out, threw his cap, tossed a bat or kicked the water cooler in the dugout. He was considered fair game for the boo birds who seemed to resent the intense publicity buildup he had been given as the successor to Joe DiMaggio, Lou Gehrig and Babe Ruth.

In 1961, the year of Roger Maris, Mickey suddenly became the underdog. The boos changed to cheers. "Mickey has matured in every way," manager Ralph Houk answered when asked how Mantle had changed. "He has learned how to handle himself in all situations. Then, after a brief pause, Houk added:

"But he's still just a boy at heart. He loves to play ball. And he wants to win." Mantle, of course, is a first baseman these days. Not a bad first baseman, either, as they go. He is no George Sis-ler, Gil Hodges or even Joe Pepitone. Neither is he a Phil Weintrabu or a Zeke Bonura. When the Yanks decided to shift Mantle to first base before the 1967 spring training season, there were serious doubts about the wisdom of the move. 'First Base No Solution For Mickey," one headline read. It was argued that the movements around first base, with the increased possibility of collisions, would prove too much for Mantle's battered legs and knees.

"I feel like crying when I see how the guy runs," said Reggie Jackson this spring when the Oakland A's were in town for their first visit. "I'd almost hate to throw him out, but it's my job."

Carl Yastrzemski of the Boston Red Sox once commented, "I wince when I see his leg buckle under him when he runs."

Mantle refused to buy any of this sympathy, "I feel better now than I have in years," he said. "Playing first base has helped a lot."

How long will Mantle continue to play? 'Who knows" he said, "Maybe two or three years. It all depends how I feel. Right now, I feel fine."

When the time does come for Mantle to call it a career it will be a sad day for the troubled Yankees. Folk heroes are in very short supply these days in the Bronx.

ST. LOUIS (AP) - Pinch runner Bobby Tolan raced home on pitcher Mike Cuellar's throwing error in the 13th inning, giving the St. Louis Cardinals a 4-3 victory over the Houston Astros Saturday night. It was the second error of the inning for Cuellar.

Johnny Edwards opened the 13th with a double and moved to third when Cuellar threw wide on Dick Simpson's bunt. Then Tolan ran for Edwards and scored when Cuellar threw wild to second on Dal Maxvill's bounder.

Both teams scored in the 12th. Pinch hitter Norm Miller's single delivered Bob Aspromonte with the lead run for Houston in the top half but the Cards tied it again when Lou Brock opened with a triple and scored on Julian Javier's sacrifice fly.

Brock scored the Cards' first run in the opening inning after his double and two walks had loaded the Carde two walks had loaded the bases with none out. # Boyer, 37, Enthused by Shape of Future

By GEORGE LEDERER Staff Writer

- Ken Boyer has not batted against a major league pitcher for 11 days, but is confident he hasn't lost his touch.

"I can still pull a ball," said the 37-year-old veteran as he pulled on a Dodger sweatshirt for the first time Saturday night. Boyer, signed as a free agent after drawing his release from the White Sox, said he is in "great shape," is looking forward not only to the remainder of this term, but to at least two or three more.

"The important thing for me is to get through this year, what with expansion coming up. There are a lot of others in that category. Just because I was released doesn't mean I'm through.

"I had an idea what was coming, I was willing to bet I wouldn't make the West Coast trip with the Sox. When you lose 10 in a row, you've got to make some changes. I started every other game and got a hit in each, but he (White Sox manager Eddie Stanky) said he was looking for a winning combination. "They told me they wanted to find a regular spot for (Pete) Ward and they had a youngster (infielder Bill Melton) coming up from Hawaii. I figured I might be traded."

Boyer, free to make his own deal after five-day waivers had expired, said he talked to several clubs. Among them was St. Louis, where he was a star for 11 years and led the Cardinals to the 1964 pennant as the league's MVP.

Most Frightening Moment of My Life -Ray Robinson

NEW YORK (AP) - "I was scared, real scared."

This was Sugar Ray Robinson talking, and he wasn't talking about any of the 202 pro fights in his boxing career.

"It was the most frightening moment of my life," said the still sleek and handsome retired boxer. "The guy ran down the hall yelling, '15 minutes, Mr. Robinson, 15 minutes.'

"Man, I'm telling you I was scared."

The occasion was Sugar Ray's debut in the legitimate theater at Caesar's Palace in Las Vegas, He had a supporting role in "The Odd Couple," starring Tony Randall and Mickey

'You know, I've been on the stage before, dancing and singing." Robinson said. "I've been in the movies and I've been on television. But this was acting before a live audience and I was sweating buckets. I'm telling you I was scared."

"I wasn't scraed," interjected Robinson's wife, Millie. "I knew he would be good — and he was. He was great."

"It went off fine," said Ray, "Once I spoke my first lines, the scariness went away. Mickey Rooney and Tony Randall were great. We packed them in every night, turned them away for six weeks.

"I loved every minute of it. You know, I'm such a ham. I always was a ham. Even when I was fighting, I knew this was what I wanted to do."

Robinson's career as an actor and entertainer is on the upswing at 48. He once retired as middleweight champion in 1952 to become a singer and dancer in night clubs at $15,000 a week. This lasted less than two years and he returned

Sizzlers by Young (46.3), Greer (4:17)

Andy Young continued to make believers out of evduring Saturday's CIF track prelims at Millikan High.

Handy Andy, Jordan's long-legged quarter-miler, turned in a 46.3 anchor leg to give the Panthers a come from-behind victory over Whittier in a mile relay that highlighted the meet.

Bill Sims, Whittier's fine 47.9 runner, was given a seven yard advantage to work with on the last lap, it wasn't enough to hold off Young, who made a strong move on the back straight-away and won by three strides. Sims was timed in 47.2.

Though not a season best, Jordan was timed in 3:21.2, which satisfied coach Jue Riddick, considering second man Glynn Watson was sidelined.

At that, the Panthers didn't run as fast as Millikan did without any opposition.

The Rams continued to look like the CIF's best mile relay team with a 3:21.1 time in its heat, six seconds better than runner-up Arcadia. Gary Johnson (50.0) and smooth--striding Bob Lang-stron (48.5) had the fastest Ram splits.

A cold wind aided all sprint and hurdle races and hampered many competi-tors coming out of the back turn. Young's time of 48.0 in the second heat of the 440 was even more the impressive when it ap-

Eye Grid Falent in SIX NEGRO basketball players at Oklahoma City England

That's the difference in mentality that Jim Schaaf, assistant general manager of the Kansas City Chiefs, is counting on for new tal-ents for his professional foutball team.

Schaaf and head coach Hank Stram are in Europe looking for kicking talent for their Western Division American Football League

"We've got a fine kicker in Jan Stenerud," Schaaf explained, "but we need some depth. Something happens to him, and we're out of luck. We need somebody in the wings.

Coach Stram says that a kicker is so important that you win or lose four to six games every season on the strength of your kicking."

So, he explained, they're golfig about it in an entirely new way — coming to England to look for talent in a country where Americanstyle football doesn't exist.

"Some of the best kickers in American pro football are former soccer play-ers," he said. "So why not take a look here? Sure, we understand the problems. It's a different kind of ball, and so forth, but if a man can kick one ball we can teach him how to kick another one."

To find this talent Schaaf and Stram are holding tryouts in London, Manchester, Glasgow and in Wates.

The tryouts are open for any soccer or rugbly player rugby is something like Amprican football without padding or forward passing and without the danger of downfield blocking - who are not under contract.

Schaaf emphasized that "ware not coming over here to Yob English soccer or rumby teams of their men. We've made it a point that tryguts are only for those what are not under con-tract.

VOLLEYBALL MASTERS WIN SENIORS CROWN

PORTLAND (SPECIAL) - The Long Beach Masters overpowered the Outrigger Canoe Club of Hawaii, 15-7, in a sudden death playoff to win the 36th U.S. Seniors volleyball championship Saturday at Portland State College.

To take the title the Masters team had to battle back through the losers bracket, defeating the Dallas YMCA, 15 7, 13-11, and the defending champion Westside Community Center, 15-7, 9-15, 15-5.

In the finals against the Hawaiians the L.B. team avenged an earlier loss by winning 15-11 and 15-9.

Long Beach was ousted in the open men's division by the Air Force, 15-4, 15-1, and finished in a tie for seventh place. In the YMCA division the Long Beach team finished second behind Los Angeles.

Cal State Long Beach Soccer League team that bound Mark Spitz swam past Don Schollander's American record for the 200-yard freestyle Saturday in 1:40.5.

Spitz, who will enroll at CSCLB this fall, was competing in the Central Coast Sectional High School Swimming Championships when he broke Schollander's mark of 1:42.2.

California's varsity boat sank only 200 meters into its 2,000-meter crew race against Stanford Saturday, but Cal's four other boats won their races to give the Golden Bears the Jim Reynolds trophy.

Jim Reynolds, 80, who presented the trophy named n his honor, recalled that Cal's shell also sank in 1909 when he captained Stanwhen ne ____ ford's crew.

University will not be members of the school's cage team next season, says head coach Abe Lemons.

The players presented Lemons with a list of 14 grievances Friday, mainly against his coaching methods. "I've no intention of trying to coach that group next year," Lemons said.

The final round of the tourney comes up today with the winner picking up a $20,000 check.

Second-round leader Georger Archer shot a oneunder-par 70, putting him at 204, a stroke behind.

"My touch was sharper today than when I won two weeks ago," said Barber, who's shooting for a berth on the next Ryder Cup team. "I've been changing my game over completely.

He gave credit to Gard-ner Dickinson and PGA champion Don January for helping him.

"I really putted well, exceptionally well," said Weiskopf of his round. The 25-year-old pro, once a classmate of Jack Nicklaus at Ohio State, added: "Even the putts that I didn't make came so close. I drove well and hit some good iron

No Chance of Error in Derby Tests

Lou Cavalaris, trainer of Dancer's Image, has revealed that his colt was given a dose of Butazolidin six days before he finished first in the Kentucky Derby . . . only to he disqualified when traces of the drug were found in his post-race urinalysis.

Cavalaris says the medication was administered to Dancer's Image at about 10:30 a.m. Sunday morning, April 28, and that to his knowledge, it was the only time the colt received such medication,

The pain-killing drug was given to Dancer's Image by Dr. Alex Harthill, the veterinarian who has attended the colt while he has been in Kentucky.

It was no secret. Just about everyone in the barn area knew it. After all, Butazolidin is permitted so a trainer can bring a horse up to a certain race without having to miss any workouts because of soreness or a slight injury,

It is not permitted to be given a horse within 48 hours The anti-inflammatory drug normally is eliminated from a horse's system by that time.

But to be on the safe side, some veterinarians recommend that the medication should not be given within five days of a race so as to be sure that all traces are eliminated.

MOST TRAINERS ARE AWARE that traces of the medicine have been found in post-race samples as long as 72 hours and even 84 hours after treatment.

There is no case on record of Butazolidin being found in a sample 144 hours (six days) after treatment ..... and the specimen from Dancer's Image was taken approximately 152 hours from the time the colt had been given the medication.

Reports from Louisville indicate the amount of Butazolidin found in the post-race test was large enough to suggest that the dose was given within a day or two of the Derby . . . and was not a lingering trace.

Cavalaris reveals that "the vet and I conferred the Sunday morning before the race and Dr. Harthill suggested we try Butazolidin. The colt's right ankle had some filling in it. He wasn't sore at the time, though. In fact, he never took a sore or lame step.

"The next morning - Monday - the horse was a bit colicky from the medication. But we galloped him and he was all right after that,"

Dancer's Image has had bad ankles throughout his career - a hereditary condition from his sire, Native Dancer. Although Butazolidin is a common treatment for horses with such problems, Cavalaris insists that the first and only time the medication was used on the coll was on that Sunday,

PRIVATE WORD FROM KENTUCKY insists that "there is no chance that a mistake was made in the tests and Dancer's Image officially will be disqualified at the formal hearing Monday morning. At that time, Forward Pass will be declared the winner of the 94th Kentucky Churchill Downs' officials not only have discounted owner Peter Fuller's statements about a possible mistake in the tests of Dancer's Image, but also his criticism of security arrangements for the Derby horses.

Fuller rapped the security, stating "anybody could have got to the horse before the race."

Track officials point out that a 24-hour guard is assigned to every barn housing a Derby horse from the min-ute a colt arrives at the track until he leaves.

On top of that, a 10-foot high wire fence encircles the stable area, extra men patrol the area during Derby week. Security is "very tight."

Most mid-range motors can do everything-almost. They have power enough for skiling — but not quite enough for really good skiers. Speed enough for fest running — but not quite enough to keep up with the fast runabout crowd.

Now --- Evinnade announces the new 65 hp Triumph. The end of the "almost" motor

The Triumph does everything you hoped it would. It hustles light runabours at 40 miles an hourand more. Snatches gangs of skiers from deep-water starts. Planes loaded 20-fcoters

Ladies 'Cap to Princessnesian

Princessnesian and her favorite chauffeur, Laffit Pincay, made an auspicious return to competion at Hollywood Park Saturday.

Princessnesian, the pocket-sized William Haggin Perry filly, under a full head of steam overtook flying Pink Pigeon in the final 50 yards and quickly pulled away to a three-quarter length win in the featured $33,250 Hollypark

Ladies Handicap.

The triumph was a gutty one for both horse and rider. Pincay, wearing a support on the injured wrist, was forced to use his left hand freely in the stretch.

Pink Pigeon, who had her share of rooters in the crowd of 47,510 as the 8-5 second choice, turned in a "winning" effort and might have lasted against any other distaffer in the country, But she just wasn't good enough to stall off Princessnesian as the Perry filly covered the mile in 1:35% over the Lakeside Turf Course.

Running as an entry with Desert Law, Princessnesian returned $4.20, $2.20 and $2.20, while Pink Pigeon paid $2.60 and $2.40. The victory was worth $19,750 to the Perry Stable, which picked up an additional $3,750 when Desert Law deadheated for third with

Amerigo's Fancy, eight lengths back of the runner-

Wayne Harris, who earlier in the year guided Pink Pigeon to an American mile and a furlong record in a win over the Arcadia grass, had a novel explanation for his setback,

"Would you believe a seagull may have cost us the race? One of those darn birds flew up in front of us going to the halfmile and she threw her head up and then started looking for birds."

"I guess Saturday is my lucky day," Pincay said, referring to his streak of Saturday stakes wins and his recent six-for-nine performance of two weeks ago. "I moved sooner with her than I wanted to but I saw that other filly out there by herself and I knew I had to go after her. "She lugs in, so I had to get after her lefthanded and my wrist really hurts now."

UCLA WHITES TO 28-6 WIN

Farmer and quarterback Bill Bolden combined to lead the Whites to a 28-6 win over the Blues Saturday as UCLA held its final scrimmage before the spring game.

Farmer rushed for 154 yards on five carries and scored on runs of 67 and 66 yards. He also caught three passes for 41 yards.

Bolden netted 59 yards on 15 carries, scoring on runs of six and nine yards. He connected on six of 12 passes for 160 vards.

Freshman Mickey Cureton ran 32 vards for the Blues' lone touchdown. Coach Tommy Prothro

fair yellowfall run, but Long Beach has the white sea bass and, regardless of what that old moon may look like, the blg whites are still hitting on the outside of the Catalina Island, Kelly Moyer, skipper of Pacific Landing's Fisherman, not only came home Thursday with a catch of 22 big whites, but he had a tank filled with squid.

At this writing Friday, Eddie McEwen, general manager of Pacific and also skipper of the 85-foot Pacific Queen, radioed that he was using the backlog of squid and that his pas-sengers once again were. loading up with white sea bass

This run of white sea bass is by far the greatest that Long Beach has experienced for several years. As a matter of record, San Diego usually gets a run of the whites around the Coronado Islands prior to the start of its annual yellowtail derby, and the skippers there make the most of it.

This year that run didn't occur. Apparently the white sea bass moved along the coast, picked out the ocean side of Catalina Island and ate ravenously on the squid schools. White sea bass eat other forage fish, too, but squid seems to be the favorite diel.

The action of the full moon on squid schools already has been explained in this column, but overcast weather can change the entire situation. And that seems to be just what is happining.

Besides that, the barracuda fisherman can get up at a more decent hour, go on a half-day boat out of Pacific, Pierpoint or Belmont Pier and get all the fish he needs. The scooters mostly are legal size. With kelp and sand bass hitting and bonito running, local off-shore fishing is improving every day. :

Upcoast, at Oxnard. Channel Island Sportfishing is continuing to put salmon on the docks. In talking to fishermen around the city, I find that most of them can hardly believe this is happening. But it is. Just try it and see for yourself.

LET'S GO inland a bit and take a look at the fresh water activity, now slowing down because of the tremendous fishing pressure which lakes and streams undergo!

The big bass of last week was a 14-pound, 15-ounce fish, scooped up, not caught at Wohlford Lake. Biologists at the University of California, San Diego, took the fish for examination. Apparently, the old girl just died of old age even though there were signs that the fish was in a spawning condition. Presumably, it's the largest bass on record for California.

Guess who is going to teach me how to use purple plastic worms. Remember that I recently promised a dinner to anybody who could do that. The Newmans recently went to Hermosilia, drove 80-odd miles over some washboardy road to Novillo and caught bass like they were going out of style. None of the press boys running backstage to ogle Jayne Mansfield in 1955 suspected that Walter Matthau would emerge one of the great comic geniuses. And now they're talking about him for an Oscar in 'The Odd Couple."

"It holds up real well," he nodded. "Most stage comedies lose something in the transference. 'Three Men On a Horse' and 'Room Service,' which were great on stage, stunk on film. Timing is the problem.

THE WEEK REVIEW

An Aura of Hope Wave of Optimism Surrounds Talks

ASSOCIATED PRESS

A historic week of optimism offered by the opening of preliminary talks on the Vietnam war was tempered with steely statements from the leaders of the two conflicting nations while new anxieties built up with reports of Soviet troop movements near the Polish-Czech border.

With serious intentions and mild hopes, United States and North Vietnamese negotiators opened the first formal talks on the Vietnam war Friday in Paris. In the first contact between Ambassador Cyrus Vance, deputy of the U.S. delegation, and Col. Ha Van Lau, No. 2 man in the North Vietnamese group, the representatives agreed to start preliminary peace negotiations at 10:30 a.m. Monday, after a further meeting Saturday on arrangements.

Their announcement, made after a meeting which lasted nearly two hours, indicated both sides were prepared to skip over possible procedural disputes which could deadlock the conference at the very start.

That set the stage for the meeting between top U.S. negotiator W. Averell Harriman and his North Vietnamese counterpart, Xuan Thuy.

Col. Lao, arriving from Hanoi Tuesday, said, "I am optimistic," when asked how he felt about the talks, Harriman, in an arrival statement Thursday, quoted President Johnson as saying he hoped the Paris discussions would prove to be a "mutual and serious movement by all parties toward peace in Southeast Asia,"

But the apparent optimism was dimmed by hard-line statements from South Vietnam President Nguyen Van Thieu, who said he will never agree to a halt in a humbing of the North without a halt to all infiltration of the South and North Vietnam Premier Ho Chi Minh urged the Viet Cong on to greater exertions to defeat "U.S. aggression."

THE WAR, MEANWHILE, came closer to Saigon. In an apparent "peace offenisve," designed to influence the talks in Parls, enemy forces hammered at the South Vietnamese capital all week. Officials said the number of civilians killed since the Saigon offensive began last Sunday neared 2,500, and the number of refugees had risen to 56,000 for the week.

U. S. officials announced that 383 Americans were killed during the last week, the highest toll in nine weeks. The enemy toll also climbed, while South Vietnamese figures dropped slightly

IT STARTED WITH RUMORS of Soviet troop movements near the Polish-Czech border. There were reports of the restriction of movements of some Western diplomats. Observers believed it was a show of Soviet pressure on the regime of Nicolae Ceausescu, who has defied Soviet leadership in Eastern Europe.

But Friday night, Czechoslovakia's national radio reported the Soviet troops moving just beyond the horder were engaged in planned Warsaw Pact mancuvers that the Prague government was informed of in advance.

PARIS' LATIN QUARTER turned into a battle zone between students and police with the students hurling stones and overturning cars. The students were demonstrating for a bigger voice in the operation of Sorbonne University and rather than risk rioting during the Vietnam peace talks, the French government shut the university.

THE NATION

WHO REALLY WON in Tuesday's primaries, and how much, if any? Sen, Robert F. Kennedy won the voting, and by solid margins. In Indiana's presidential preference primary, he tallied 42 per cent of the party ballots and most if not all of the 63 national convention votes. Favorite son Roger Branigin was second with 31 per cent, and Sen. Eugene McCarthy trailed with 27.

Former Vice President Richard Nixon, running alone on the Republican ticket, piled up a vote of nearly half a million, well above the 408,000 he got in the 1960

Kennedy's comment: "I'm very, very pleased. I thought I'd have a difficult time doing well here." Mc-Carthy:

"No one deserves any prizes in this contest. We will carry the fight in Nebraska. Next August I'll probably still be the front-runner as I am now." Branigin: "I never concede, I just got whipped. I wrote my own speeches, drove my own car, but you can't beat $2 million."

PRESIDENT JOHNSON signed a bill that raised the interest rate on government-backed home mortgages from 6 per cent to 63/4 per cent. A Senate and House conference committee approved a 10 per cent income tax surcharge coupled with a $6 billion budget cut, thus making the tax bill eligible for action in both houses.

SEN, CARL HAYDEN of Arizona, speaking of "a time to step aside," announced he will retire early next year after nearly 57 years in Congress, longer than any other

sion roles on "Mr. Peepers," "The Garry Moore Show" and "Bewitched," died of a heart attack in her home in New York. She was 82.

Harold Gray, the creator of the comic strip "Little Orphan Annie," died in California at the age of 74. George Hay, originator of the Grand Ole Opry radio program of country and Western music, died at his home irginia Beach, Va. He was 72.

Marshal Vasily D. Sokolovsky, who planned the operation for the capture of Berlin in World War II, died Friday at the age of 70.

_ ★ * THE HOUSE VOTED 212 to 83 to shift Memorial Day, Veterans day and Washington's Birthday so they would fall on a Monday instead of a specific day of the month, thus establishing more three-day weekends. The bill now goes to the Senate, where it faces an uncertain fate.

Gasoline Additive Said To Cut Pollutants In Half

A newly formed Long Beach chemical company last week announced it has discovered an ingredient that when added to gasoline allegedly cuts pollutant emission by as much as 53 per cent.

An-Pol Chemical Corporation, located at 960 DeForest Ave., plans to immediately go into production and market the fuel supplement.

Mel Kirschner, president, said preliminary testing has revealed reductions in hydrocarbon exhaust emissions "were up to 53 per cent. The supplement," he added, "previously had given more horsepower and economy." . . . .

"THIS NEW product," Kirschner said, "is a breakthrough in petrochemical research. It is our latest development in more than seven years of highly-sophisticated experimentation, including the use of electro-microscopic photog-

'In addition, several independent laboratories have evaluated our supplement and found it to be as efficient as our tests indi-cate. The results of a long series of highly critical combustion and performance evaluátions -- along with many long-term road -have convinced me that the An-Pol supplement has the potential of revolutionizing today's petroleum market on both the industrial and consumer level."

OTHER information from the firm states there involved. They vary in composition and concentration for use with gasoline in automotive engines, in diesel fuels, burner fuels and residual fuels.

"Chemically, the supplement is completely organic and leaves no deposits," Kirschner stated. "Althe material, its performance in an average car includes at least eleven qualities that every driver will want in his tank.

"The most vital factor, however, is the unique abil-ity of this fluid to help reduce the automobile-caused pollutants in the air."

Chemical Disperses Oil Spill; Fish Safe

With the increase in the number of oil tankers - and the increase in the number of oil 'spills" in recent years, chemical companies have struggled to provide a solution.

Many chemical formulations were discovered that will disperse most of the spill.

But, meanwhile, it is killing marine life.

LAST WEEK, the Enjay Chemical Company of New York City released news the shipping industry -- and public and private land awaited.

It has developed a chemical that disperses oil slicks and promoted the natural disintegration of the oil "without harmful effects to

Preliminary testing, Enjay spokesmen said, indicates the new chemical is substantially more effective than competitive products and "unlike the deter-gents cited for widespread damage to marine life after the Torrey Canyon accident, the new dispersant is harmless."

ENJAY officials report that the new oil dispersant chemical will be made available throughout the United States at refineries, ports and oil producing areas where oil spills might occur.

Plans are being made to market the material through Enjay affiliates worldwide.

The company is working closely with manufacturers to determine the types of equipment needed for most efficient application of the new product - whether it be from ships, loading docks or crew boats.

It also is studying the possibilities of application from planes and helicopters.

A training program is being developed and plans call for initiating it next month.

The course is being designed to qualify personnel in proper application of the dispersant under a variety of sittuations.

THESE PEOPLE will be stationed in strategic locations throughout the United States enabling them to react quickly to emergency situations should they Provisions for meeting world-wide emergency situations also are being made. These representatives will be thoroughly familiar with all phases of COR-EXITS application technology to assure most effective results.

Ocean Shipping Race Could Outstrip Space Race

Special to the Progress Section

An ocean-shipping race in the next 20 years will overshadow the space race between the United States and the Soviet Union, the head of one of the nation's major shipbuilding firms believes.

Supremancy of the seas will be accomplished with ship systems, which will be part of worldwide sea-land transportation networks, Ellis B. Gardner, president of Ingalls Shipbuilding division of Litton Industries and Litton senior vice president, said.

He described Litton's innovative efforts in shipbuilding and in other aspects of the transportation industry in an address before "The Ocean and the Investor" conference in Los Angeles, sponsored by the American Society for Oceanography.

"THE OCEAN shipping race, one which we cannot afford to lose, will be conducted on the ocean surfaces and in the ship-manufacturing facilities of our nation and of our 'wet war' adversaries," Gardner said.

Most ships in the United States merchant and military fleets were built dur-World War II and most mentation of these fleets from now through the 1980s represents one of the largest markets any industry will have ever experienced.

THIS MARKET, he said,

Annual Median Prices Existing Homes Climbing

Homes priced less than $17,500 accounted for over 40 per cent of the sales of pre-owned houses during the past two years, Charles W. Welch, president of the Executive Officers Council of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, said last week in Chicago. He based his comments at the annual EOC Seminar on Board Administration on the recently-published report of existing home sales for 1966 and 1967.

The seminar immediately preceded the annual spring meeting of NAREB and its affiliates.

THE REPORT continues that the annual median prices of existing homes was $19,354 last year, and $18,757 in 1966, an indication that there was an active market in all price categories. The survey shows, too, he said, that for the past two vears August was the leader in monthly volume of preowned home sales for all regions of the nation except the Northeast, where for both years it ranked second behind

With the exception of the Northeast, the next four active months in 1967 were June, May, July, and March, in that order, while in 1966 they were March, June, May, and

DURING THE peak sales month, the median prices reported for existing homes sold was $19,662 in 1967, and $18,685 in 1966.

Three-bedroom houses continued to dominate the market for previously-occupied homes with both years showing 57 per cent of sales in this category.

In 1967, houses containing four or more bedrooms were ranked second in sales, while those with two or less were next most popular in 1966.

In discussing the background of the report, Welch, who is also executive director of the Louisville Board of Realtors, explained that during the past several years a vast informational gap in the real estate economy existed because of the lack of qualitative and quantitative information on the existing home market.

THE MONTHLY publication of this existing home sales series, prepared by the NAREB Department of Research with the souperation of local boards of Realtors and EOC members, has filled this informational vacuum to some degree.

EOC is a professional affiliate of the National Association, and its membership is composed of administrative officers of local boards and state real estate associations.

THE REPORT contains information on price breakdowns of sales by month and year; median prices by month and year; seasonal trends; and quarterly comparisons, all of which are further reduced to regional tables, he is for ship systems - the fully integrated and interrelated bull of the ships and all the components they contain such as atmosphere controls, propulsion and navigational devices.

In military ships the more complex command and control and weaponry systems are included in the package as well.

"Increasingly, the Navy has, and the merchant marine will, look to systems solutions for their problems," Gardner said.

The first instance in which the Navy has applied the systems approach is in recent competition among shipbuilders for the Fast Deployment Logistic Ship design, which was won by Litton's Advanced Marine Technology division.

Litton's new shipyard in Mississippi, now under construction, fully incorporates the systems approach, and it will employ the most advanced practices in ship manufacture, Gardner

> THE NEW shippard will . he ready to supply the much needed hardware for U.S. fleets during the 1970s, Gardner said.

Litton also furnishes systems planning in complex movements of materials across land and water, devising means of automation, transference and control at each step.

"We do not believe that transportation begins and ends at the interface of the land and the sea, but rather the movement of goods both over land and over water must be considered in its complete systems entirety." Gardner said.

Systems and subsystems proliferate as world trade grows and with the increasing participation in world commerce of emerging ngtions, he said.

ynthetic Crude Oil Production Seen in the 1970's

By KEN CHILCOTE Business Editor

Forecasting a drastic crude oil production deficit in the years ahead, Atlantic Richfield Co., announced it hopes to produce "significant quantities of synthetic crude oil by the mid-1970's."

Robert O. Anderson, chairman, reported to shareholders meeting in Dallas: "While part of the gap in crude production in the future might be filled with imported crude oil, it is clear that our domestic production will have to be supplemented with synthetic crude oils locked in tar sands, shale or coal.

"We have been preparing for this eventuality for spme time," Anderson added.

He pointed out that the company has excellent position in the Athabasca tar sands of Alberta, Canada, with about 500,000 net acres of rights, and has also acquired oil shale acreage mostly in Utah and Colorado, and coal reserves in the Western part of the United States. "These accomplishments have been achieved in gradual stages as part of our long-range planning," Anderson said. "Our goal has been to get into position to provide significant quantities of synthetic crude oil by mld-1970's said Anderson.

AN AGREEMENT IN PRINCIPLE has been reached whereby U.S. Natural Gas Corp., would acquire the RB Furniture Co. A NEW METHOD FOR TUBELESS tire repair, on the wheel, has been perfected by Eaton Yale & Towne Inc. alled Super Seal, the new system differs from convenflonal plug repair. It combines a 1/32-inch skin coat of uncured rubber laminated to a cured core. Chemical is used to activate a vulcanizing process.

The combination of fluid and uncured rubber creates a chemically vulcanized seal as opposed to a compression seal and gives assurance that the plug will remain in the tire, the company reports.

Engineers say one of the major advantages is that the puncture is not distorted as much as it would be by the Conventional plug. In addition a tire repaired with a chemiçally vulcanized plug can be recapped, if desired.

Because the new plug is vulcanized, it will remain in office, secure to the cords of the tire and able to accept a låyer of retread rubber, company engineers point out.

Vulcanizing is considered by many as the only real permanent tire repair but until now it has been necessary to remove the tire from the wheel.

WHETHER AMERICA CAN COMPETE at home and abroad, economically and politically, is a question raised by Robert C. Tyson, finance chairman of U.S. Steel. Tyson says that the new international competition "is forcing us reappraise our national competitiveness, to think in terms of competitive labor and competitive government."

He added that competitiveness and investment and not profit-deflation are remedics for cost-push inflation or our bulging balance of payments deficit. "If our prices are increasingly noncompetitive, it is because our costs, especially our employment costs, are increasingly noncompeti-

"Inasmuch as government is far and away the largest employer in the land, it follows that accelerating employ-ment costs accelerate the cost of government. For in the U.S. economy as a whole employment costs account for three-quarters or more of all costs."

Discussing the steel industry's rising import problem. Tyson pointed out that "these trends suggest that steel's well-known problem today could well become other industries' import problem tomorrow. Many other industries are vulnerable, if not already challenged by intensifying im-

Auto, Steel Production Is 'Lively'

The Index again last week reached 163.0, its preliminary peak level of a week ago, due to a continued lively pace in steel output and a sharp rise in auto production.

Steel output rose 0.1 per cent above the previous week, setting another record as strike-hedge orders continued strong. Industry spokesmen report, however, a leveling off in orders. But no changes in production schedules are planned, as orders are still outpacing deliveries.

Auto production climbed 5.4 per cent to reach the highest production total since October, 1966. For the first time since last September, there were no strikes in the industry to disrupt production, Also, all producers scheduled heavy overtime to make up time lost during recent civil disturbances.

Paperhoard production slipped 7.5 per cent this week, reflecting a decline from the Easter season peak - but remained slightly ahead of output a year ago.

Other components showed only normal variations this week. Crude oil runs slipped 0.7 per cent, while electric power output remained unchanged. Miscellaneous carloadings rose 2.9 per cent, and all other carloadings rose 1.6 per cent. Intercity truck tonnage gained 1.0 per cent. .

Air California, Orange County's home-grown com-muter airline, this week will add two Long Beach-built Douglas DC9 twinjet transports to its fleet of four Lockheed Electra propjets.

The addition of the two jetliners will double service between Orange County and San Francisco and boost the number of daily flights to San Jose and Oakland by one third.

The first DC9 is scheduled to begin service on the San Francisco run Monday, with the second shuttling on both routes Tuesday.

DEPARTURE schedules will be adjusted during the week until Friday, when DC9 and Electra flights will leave every hour on the hour from Orange County Airport to San Francisco from 7 a.m. to 9 p.m. Return service from San Francisco will be scheduled every hour on the half hour from 7:30 a.m. to 9:30 p.m.

At the same time, the service between Orange County and San Jose and Oakland will increase from five to seven round trips daily.

THE AIRLINE began service in January, 1967, with two Electras and five round trips daily between Orange County and San Francisco. Since then the carrier has steadily added equipment and increased the frequen-cy of flights. The San Jose and Oakland routes were inaugurated last October.

Free vehicle safety checks will be held Wednesday through June 1, Frank Marshall, president of the Long Beach Motor Car Dealers Association, announced.

He urged all motorists to "Get the SAFETY habit Have your car Safety-Checked free. It can save your life Even our best drivers are poor risks if they drive cars with bad brakes, worn tires, or other neglected items."

Members of the Long Beach Motor Car Dealers Association will perform these free safety checks during the two-week period. Stop in at the service department of your favorite motor car dealer.

Better yet, you can make an appointment to make sure your car is in tip-top condition. Vehicles with all items in a safe condition will receive a Safety-Check Windshield Sticker. Unsafe or deficient conditions will be pointed out and there is not obligation to have repairs made there.

EACH YEAR one-half million vehicles checked in the nationwide Safety-Check are found to need immediate attention to one or more of the items affecting safe driving conditions

The items Safety-Checked are brakes, front and rear lights, turn signals, stop lights, steering, tires, exhaust system, glass, windshield wipers and washers, rear and side view mirrors, horn and seat belts. This experience is verified by the California Highway Patrol in their random Vehicle Inspection program.

Discovering unsafe vehicles now will permit motorists to have dangerous conditions fixed before they become a factor in a traffic accident. Many motorists do not know they are driving cars that endanger themselves, their families and their community. A Safety-Check is the best way to find out.

THE SAFETY-CHECK IN LONG BEACH is part of the Annual National Vehicle Safety-Check for communities sponsored by the Auto Industries Highway Safety Committee and Look magazine. The Long Beach Safety Council is the local coordinator for this program.

This public service is also being provided by some independent garages and tire, brake and alignment centers. Now is the time to prove you are a safe driver by demonstrating that you realize that no matter how good the driver, he is in trouble when trying to control an unsafe vehicle.

Mekel Associates of Hayward was purchased for an initial payment of 3,700 shares of S-D stock and additional payments contingent upon increased profitability over the next three years.

NEW YORK (UPI) -Reynolds & Co. contends this is a "real bull market," fears" of investors currently seem outweighed by better than expected corporation reports, inflation fears, Vietnam peace prospects and other considerations. The analyst says it feels that "this market is going to surprise people on the upside," with the Dow Jones industrial average upside," possibly cracking 1,000 before the upswing runs its course.

Spear and Staff says prosperity and inflation — whose signs about these days — are like "two sound waves that reinforce each other." The company adds that while money managers may "question the harmony, there is no denying that the music is sweet for stocks." The firm says it continues to believe the market will work irregularly higher.

Hammill & Co. suggests that prospects for further advances in stock prices seem favorable over the intermediate and longer terms. At the same time, the market adviser says investors whose primary objective is intermediate or long term capital gains should continue to "pursue a fairly aggressive policy" and take a dvantage of weakness to add to their portfollos in well situated

California Manufacturing Continues Climb in March

(BW) — Manufacturing activity continued its advance in California in March with total production reaching $24.27 billion, an increase of .83 per cent in a month and 7.5 per cent in a year, according to figures just re-leased by the Bank of California.

Lumber, food processing and chemical production increased in the month. Largest yearly gain was made in aircraft production.

The tri-state bank's estimates are seasonally adjusted at an annual rate. In concept, manufacturing value is measured by subtracting the total cost of materials at arrival at the plant from their value at time of shipment.

Thus a component of a product is not measured twice in going from one establishment to another.

PRODUCTION if durable goods, totaling $16.25 billion in March, rose 15 per cent in a year. Nondurable manufactures reached $8.02 billion in the month and made a 7.7 per cent yearly

The metal-connected industries, accounting for 48 per cent of all manufactures, advanced 7.9 per cent in a year's time. Dominant in this group, and also in all goods produced, was the $4.34 billion total for transportation equipment, 80 per cent of which was aircraft production.

THE STATE'S second largest production classification, electronic and other electrical equipment and components, continued to advance, rising .32 per cent in a month and 5.1 per cent in a year to $3.12 billion.

Production of construction equipment, food pro-cessing machinery and other types of machinery and equipment held level with February at $1.91 billion, but showed an 8.5 per cent increase over March 1967.

Food processing increared appreciably in a month to reach $3.12 billion and stood 2.3 per cent higher than a year ago.

ALTHOUGH chemical manufactures were up .86 per cent in a month, the $1.18 billion production total was about equal to a Apparel fabrication, to-taling $650 million, ad-vanced B.3 per cent in a year, while printing and publishing held about level at $1.04 billion.

Petroleum production was up slightly to $630 million. The remaining other manufactures in the state totaled $5.49 billion and showed an increase of 13.2 per cent in a year's time.

The Bank of California's forecast for California manufacturing activity in April calls for a rise in total production to $24.47 billion.

Durable goods production is expected to reach $16.4 billion and nondurable $8.07 billion.

Heartbreaks Result from Home Frauds

By BERNARD MELTZER

Continually, this column receives heart-breaking let-ters from readers who have become victims of home improvement frauds. The letter following details one of these typical cases and should be of educational value to readers. MR, MELTZER:

I am writing for my parents. They have reached the point where they are incapable of doing anything but sitting and crying. They are about to lose their home.

It all started when a fasttalking salesman knocked on the door and offered them a new siding job at a great bargain. The price was supposed to be $790, but my parents were told it would cost them nothing perpetrated in this day and because the house would be used for a demonstration. For every prospect who visited, my parents were to get a $25 credit.

What they actually signed was a mortgage in blank which was later filled in for $3,000 and was notarized without their being present. To top it all off, the job was never finished. With interest and penalties, my parents now owe almost $5,000. The finance company holding the papers disclaims all responsibility and threatens, "Ei-ther we get our money or. we take the house."

It's hard to believe that a fraud of this type could be age, yet two attorneys to whom I have referred the case sadly shake their heads and say, "Really nothing can be done." Can: anything be done?

MR. D. F. ANSWER: I have published this letter in full to acquaint readers with the way a typical home improvement fraud is perpetrated. The tragedy of this story, and of similar cases, is that the victim can do little.

The finance company escapes responsibility under the "holder in due course" immunity granted to sec-ond and subsequent holders of the paper. Their defense paper on good faith and knew nothing about uncompleted work or prior misrepresentation. As best I can determine, lenders are . not granted immunity under this doctrine in all states except Massachu-

The promises of "some-thing for nothing," signing papers in blank, increasing substantially the price of the job, and false affidavits are all typical of home improvement frauds. The Congress of the United States and legislatures in several states are now considering bills to wipe out the type of fraud experienced by our correspondent. But, under current regulations and statutes, there is little a victim can do except through public pressure. Readers who may have been victims of similar frauds can help their case if they will write to Sen. War-ren G. Magnuson (D-Wash.), Sen. Joseph D. Tydings (D-Md.), or Rep. William T. Cahali (R-N.J.).

(Meltzer welcomes your letters and comments. Unfortunately he is unable to enter into personal correspondence with readers, but will attempt to answer as many letters as possible through his column.)

Penney Co. Sales in April Up

J. C. Penney Company's April sales soared 19.5 per cent over the same 1967 month as weather cooperated to provide a near-perfect setting for Easter shopping throughout the country.

It was Penney's higgest monthly gain since March, 1966, when sales rose 21.3 per cent over the previous March. Chairman William M. Batten and President C. L. Wright reported volume for the four-week period ended April 27 rose to a record $221,331,923. This was an increase of $36,100,511 over the $185,231,412 for the same 1967 period. There were 24 shopping days in both April periods.

THE APRIL performance made possible the depart-ment store chain's 61st straight monthly reporting period of sales gains. Strong demand for fashion apparel was the key to the gain for Penney's, whose merchandise assortments continue to place strong emphasis on soft goods. Continued good weather during the two weeks after Easter resulted in good sportswear business. Also benefiting from the favorable weather were hard goods departments, especially lawn and garden operations at some of Penney's new full-line stores.

Trading stamp chiefs insist it is not so, but there are growing indications that the stamp boom is fal-

A perceptible measure of dislilusionment was the premium device has set in both with sponsoring merchants and housewives.

One of the most direct reasons for this is the competition generated by price-cutting efforts at some of the most popular premiums in the stamp redemption centers.

And, while some of the largest trading stamp com-panies have not yet felt the turndown, it is becoming a fact of life among many of the smaller stamp concerns.

IN FACT, the trading shocked when one of the incentive industry's most respected publications, Premium Practice, reported that 1967 showed the first decline in 13 years in the sale of stamp services in retail outlets.

In addition, several of the leading stamp conpanies re-port that the sale of stamps in the last two years has benefited mainly from the introduction of new gift or incentive programs, involving such things as management awards for good performance by employes and premium coupons on consumer products that can be converted into trading stamps.

IN THE FACE of such stamp industry was developments, however, the giant of the stamp industry. the Sperry & Hutchinson Company, remains optimistic and bullish, but looks to a much smaller rate of sales gain this year and in the foreseeable future as compared with the last decade.

In an interview, Frank P. # They'd love a mother

What's Mother's Day without a mother? There are more than 180 homeless youngsters in Those who've lived their pillar-to-post existence long enough to realize their home situation is different from that of other kids have one thing in com-

They'd love a mother.

They wouldn't care whether she's rich or poor, black or white, married or unmarried.

They'd love her on Mother's Day. Or any day. Mrs. Josephine Gumbiner, assistant director of the Long Beach office, Los Angeles County Department of Adoptions, says most of the agency's backlog of unadopted children are being well cared for in licensed foster homes.

"But that's quite a temporary situation," said the bubbly, red-haired Mrs. Gumbiner, herself the mother of four and quite a contrast to the prototype of stern, rule-bound social workers of yesteryear.

We have no problem placing the plain little Caucasian babies with no medical problems. They usually are comfortable and snug in adoptive homes by the time they're three months old.

'The ones we're concerned about are youngsters with emotional, physical and racial barriers . . . or the children too big to be cute."

IT'S BECAUSE of these difficult-to-place children that Walter A. Heath, director of the Los Angeles County agency, has pioneered consideration of the single person as an adoptive mother or father.

Concerned by a rising illegitimacy rate and the increasing number of unwanted leftovers, he is re-examined the prospect of unmarrieds as parents.

As a result, the California adoption rules were revised in January, 1965, allowing a single person to adopt a child "when a two-parent family has not been found because of a child's special needs."

By the following Christmas, a 4-year-old Long Beach Negro boy, first to benefit from the ruling, had a new home.

He waited for Santa Claus to arrive surrounded by the first family he had ever known, a widowed mother and a new sister.

Shortly afterward still another widow became the adoptive mother of a Mexican-American. A spinster, who had reared a niece to adulthood, became the legal mother of an 18-month-old Negro girl.

IN THE FACE of these examples, the Child Welfare League of America, which sets standards for member agencies, conducted an exhaustive study.

Last July, on the basis of that survey, the league approved single parent adoptions if all efforts to find two-parent families had failed.

Prior to the new concept, a child-hungry, unwed woman would have had no chance at all to legally adopt a baby.

This year her chances are still slimmer than that of a married couple - and with many more strings. But at least she has a chance.

The walls of resistance to the single person as an adoptive mother or father definitely are beginning

It's happening especially in the big cities. In many metropolitan environments the leftovers languish in institutions or shuffle from foster home to foster home until eventually shunted onto the Haunted by their helplessness, social workers now are turning to those until now ignored - the paternally unfulfilled singletons.

WRITER Jean Sprain Wilson reports in an Associated Press article that there have been fewer than 200 single parent adoptions to date, a miniscule few compared to the more than a million children awaiting adoption.
"But adoption officials hope that as more unmar-

The idea is still revolutionary — AND controversial. Some people don't like it. The tradition of the two-parent family dies hard.

Many experts still eye the single adoptive parent with suspicion and trepidation. But not Mrs. Gumbiner.

She notes that most of the single parents are women and probably will continue to be.

wouldn't turn one away.

Many have been widowed or divorced and have one or more children of their own.

But that's not always the case. One never-married woman, Stephany Addison, a Compton school teacher now on special assignment in Inglewood, recently adopted her second child from the Long Beach agency.

The day care problem for Miss Addison's instant family - two daughters, ages 1 and 31/2-is solved by her mother, with whom she shares a home.

In the case of the single mother candidate, the day care program can sometimes pose a major prob-

"Highly desirable are a grandmother, aunt or sister — what we call an extended family," said Mrs. Gumbiner. "They can supervise the youngster while the adoptive mother works.

"It is also an advantage, in the case of an adoptive mother, for her to have a father, an uncle or brother-in-law . . . some responsible male close to the family . . . to create a father image for the adopted child."

PROFESSIONAL WOMEN have substantially larger incomes than others, but salary is not a primary consideration in a single-parent adoption, Mrs. Gumbiner noted "Financially, she must have a steady income and enough for a few emergencies."

That fact pleased Frances Champion, unmarried and in her mid-30s. Working as a clerk in Los Angeles, she was by no means wealthy when she adopted infant Dena recently.

Some psychologists view the first steps toward single adoptions as a way to take the pressure off women to marry in order to be mothers.

Says one: "There is no law which says just because you are a natural parent-you are a good one. All of us differ enormously in our willingness to care for children and in our capacities to do so.

"A lot of children would do very well without either one of the parents they draw in life."

ALSO IN DEFENSE of the new concept, sociologists note that we are moving away from the personto-person family . . . that we're drawn out of our homes to our churches, our schools, our organizations, our jobs.

They note, further, that today's mobile families are growing up in a world of changes.

One change is a move toward inter-racial adoptions, an idea that was taboo a few years back. Until recently the only placement considered for a part-Negro, part-white child was in a Negro Generally speaking, their supply of premium adoptive infants — normal, white and cuddly — still cannot fill the demand of childless white couples.

'Ironically, however, those youngsters most in need of double doses of tender loving care - those with special problems — have few takers," said Mrs. Gumbiner.

Maybe the new single-parent concept will open New doors for these unclaimed homeless charges. The theory: One parent is better than none.

Happiness to her is losing 100 pounds

By PAT McDONNELL Staff Writer

A 10-carat solitaire, a Mercedes 3005L or a villa in Portugal might be happiness to some women but not for Mrs. Ralph (Pat) Hutchison of Huntington Beach.

To the 29-year-old mother-of-two happiness is an inexpensive gold pin studded with nine diamond chips.

It's significance?

Her loss of 100 pounds since Aug. 15.

Mrs. Hutchison was presented the pin this week in Long Beach Jewish Community Center at a meeting of Trim 'N Thin, a program based on New York Board of Health obesity studies.

"Practically the only time I'd leave the house was to go to a PTA meeting," recalled the former 266-pounder who stands 5-foot, 7 inches.

"I used to dream of going to a meeting and once, just unce, not being the fattest person in the room.
"I started to gain weight eight years ago after the birth of my first child. Looking back, I realize it was my over-conscientious attitude as a new mother that started me off. I didn't feel I deserved to rest from caring for that baby unless it was to sit down and eat.

"I sat down too often.

"OBESITY IS the catalyst for an eternal circle of problems. I wouldn't leave the house for fear strangers would criticize me for weighing 150, 165, 200 then 260 pounds. The more I stayed within the four walls of my home - or should I say kitchen? - the more time I had to "The final straw was last August when I was on the 10th year reunion committee for our class at Bellflower High School. A photo was taken of us and I shuddered at the sight of that bloated blob that was me.

"My doctor had warned me my blood pressure was so high I'd probably have a stroke. I knew at the rate I was going, I'd probably not live to see my children graduate from high school.

"That night I read in the Independent, Press-Telegram about a TNT class Fred Schneider was starting in Long

She attended Schneider's first session and learned her eating habits weren't as unusual as she'd supposed.

"SKIPPING BREAKFAST and lunch and then gorging yourself with enough food for four is a common practice

"It was sharing mutual weight problems and the knowledge other compulsive eaters were going through exactly what I was that made me shape up," she said.

"Today, I weigh 165—I'm aiming for 135—but I wear a size 14. Do you know what it's like to enter a shop and not be able to try on a dress because you're too large for the biggest sizes?

"It seems as if half my time is spent now at dress shops," she smiled.

In truth, a large share of Mrs. Hutchison's time is devoted to planning sensible, nutritious meals for her family. Her husband has lost 50 pounds since she joined TNT.

"You might say TNT is based on the theory that ex-cess weight is burned up by the body's chemical reaction to combinations of certain foods. I've never eaten so much, but I've adhered 100 per cent to the list of foods we're allowed.

Mrs. Hutchison says her regular breakfast is a half grapefruit glass of tomato juice and a TNT Danish De-

"You make a Danish Delight by combining 2 ounces of Ricotta cheese, 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon, dash of vanilla and an envelope of artificial sweetener. Spread the mixture on toast and brown in a broiler.'

A typical lunch would be a green salad, toast, dietetic beverage and TNT chile rellenos. Beat one egg white until stiff. Fold in the yolk and one ounce longhorn cheese.

Stuff mixture into green chile peppers (canned) and bake for 15 minutes at 450 degrees,

"A normal dinner would be five beef weiners broiled and served with a relish of sliced onions, tomatoes and pickles. String beans and TNT apple pie would top it off."

Mrs. Hutchison snacks on strawberry milk shakes which she makes in a blender. The ingredients are one cup non-fat milk, one-half cup unsweetened strawberries and two envelopes of artificial sweetener.

"NOW INSTEAD of being a compulsive eater, I'm a compulsive TNT missionary. Whenever I see an obese person I get the irresistible urge to walk up and tell them how they can beat their weight problem."

Her zeal is reflected by the four TNT sessions she conducts weekly. On Wednesday she heads groups at 12:30 p.m. in Long Beach Elks Club and at 7:30 p.m. in the Cloud Motel, 5227 Lakewood Blvd.; Monday at 7:30 p.m. in Grace Lutheran Church, Huntington Beach; and Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the Charter House, Anaheim.

"The format is discussion of problems such as preparing TNT recipes, how to keep on the program when dining out or planning menus, say, for a camping trip,

"It's wonderful to hear praise from my physician. It's great to wear stylish clothes and receive compliments. But the most gratifying thing of all is being free of the bones and stays and pinched-in misery of wearing a girdle."

> May got its name from the Roman goddess Maia. The belief that May is an unlucky month for marriage is supposed to account for the popularity of June as the month for weddings.

The big day this month is Mother's Day, May 12th. Actually, Mother's Day dates back to 1907 when an enterprising young Miss decided that at least once a year sons and daughters should pay tribute to their mothers.

Happy-Mother's Day, mothers.

May is a good month to start planning for the upcoming summer months. There's nothing like having all the spring cleaning done before the hot weather of summer. A good place to start is by having your draperies cleaned at Foasberg's. Get them spruced up now and really enjoy summer.

Would you like more information on fabric care or do you need a speaker for your next club meeting? Call Betty Blake, Foasberg's Fabric Care Counselor. # There are no fashion awards for expectant mothers

By ERMA BOMBECK

I understand they are making paper maternity dresses these days. That's quite an innovation in an industry where the Peter Pan collar and the laundrybag waistband have been king for 25 years.

Ladies in walting in earlier times had no problem of attirer. They simply hid behind a bigger fig leaf, moved to the back of the cave or sat in a rocker for nine months. Around the turn of the century, they of attire. They simply hid bought a bigger corset and prepared to strain at the staves.

The first maternity clothes were rather nondescript, and so one woman would say to another upon hearing of her forthcoming birth, "Welcome to the shroud crowd." As women became more active, maternity clothes began to take on style and practicability. The hang-up (literally) was always the stomach. One designer figures if you put a piece of elastic around the waistband, the waistband would give. He obviously knew nothing about the law of gravity. As the waistband expanded, the skirt level in the front came out with the two-piece suit. He solved the mystery of the problem stomach by simply cutting a hole in the skirt. This was wonderful until a woman decided to raise her arms. Then her entire stomach was exposed. Drawstrings also caused some consternation among doctors. Some, in their drive to deliver the baby, were so hindered by knotted strings held together with safety bins a baby was often carried into its tenth month. Everything has been tried in the name of style . . the large pleat which makes a woman look pregnant when she is a scant two weeks along . . . the inverted tent which designers say you can wear after the baby comes. (Designers say it, but your best friend will inquire, "When's the baby due?" when the kid is two years old) . . . or the peek-a-boo bullons that you let out one at a time.

DEPARTMENT store buyers tell me there are maternity lingerie, evening clothes, bathing suits and tennis dresses. (The latter comes in sizes of small, me-dium and Ethel Kennedy, who plays right up until birth.) There are also calls for maternity wedding dresses, but I don't want to talk about that.

My concern is the paper maternity dress. The idea of discarding them and having a variable wardrobe probably sounded greate " but mark my word, they'll 1 never catch on. The rapidly advancing technology of plastics has added to the beauty, economy, health, safety and comfort of today's living. Growth prospects for plastics in the next 12 years promise to make a spectacular impact on our environment.

Predictions for plastics breathtaking, life changing

PLASTIC SEE-THROUGH furniture-whether shaped as sleek, solid pieces (above) or with the soft edge as the new inflatable chairs and couches—is becoming more popular in the changing world of home furnishings.

Since the first Celluloid item (a billiard ball) was introduced to United States consumers in 1868, plastics have been reshaping the

The convenience and pleasure of modern living is largely due to developments within the plastics industry, now celebrating its 100th

Household items have undergone constant change over the past century. By 1980 experts predict the role of plastics in home construction, furnishings, decorating, labor-saving and pleasure-giving will be little short of Esther Dadigan, the industry's goodwill ambassadress who recently stopped in Long Beach on a nationwide tour, told of some plustic items now under development that will gladden the hearts of busy homemakers:

-AN INJECTION MOULDING machine for making disposable plastic dishware as needed, quickly and cheaply. The compact unit includes a series of dies to give the housewife a choice of styles. Such a machine could completely eliminate dish washing and storage, and the machine itself would occupy far less space in the kitchen than is now used for dinnerware storage.

-"ATOMIC WOOD" for furniture and other applications where wood is now employed. This is a newly developed plastics-impregnated, irradiated wood which possesses properties of both plastic and wood plus some new characteristics . . . light weight for easy moving, shows no scratches, and never has to be polished or waxed.

---VIRTUALLY ALL-PLASTIC refrigerators, washers, dryers, dishwashers and air con-

-A PLASTIC PAINT to spread on floors that never needs waxing.

-COMPUTERIZED HOME operation for the housewife. With a number of devices made practical and economical through plastics, the housewife, before retiring for the night, will be able to press a series of buttons to program all her needs on tape for preparing and serving food the next day, housecleaning, for shopping and delivery of goods and even for payment.

ESTHER DADIGAN, "Princess of Plastics," is enveloped in plastic from head to toe , plastic coat is convenient for her travels across United States-no wrinkles, no cleaning (just sponge with damp rag), water-repellent. Shoes and bag are also made of plastic material.

-HOUSEHOLD UTILITIES such as plastic piping are showing prospects of replacing other materials in the future because of ease of installation, strength, flexibility and economy.

New plastic items now on the market include inflatable plastic furniture which has taken the home furnishings field by storm.

Plastic film chairs and couches can be inflated and hardened into solid furniture . . . other types can be left springy and buoyant after inflation.

Some manufacturers have gone so far as to fill the chair or couch with water and live gold-

Many of today's foods and other products now come from the store encased in protective plastics - the outlook is for a phenomenal increase in this respect.

Vinyl siding for the home is becoming a popular construction material — it never needs painting, is flexible, durable and economical.

According to Modern Plastics magazine, the home of 1980 will be where "plastic appliances pop out of walls on command, clean your home, launder your clothes, make your bed and cook your meals.

When artist Pat Johnson saw the Queen Mary in dry dock, she thought, "This is historic! I have to paint

Looking over the site, the pert blonde painter decided her vantage ground would be atop the Gerald Desmond bridge which is under construction just north of

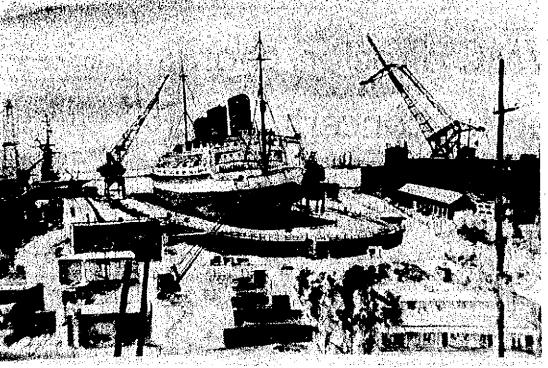

She asked for permission to go on the bridge, but City Manager John Mansell said no. He explained that the bridge won't belong to the city until it is completed. Pat got the same answer from the Harbor Department. She was told to contact Sam Clark, resident engineer of Bethlehem

Pat is an expert at painting ships. Her father was a naval architect and she grew up in the midst of ships, ship talk and ship lore. She has been commissioned to paint more than 60 ships of the Pacific Fleet and her paintings hang in vessels sailing the seas of the world. Pat did some of her paintings at Long Beach Naval Shipyard and it was the shippard's commander, Capt. Monroe Hart, who referred her to the yard's head of industrial relations, Dave Hendrickson, Hendrickson supplied a jeep, Pat put on her hard hat and headed for the bridge. There she found Sam Clark who agreed that she could paint from the high span.

"The weather was chancy. It was either too hot or too cold and the wind whipped around the bridge. They were sandblasting on the road below-the sand came swirling up. Cranes moved in and out of the scene. The light kept changing. But I wanted to do the painting, because it will be at least 10 or 15 years before the Queen Mary goes into dry dock

The watercolor was finished Wednesday. This week Pat and her husband leave for a month in Europe where she will sketch, rather than photograph, places that interest her.

Pat's next major assignment: to paint the reactivated battleship, the USS New Jersey when she arrives in September to go into dry dock.

Other elected officers are Dr. Gerald Daniel and Frank Springer, vice presidents; Agnes Herbst and Mrs. Grace Cooney, secre-taries: and James Kresl, Dr Rosenbaum has actively supported the museum since it was founded at 2300 E. Ocean Blvd. and has participated in many cultural projects. An appointed member of the Municipal Arts Commission, he is a founder of Fine Arts Affiliates of California State College, a founder-member of Long Beach Regional Arts Council and a member of Los Angeles County Museum of Art.

THE MUSEUM Association promotes the Long Beach Museum of Art and stimulates public interest in art and artists. Bus trips to out-of-town exhibitions and museums raise money for the museum's educational program, and special events are held to raise funds for new acquisitions. The association also sponsors lectures and art classes for adults and children.

A recent undertaking has been development of a sculpture garden on the museum grounds. In the future, the association hopes to sponsor foreign art tours for members.

Membership is open to the public. For further information, call Mrs. Darrell Neighbors, 271 Park Ave.

The one-man show of the work of Digur Weber poses the question, "Can a woman after 40, comfortably ensconced in resort living, make any serious contribution to creative art?"

From the works exhibited at Gallery Carnot, 142 Main St., Seal Beach, one could answer the question "yes" and "no." The "no' will be discussed first, for it is the most obvious. Mrs. Weber's work does not reflect such a deep commitment, such a need to speak, that it is fraught with

MARION S. EGBERT Boys won't play those sexy flutes

For 20 years, Marion S. Egbert has kept an alert ear tuned to the state of music in the United States. When he first joined the American Music Conference as director of educational services he traveled 300 days a year; today he travels only six months out of

The American Music Conference is a public service organization; its purpose is to help Americans make music. As its spokesman, the tall, dark-haired director keeps informed of trends in music education so that he can, in turn, inform public school and private music teachers, conduct workshops and research, advise radio and rtelevision personnel and generally advance the cause of music. His headquarters are in Chicago.

In Southern California to observe a pilot program of teaching guitar in the public schools, Egbert stopped in Long Beach to Tälk about music.

SEX, it seems is a factor, even in that purest of arts.

"We're trying to get boys to take up the soprano in-struments, such as the flute. But they identify the voice of the instrument with the feminine sex. We wish they would feel that all instruments are open to them - not just ones that sing with a deep voice. We'd like to see them take mp strings. Today more girls than boys play violins. But many of the great conductors are violinists; women just can't get the virility of sound that men do from the violin.

"Band programs, now they're a different story! The girls are very welcome, but there are 70 boys to 30 girls who turn out for band," Egbert, from thousands of observations, has formu-lated a theory. "Certain temperaments choose certain instruments. Studious introverts like the oboe, French horn, violin, cello and viola. They play classical music.

"But the sports-oriented, the extroverts, go for the trumpet and the trombone. And the drummers! They're the greatest extroverts of METHODS of teaching music have changed through the years — for the better - Egbert observed. "More teachers today help students make music functional in their lives. They learn to accompany, transpose, sight read, improvise. This is as important as learning repertoire. Today a good teacher encourages a child to try new things, to achieve musical independence. The teacher isn't afraid to say, 'I can't do this very well myself, but let's try.' A good teacher is creative, adaptable. "Plano and organ teachers are more advanced than others. With few exceptions, violin teachers still are teaching the old way. But the electronic organ opened up the realm of music and of jazz --- it's a joyful home instrument and teachers are helping people find the pleasure it brings." How to train musicians?

FUN AND EXCITEMENT ARE EVERYWHERE

It's Spring in London

By FRED TAYLOR KRAFT Travel Editor

· LONDON - Rains have cleansed the streets of this stately old city like a blonde's scrubbed cheek, and with them the grey ghost of Winter has vanished into a sudden burst of Spring.

Great beds of crocuses daffodils and tulips and flamboyant forsythias are exploding reds, purples, whites and yellows through the still-naked plane trees in Hyde Park.

Hyde Park, Within shouting distance of where many a epic chapter of Britain's long and illustrious history written, where strollers now pause to watch pretty nursemaids position their perambulators in the soft rays of an April sun.

Piccadilly Circus "what happens here, happens all over London" — is pulsating. Pedestrians with umbrellas cast an occasional suspicious glance overhead. Micro-skirts swish what little they can in their haste to work stations. Bearded hippies and non-conformists. Tourists hearing their trademark, cameras. Cabbies boop-booping impatiently, worming their way past red double-deck buses

London has come out of hibernation.

I WAS WHISKED like a feather into this 700-square mile metropolis of almost nine million cousins on one of Alitalia Airline's fleet of superb Long Beach-made Douglas DC-8s. And, although I had just flown 3,456 miles from New York felt eager-beaver to join the vanguard of tourists predominantly American — that was swarming the city. LONDON BOASTS MORE THAN 4,000 PUBS where, it seems, everyone gathers with friends for a go at English ale and other drinks, and a possible light snack. (British Travel Association photo)

Every corner, every street of London invites exploration with the inevitable reward of fun and excitement. It seems the district centered by Parliament Square gets first call from most visitors. Here, as if packaged with the footsore in mind, are the pedestals of history — Westmin-ster Abbey, the Houses of Parliament, No. 10 Downing Street, Scotland Yard, Westminster Bridge and St. James Park -- where crowds become mobs for the parade of the Horse Guards - to name a few. Big Ben smiles down benignly on it all. And as those who have already been here are aware, such other "in" sights as Buckingham Palace, Trafalgar Square, Pic-cadilly Circus, Chelsea and Soho are only whoop and a

Passport requests lag

SAN FRANCISCO — In

March, passport applications were down 9 per cent from March of last year -first time I can recall anything like this in the last 15 years.

"With all the talk of travel taxes and dollars losing value overseas, we really don't know what to plan about our trip to Europe."

THE TALK now is that some travel tax will be put on air and ship tickets to Europe and the far Pacific. (But not to Mexico and South America, the Caribbean, Hawaii and Canada.) Probably $5 on every $100 worth of tickets.

You could insure yourself by guying tickets now - you can always change the reservation date. You can huy foreign money in advance, too.

"If we go to Jamaica and the Virgin Islands this summer, is there a time when the rates are cheaper?"

The ones that crash are usually second-class buses. I suspect the brake repair is poor and the drivers are careless. The hairiest rides I've ever had have been on Mexican buses, I mean drivers who put the thing out of gear and try to coast the next 50 miles.

THE MAJOR TIPS go to the room steward and table steward. On American ships, first-class, about $1 to $1.50 a day for a couple. (Tip at the end of the voyage.) On foreign ships, I think I'd cut that a third. Not a firm rule. If the ship and cruise are very elegant, you might find your fellow passengers humping it up.

The deck steward is tipped a couple of dollars to start if he assigns your deck chair. Couple more at the end of the trip if you've heen taking drinks outside. Wine stewards are usually paid each week and get a dollar or two at each pay-

Bar stewards are tipped at the end of each session. (If you're a swinger and want a lot of attention, give the head hartender $10 right away. Tell him you're going to give his place a lot of action.)

"A friend of mine says there is a free port shop in the airport at Honolulu.

MONTEGO BAY, Jamaica - Plans for an $8.5 million, 442-room Holiday Inns hotel to be built at Montego Bay have been announced by the Hon. Robert C. Lightbourne, minister of trade and industry.

The Holiday Inn becomes the third new Jamaica hotel to be announced in the six weeks since the March 8 passage by the Jamaican legislature of expanded income tax holidays for new hotel construction.

To be known as the Rose Hall Holiday Inn, the new hotel will be built on beach frontage of the 6,000-acre Rose Hall Estate which

include Pacific Northwest

VISTAS LIKE St. Mary's Lake in Glacier National Park (above) await participants of wilderness trips this summer.

Thirty-five wilderness trips ranging from the Yukon River in Alaska and the Pacific Northwest to the Pecos Country in New Mexwith its outstanding attracico are offered to the public this year by The Wilderness Society, which has its tions of fossilized plant and animal life of the Shoshone national headquarters in National Forest in western Wyoming, Aug. 22-30.

These popular riding, walking, back-packing, and water trips offer opportunities to explore many of the nation's most beautiful areas of wilderness. Such trips have been sponsored as a non-profit educational program of the Society for 15 years, and are designed to acquaint people with wilderness and how it can properly be used.

Free folders, reservation forms, and details regarding the expanded trips pro-gram are available from The Wilderness Society's Western Regional Office at 5850 East Jewell Ave., Denver, Colo. 80222.

EXPERIENCE wilderness leaders and trip physicians accompany the expeditions, which are conducted by some of the best out-fitters in the West, according to the Society's trip coordinator, William Mounsey. Outfitters provide excellent meals and all camping and travel equipment needed. Guests supply only their own clothing and personal ltems.

Most of the areas visited offer excellent fishing as well as superb opportuni-ties for sightsecing, nature study, and healthful recreation far from the tumult of the workaday world. Frequent layover days enable guests to participate in many interesting side trips or relax around camp. Familles as well as individual guests are invited to apply for the expeditions.

The Pecos Wilderness near Santa Fe, New Mexicp, is visited by both a traditional spring ride, June 20-29, and a fall ride, Sept. 19-28. The scene then shifts to Montana for a ride July Selway-Bitterroot Wilderness and the trips in the vast Bob Marshall Wilderness July 20-31 and Aug. 3-

Next trips go through the high Wallowa Mountains of the Eagle Cap Wilderness ride in Oregon, July 26-Aug. 5 and the North Cascades Wilderness horseback trip in Washington's proposed National Park July 31- Aug. 10.

* * * * COLORADO'S San Juan-Rio Grande wilderness of massive mountains and timbered valleys is the locale for two trips Aug. 1-14 and Aug. 17-30, and two rides are also scheduled for the famous Yellowstone Park wilderness: Aug. 6-17 and Aug. 20-31. Costs of the 7-to-14-day horsehack trips range from $175 to $325 per person.

A walk along the wild Missouri River in the Gates of the Mountains Wilderness in Montana is schedtiled June 15-22. This trip and the Salmon River Breaks wilderness outing to the River of No Return in Idaho, July 8-16, are also being offered for the first time by The Wilderness Soriety.

Other new walking trips include an expedition into the ruggedly beautiful Bighorn Crags country of the Idaho wilderness, July 20-28; a Cloud Peak wilder-

The Wilderness Society also recommends the "wilderness life classes" offered by Charles McDonald of Stevensville, Montana, for those interested in learning how to make enjoyable wilderness trips on their own.

Small groups on each trip assure a realistic experi-ence in wilderness living, Trip Manager Mounsey stated. A maximum of 15 to 18 guests is planned for of the horseback, walking and float trips, and a limit of 10 guests is placed on each of the backpacking and canoe outings. Because of the limited numher of openings on each expedition, it is important that reservations be made early, Mounsey pointed out.

'Jack' tortoise stolen, returned

Giant tortoises are among the attractions at Addo Game Reserve near Africa's Cape Town, although the reserve is much more widely known for its herd of elephants.

Best known of the tortoises is one which enjoys crawling under parked automobiles then raising itself up on its legs, lifting one or two wheels of the car comfree from the pletely ground.

Recently this tortoise was stolen by visitors to the park and authorities, through the press and radio, asked for its return.

Within a few days not only the "Jacking" tortoise. but two additional tortoises were left in front of nearby police stations.

TRAVEL BY THE BOOK Pictorial history relates full story of Los Angeles

A dramatic portrayal of Los Angeles including glimpses of such neighboring cities as Long Beachfrom Pueblo days to the present — unfolds in a handsome new book "LOS ANGELES: Portrait of an Extraordinary City" (Sunset Magazine & Book Co., Menlo Park, Calif. 94025; $9.95 through June 30, $11.75 thereafter).

This is no run-of-the-mill book, but one whose 390 black-and-white and fullcolor pictures and captions which put into lucid focus the outlook, attitude, and achievements of its citizens whose imagination and vitality have created a dynamic, vital, and important city on the move.

The first section of the book tells the stirring story of Los Angeles' past with a wealth of old prints, many of which are seldom if ever seen, together with drawmaps and photographs. It adds appreciably to an understanding of the arca's true destiny.

The second and major section is a pictorial unveiling of modern Los Angeles. It reveals the area's development in such fields as culture, recreation, sophis-ticated industry, agriculture, everyday living, education and entertainment.

The overall view is, so far as this reviewer knows, the most comprehensive of Its kind ever undertaken on this second largest city (in area) and second most populated area in the United States. In addition to a valuable index which is omitted in many similar books, the 16-page appendix includes such valuable and informative information as an up-to-date map of the Los Angeles area; directory of points of interest, including historical features. nauseums, parks and universities; glossary listing of Spanish origins of place gy of past events; and a reading list of books about Los Angeles.

Befitting its wealth of contents, the large format of "Los Angeles" is handsomely designed in the same tradition of other Sunset Pictorial Gift Books such as an earlier volume, Beautiful California.

Supervising editor was Paul C. Johnson, editor of Sunset Books, and a talented staff of assistants. Special consultants were history-wise Lawrence Clark Powell, W. W. Robinson and Robert Weinstein. -

Variety of events to draw throngs

A variety of May's colorful events continues during the mext 10 days in Southland communities, according to the Southern California Visitors Council, with such crowd pleasers as a sheriff's rodeo, Armed Forces Day celebration, flower show and an art fair. RCA cowboys will ride brones and Brahma bulls, wrestle steers and rope calves at the Kern County Sheriff's Rodeo, scheduled Friday and Saturday at the county fairgrounds in Bakersfield.

The final concert of the 13th season of the Young Musicians Foundation will be held at 8:30 p.m. Friday in Royce Hall, UCLA. On the program will be three Debut finalists: violinist Eugene Fodor, Jr., 18, of Golden, Colo.; pianist Don-ald Manildi, 22, of Spokane, Wash., and soprano Shigemi Matsumoto of Reseda.

"NUESTRO Condado Generciso" (Our Country Beautiful) will be the theme of La Fiesta San Luis Obispo which opens Thursday and continues through next Sunday in San Luis Obispo. There will be a western parade and a children's parade: Miss San Luis Obispo

tainment and sports; and how to tip and avoid red tape.

The revised titles: Britain, London, Paris, Italy, Rome, France, Scandinavia Hawaii, Spain, Israel, Mexico, the Caribbean, and the Bahamas.

In addition there are two new titles: "Greece and the Aegean Islands" and "West Germany." merce golf tournament will

wood County Club, Whittier, beginning Friday and continuing through May 25.

The Cyrpress First Annual Golf Tournament will be played May 24-25 on the Los Alamitos course.

Torrance's Armed Forces Day Celebration will be held for the ninth year on Friday and Saturday. The Armed Forces Day military parade starting at 10 a.m. Friday is believed to be the largest civic-sponsored event of its kind in the U.S. Last year, 6,000 military marchers participated.

Grand marshal of the big Torrance march will be four-star Gen. James K. Woodnough, U.S. Conti-nental Army commander. Air Force, Navy and Marine planes will stage aerial fly-overs during the march. A fireworks display will be set off at 8:30 p.m. Friday.

AN UNUSUAL event the Intercollegiate Rodeo in which college cowboys and cowgirls compete - will be held Friday and Saturday at Pierce College at Woodland Hills in the San Fernando Valley. Starting at 7 p.m. under lights in the football stadium, Pierce's team will compete against those of Arizona State, Arizona U., Nevada U. and the two Cal Polys, in brone and Brahma bull riding, calf roping and steer wrestling, and the cowgirls in barrel racing and perhaps goat tying. The student teams furnish their own horses, ropes, chaps, spurs and hay for their nags, and coach themselves. Prizes consist of western equipment, plus a cash jackpot put up by themselves

Santa Fe Springs celebrates its 11th year of cityhood Saturday with a parade of industrial floats and exhibits.

"Secrets"

"This is a play of reaction rather than action," says Tad Mosel about his original drama "Secrets." I've always found myself writing dramas of implication, not of statement."

"Secrets," to be broadcast in color as the fourth "CBS Playhouse" presentation of the season at 9:30 p.m. Wednesday, Ch. 2, examines one moment in the life of a successful accountant—a moment in which he asserts his right to personal privacy in the face of family and community curiosity.

nity curiosity.

"Actually, the story and its conclusion are dependent on what a person watching it will see and hear," Mosel says. "Some of my friends who have read the script call it a love story; others label it a mystery. I'm very pleased about these different interpretations that have been placed on it, for I feel that I've written something which can evoke different emotions. I believe that any play about which there is total agreement, with no varying interpretations of it; is ipso facto a dull play."

"SECRETS," Mosel's first television writing since 1962, rekindled old professional associations for its author. Arthur Hill, who plays accountant Bryan Gray, had the lead in Mosel's Pulitzer Prizewinning Broadway play "All the Way Home." The "CBS Playhouse" drama is the seventh play Mosel has done with Eileen Heckart, whose character in it is the catalyst that triggers the plot development. The author has also worked several times with Barbara Bel Geddes, who portrays Hill's wife, and with producer Martin Manulis, who, like Mosel, has been toiling in the Hollywood vineyards for the past half-dozen years.

"'Secrets' is straight drama, with no experimental gimmicks," Mosel says,

"The opening scene of 'Secrets' Is just such an empaneling of a jury, but don't get the wrong idea — the play is defi-nitely not a courtroom drama, and the characters are not out of my personal experience. They're out of my mind."

Opera and soap opera share a common element, maintains Macdonald Car-"Just listen to Milton Cross explain the plot of an opera some Saturday, if you think a soap opera is complicated," said Mac.

He's been starring as Dr. Tom Horton in "Days of Our Lives," a daytime serial full of human complications, Mondays through Fridays over the NBC Television Network.

"The reason why opera persisted is because its real appeal was to the middle and lower classes, not to the people in the box seats and orchestra seats," said Mac. "I find today's musicals more satisfying from a dramatic point of view than opera ever was. In fact, musical comedy now has better books and dialogue than орега.

"I HOPE to get back into musicals," he said, "That's where I started." He starred in "Lady in the Dark" on Broadway.

"The difference between doing a play and a musical is incredible," said Mac. "No matter how old the costumes get when doing a musical, you're buoyed up every night when you hear the overlure. When you do a play, you have to get yourself up there by yourself every night. There's that wonderful moment of excitement when you hear the overture. Everyone feels it."

THE BEST ON RECORD: The Grammy Awards, Wednesday, Ch. 4.

The annual Grammy awards show is usually a forthright no-nonsense program that comes along months after the awards have been passed out. This one was no exception, although it was more sleek, more colorful and more sophisticated than in past years. It concentrated for the most part on music and musicians.

The hour show opened with the Fifth Dimension singing their hit, "Up, Up and Away," voted best record by the National Academy of Recording Arts and Sciences. The tune, which certainly is catchy, has had its effect considerably watered down since it has been adopted as the musical signature of an airline - although every time the number is played, it is like a built-in plug.

Bobbie Gentry and Glen Campbell, both multiple winners, came along with their hit numbers. John Hartford sang "Gentle on My Mind" which he wrote. Lou Rawls was engaged with his "Dead End Street." Cannonball Adderley and his quintet had quietly effective instrumental number. From a visual standhis quintet had a quietly effective numbers was built around Campbell's singing "By the Time I get to Phoenix." It involved some trick photography and had the performer literally playing two roles on the same screen. However, the tricky photography got a little out of hand in one Bobbie Gentry number that showed the singer's whole figure as she sat playing her guitar and at the same time a huge closeup of her face filled in the background it was unusual, but distracting.

Liza Minnelli, in a particularly unattractive little boy's suit, belted some numbers from "Cabaret," and Sen. Everett Dirksen, whose "Gallant Men" recording won a documentary award, made a couple of mild jokes, thanked the academy but did not offer any free samples of his readings. There was also a rerun of a bit from the re-cent "PBL" tape showing a guitar-violin concert by Ravi Shankar and Yehudi Menuhin which resulted in a record that wen a chamber music award.

One of the most delightful moments came with a medley with Jack Jones, Miss Gentry and Campbell singing winning Grammy songs of the past 10 years.

Is He for Real?

Tiny Tim---Instant Blockbuster

By RICK DU BROW

Can there be doubt any longer that the greatest new television star of the past season was Tiny Tim of NBC-TV's "Rowan and Martin's Laugh-In" series?

And can anyone doubt that he is just emerging, that he is headed for a blockbuster career in all of show business?

Nothing makes this more clear than his first album, recently out on Reprise Records. It is a masterpiece, an instant collector's item that reveals his timeless feel for music both old and new, and radiates a shining innocence throughout the uproarious humor, touching ballads and new-world musical commentary. It is not merely a record, but a show, a major production that transmits the magic of the theatre.

TINY TIM

IN ADDITION, those televiewers who have become used to Tiny Tim's volce—his falsetto singing—will be pleasantly surprised when he sets aside this trademark occasionally on the record and reveals a wider, warmer vocal range.

I confess, I sat down to the record expecting hardly more than a few laughs. But the artistry becomes immediately clear, and sustains throughout. The orchestrations, besides, are quite wonderful, catchy in the old style, intense in the new. And there, above all, is Tiny Tim making you somehow smile down deep and trust, without question his innocence of spirit.

"TINY TIM is a lost lithograph by Toulouse-Lautree," wrote Albert Goldman in a recent and brilliant article in a New York newspaper. He added convincingly that Tiny Tim, born Herbert Kauhry, "is directly in touch with a musical and theatrical past that speaks from his mouth with the frightening authority of a dybbuk."

AMONG THE native tribes on the Serengeti-Mara plains of East Africa are the Masai, a nomadic people constantly seeking grass and water for their cattle. Scene is from "Man, Beast and the Land" on Ch. 4, 7:30 p.m., Thursday.

If Tiny Tim weren't for real, he would have been demolished by Johnny Carson recently on the "Tonight" show. Instead, Tiny Tim was completely untouched by the usual wisecracks. He left himself wholly and innocently vulnerable — thereby becoming indestructible — and transformed Carson into a straight man, winning away the audience and the show.

I LEAVE you with these words by Tiny Tim, recorded by NBC:

"I come from New York and my dear, dear sweet parents have been so wonderful to me as well as my dear sweet friends. I have been singing ever since I can remember, years ago appearing in amateur shows in Brooklyn, and just all over the place.

"I sang in hospitals, and for the poor in the streets. I even sang in back alleys and on subway trains, just to sing whatever the people wanted to hear. All I wanted to do was to spread joy all over."

I believe him, I absolutely believe him, Absolutely. East African Special

Douglas Fairbanks Jr, will narrate "Man, Beast and the Land," a one-hour color special to be presented at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Ch. 4.

As off-camera narrator of "Man, Beast and the Land," Fairbanks will describe the life in the Serngeti-Mara region of East Africa, the last remaining part of the world where more than a million animals migrate freely across open plainsland.

Fairbanks will also discuss the work of Dr. and Mrs. Lee Talbot of the Smithsonian Insitution. The Talbots have studied these plains piece by piece and through their work the complex inter-relationships between the animals, we at her, vegetation and fire is better understood.

Also featured on the program will be Solomon A.O, ole Saibull, a member of the Massai tribe and Chief of Conservation for Ngorongoro Crater, the largest in the world. He will explain why the Serengeti-Mara Ngorongoro plainsland is unique in our world: "Here an astonishing varlety of animals and plants continue to coexist as they have for many centures, each playing a part in the constantly changing balance among the land, animals and people of the natural beauty of the great plainsland.

In a ceremony at the national shrine Miss Blake became the first woman and the first living person to be inducted into the hall of fame for Western entertainment greats. Dean Krakel, managing director of the Cowboy Hall of Fame, cited the red-haired beauty for "enduring contributions to the West through her realistic performances for 14 years on the Gunsmoke program and for her interest in the Cowboy Hall of Fame and Western Americans."

OKLAHOMA CITY sculptor Leonard McMurry is working on a bronze bust of Miss Blake, which will be placed in the museum's Western Heritage Theater when that division is completed. The theater will be used to show classic Western and other movies and will house mementos of the great actors and actresses honored at the Hall of Fame.

Miss Kitty joins Gary Cooper, Tom Mix, and William S. Hart in a place of honor in the Hall of Fame of Great Western Actors and Actresses. Induction of a living actress was made possible by the national shrine's board of trustees who in their recent annual meeting decided that "elec-tion of people who have contributed immeasurably to the West through motion pictures and entertainment should not necessarily be posthumously." Trustees of the shrine may select honorees to the ball for great Western entertainers, but election of an actor or actress yearly is not required.

AMANDA BLAKE was born Beverly Louise Neill in Buffalo, N.Y. She attended schools there, in Gainesville, Ga., Claremont, Calif., and at Pomona College in California.

She spent more time with scripts and little-theater productions than with textbooks and soon left college to become a full-time actress. Her early experience included little theater and radio work in Buffalo, summer stock in New England, and eventually motion pictures in Hollywood.

THE REAL INSIDE ON COMPUTER DATING

Hear KLAC Radio's star "Girl Power" communication VICTORIA JAMES explore, in depth, the controversial world of computer dating with her special guest, Mr. Don Cornish, Director of Compatibility Testing of Los Angeles. Learn the advantages and the pitfalls of computer matching services—find out precisely how single people are tested, then matched with highly compatible members of the apposite sex. Get the real inside story at last.

- How well can it work?
- What kind of people join?
- Do you get your money's worth?

Ask your questions, and let the chips fall where they may.

7:00 P.M., Sunday on

57 ON YOUR BIAL / A METROMEDIA STATION

Perhaps you are considering joining the tens of thousands of Southern Californians who are already enjoying our program of dating people who are as close to being ideal for one another as modern technology can determine. If so, simply return the form below and you will learn, confidentially of course, how COMPATIBILITY TESTING, the world's oldest, largest and most respected computerized introduction service can GUARANTEE 2 to 10 compatible referrals every 30 days for five full years, all for one reusanable fixed fee.

and add that you can read a novel in less than 2 hours ...a newspaper in 15 minutes ... college texts and technical material at 50-75 pages per hour!

But after all, it's not only the speed at which you can read that counts. It's also the opportunity to keep up with the fast moving pace of today's world. As a busy professional man or someone in business, you probably have far more periodicals and technical journals than you have time for. As a student, you've had to work until 3 A.M. too often for an exam. And everyone has a list of books he'd like to read ... but can't ... because of time.

Right now you're reading approximately 100 to 350 words per minute, when you could be reading at least

ACHIEVEMENT WARRANTY

We guarantee to refund the entire tuition of any graduate who, after completing minimum class and study requirements, does not at least triple his reading efficiency as measured by our beginning and ending tests. Reading efficiency includes both speed and comprehension.

3 times faster. Today we live in the midst of an information explosion. You have to read faster to get ahead...and read even faster to stay ahead.

Our average Reading Dynamics graduate reads more than 1500 words per minute without sacrificing comprehension . . . after only 8 weekly lessons. And you can do it, too. We guarantee to refund your entire tuition if you don't triple your reading speed. What will you do with the extra time? Take seven strokes off your golf game? Put more love in your tennis game? Do the outside "suggested" readings for that class? Be able to subscribe to that new magazine that you didn't have time for? Maybe, you'll just use that extra time to read three times as much material.

It's something to think about . . . and something to do something about. Be our guest at a free demonstration lecture to find out more about the Evelyn Wood Reading Dynamics course. One hour this week can save you countless hours next week, next month.

Your new reading skill will last a lifetime . . . but you must take the first step. ACT NOWL

"Some cats like to 'talk' for instance - they meow all the time, Some leap, some saunter, some stalk. Some like heights and some are afraid of heights. I don't think it would be feasible, timewise, to develop a wellrounded picture of an alley cat using just one cat."

WISER confessed that he had an easier time with the big cats — the lions, tigers and oce-lots — filmed for the special than he did with the so-called "domesticated"

"The big cats were generally well-trained and docile, but those little house pets can be real terrors at times," he said, admitting to a prior prejudice toward dogs.

"During the course of filming, I was variously clawed, bitten and . . . ahem . . . otherwise victimized," he concluded.

Now You Can Rent a Critic

'Today' Turns up an I'll See It For You' Man

United Press International

Welcome to 1968, Now you can rent a critic,

The gentleman's name is J. C. Thomas, and he came to the attention of televiewers the other day on NBC's "Today" show.

His function was summed up briefly by host Hugh Downs:

"Very simply if for some reason you can't attend a cultural event or some kind but you'd like to know what it was all about, Mr. J. C. Thomas will go in your place and then he returns to give you a personal critique in your own home."

WELL, after that, another member of the "Today" staff, Barbara Walter, asked Mr. Thomas what it cost for someone to rent his services as a critic.

"Twenty-five dollars," Mr. Thomas replied.

"Do you get many offers for this kind of work?" he was asked.

"Oh," he said, "I've had perhaps a couple of dozen phone calls, Barbara. And of those about seven or eight, maybe nine people have hired me so far."

"Now you can't make a living from this."
"Oh, no."

What do you do in real life when you're not crilicizing?"

"I'm a free lance writer and critic essentially," sald Mr. Thomas, "and a photographer and musician and perhaps a few dozen other things; whatever is necessary to survive and do it creatively."

WHAT MADE him decide to become a rent-acritic?

"Well, I moved to New York in January to free lance essentially in the creative and the performing arts, primarily writing, photography and the other things I do, and I had to think of a way with all the millions of writers, some unemployed, some not, some talented and some not in this town, to think of a way to get my name across

MR. THOMAS was asked whether he gives a written report or come back and chats about what he has seen.

"Well, here's the way I generally do it," he said.
"First of all, I will talk to the individual, because this is personalized communication in my book and it's aimed at an audience of

"Therefore, I have to know what the audience of one wants to get out of the particular activity, what his or her likes and dislikes are, and so on, so I can, shall we say, slant the review toward their particular tastes without inhibiting myself, of course, but slanting it toward them so that they are going to get what they hired me for. "Then I attend it, of course, take my notes. Then I write it up and I will deliver a verbal critique as well as a written one. I will give them a written one and then I will improvise on that, I will even sometimes, if I feel so inclined, act out a few parts or go through certain motions. Actually I do a performance; it's more than just a straight critique."

Go get 'em, J.C.

COLOR US BLACK, aired Monday, Ch. 28.

A nne-hour documentary on the recent four-day seizure of the administration building by students of Howard University . . . . The first half of the documentary showed some of the students expressing their feelings about the situation of the Negro in America, his search for selfidentity and the failure of Howard's faculty and administration to reflect the growing Negro self-consciousness...

The outspoken students insist that they will no longer be trained as imitation white people for an inferior place in a racist society. One of them - and it is difficult to judge how representative he was spoke of achieving full liberalization of the Negro now or of destroying the society that keeps him in bondage. Even allowing for youthful revolutionary rhetoric, the Howard students made it perfectly clear that they are no longer prepared to accept second best in American society.

The second half of the program was an interesting but rather elementary film on the Negro's search for self-identity. Produced by the Howard Drama Department with the facilities of National Educational Television, the film portrayed a black-white romantic triangle in which a Negro boy and a white girl live together, engage in sexual fantasies and then, as the Negro youth discovers the need to assert his blackness, separate. "I cannot fight the white man while living with his woman," the youth says as he goes off to find a Negro mate. The documentary was not entirely successful in bringing into sharp focus the psycho-social needs of the Howard students and hv extension — the larger Negro community. The outraged voices of insulted intellectuals were heard clearly, bu their program for reform — if, indeed, they have one — was never sounded. This seems to be a recurring problem with television documentaries reflecting the assertiveness of youth.

The producers are content to capture the youthful anger, but appear reluctant to ask the hard questions about what is expected of society if there is to be a meeting of minds. Until the questions are asked, TV is contributing to the danger by offering us heat instead of light,

- Cynthis Lowry, AP

WE WON'T GO, aired May 3, Ch. 4.

The growing phenomenon of draft resistance on the part of American youth was explored rather superficially ... covered ground already familiar to most viewers . . .

It was most effective in capturing the high idealism of most of the resisters and the tortured probing of conscience that is affecting Americans of draft age all over the cuntry. What it did not make clear - and this would seem to be the pressing journalistic need if the generation gap is to be bridged at all — is how the protestors arrive at their judgment that the war is immoral and that they are so right in their moral judgment that they feel conpelled to dely the law. -George Gent, NY Times

ROBERT SCOTT & the Race to the South Pole (7). 7:30 p.m. (C) — The highly-acclaimed, award-winning re-creation of the ill-fated journey of Capt. Robert Falcon Scott to Antarctica in 1910-12, a failure as an expedition but a triumph of the human spirit, gets its second reprise. Producer John H. Secondari is narrator, with words of Captain Scott read by Douglas Fairbanks Jr.

DISCOVER AMERICA with Jose Jimenez (4), 10 p.m. (C) — Bellboy Jose Jimenez tells hotel guest Bill Dana of his adventures in discovering America, and in flashback we travel with Jose to fairs and festi-vals — from Hannibal's vais — from Hainbard Tom Sawyer fence painting contest to the horseback riders of Medocino County. The essential character of each region is accented, with humor provided by Jose's participation.

Girls Take Over

Girls are taking over everywhere! It used to be sailors that had a girl in every port. Now it's girls who have friends in every state. At least, the girls who com-pete in the Miss U.S.A. Beauty Pageant and Telecast — to be seen at 10 p.m. Saturday Ch. 2 — proclaim this state of affairs.

Says the current Miss U.S.A., Cheryl Patton of Miami Beach:
"I've traveled all over the country in the past year since I've been Miss U.S.A. and because of last year's Pageant, I never lack for a girl friend in whom to confide wherever I go, It's one of the nicer fringe benefits of having the title."

SHE ISN'T discounting for one moment, of course, the $10,000 in cash she received; the car; the wardrobe; and the mink coat. "The money is in the bank, the car's driven whenever I'm at home, and that's been a large total of perhaps 25 days in the past year, and for a Floridian in the frozen north this past year, the mink coat was invaluable!" she laughs.

On the serious side, Cheryl said, "We take so much for granted, living in our country. Until I went to South America, I didn't realize how fortunate I am to live in the United States. I have a much greater feeling of pride, that I didn't realize was in my subconscious until I left the United States."

HAS SHE changed in any way, or in her attitudes?

'I don't think so, I've heard a lot about professional beauty queens, but I don't feel being Miss U.S.A. has changed me. I personally feel if a title can change a person, it's no good, or the person had faulty values in the first place."

It is perhaps Cheryl's major at Miami Beach Junior College of child psychology that has helped fashion her philosophy.

"I've learned to know myself better, and so I can understand other people better too. I honestly feel

I'm the same girl except I'm a lot richer, and what's wrong with that?"

HALCYON point of Cheryl's life when she re-turns from her tours as Miss U.S.A. to her home in Miami Beach where live her mother and father (he's a Miami Beach Police Detective), 15-year-old sister and 5-year-old brother is pretty typically American:

"I eat hot dogs for dinner almost every night! When I'm on the road it's a constant procession of formal banquets. And no one serves hot dogs at those except perhaps to the Queen of England. Not to Miss U.S.A., that's for sure."

Here's Johnny!-- A Bit Damp

Carson's First Special in September

By JACK GAVER

United Press International

Johnny Carson whooshed down to Florida last weekend to get some more money for his bank account by starring in a damp one-hour television special to be broadcast by NBC next Sept. 7.

"Damp" doesn't refer to the quality of the entertainment, which might get the biggest rating since the Noah flood, but to the locale of the show, the Pope family's famous Cypress Gardens where the natives seem to be born with gills, dorsal fins and water skis instead of feet.

The star of NBC's "Ton l g h t" show plunged Immediately upon arrival into a series of water stunts spread out over the five days allotted to completing the special. Nothing fazed the lithe 42-year-old, who is accustomed to trying all sorts of stunts on the "tanight" star, according to director Lou Tedesco.

"NO ONE could have been more cooperative,' Tedesco said. "Anything we asked him to do, he did. He had to be told very little. In fact, he often added his own touches - for the better.

"I simply put him in a frame of action and told him people would be coming up to talk to him. I didn't tell him what to say. He knows instinctively what to say and how. His sense of timing is simply great.

"He worked under the

most difficult conditions the first day, being towed on a platform carrying a chair at a speed of 30 miles an hour. The water was constantly slapping at his face, but he never lost his poise. Out of 14 scenes, only two had to be done over, and one of those was because he had been given the wrong name to say at a certain point.

Tedesco said the special had been in the works for two years.

DICK POPE SR., and the members of his family, are. no strangers to television. Ed Sullivan and Esther Williams have used their watering place for video, programs. Pope had a special camera boat built for this show in expectation that it will be used for other television programs later.

Most of Carson's stunts in this special were thought up by Chester Feldman, who created the idea for Stewart Productions, and writer Pat McCormack.

Used for the show besides some of the regular Cypress Gardens performers were singing star Vikki Carr and The Every Mother's Son Musical Quartet.

One of the tricks called for the music to seem to be coming from under water, with Carson diving down and seeing four young men. seemingly playing instruments, Actually, there were four experienced skindivers from Polk Juntor College in Winter Haven, Fla., rigged up with weights and supplied with air through clear plastic hoses to enable them to stay down as long as 45 minutes, TEDESCO said the biggest problem involved Brenda Mitchell, an Australian swimmer playing a mermald, who at one point pulls The Every Mother's. Son group through the water. Her mermaid costume, heavy with silvered sequins to simulate scales, was so heavy that it pulled her under. They had to devise a transparent contraption to which she could hold on and stay affoat.

Aithough Carson has appeared on several specials, it always has been as a performer, and this will be his first starring special. There likely will be more, and don't be surprised if the next one is set in a nice dry desert.

would like to say that the most thrilling moment of my life was the day I walked into Pat Walker's Reducing Salon and heard the words I had wanted to hear, that I could and would have a slim, youthful figure again,

I was 35 inches around my waist. I would shun scales, also when I passed'a mirror I would look the other way.

My dress size at the start was size 18. Now I wear size 12, I can say now, I'm one of the happiest women in the world.

-Mrs. Eibel Moak, Long Beach

I had gained so much weight that I had to wear a size 16 dress and became much too heavy for my build and felt so matronly.

I now wear a size 10 dress and have just remarried and have a very admiring husband.

I highly recommend your program for anyone interested in a new and lovelier figure and am truly glad I had my figure analysis and treatments.

-Mary Van Hooser, Lakewood

It's been just great! Your new computer program is marvelous because you take your treatments in the privacy of individual rooms without being disturbed until your treatment is completed.

I can tell you that my husband is really proud of me! He is always complimenting me now, which he never did before and I really can't blame him for not doing so

Although I am only 5 feet, 2 inches, was 136 lbs. and wore a tight size 12. Now I wear a size 5. Thanks so much, Pat Walker, for your marvelous program. I couldn't have done it without your

I had a successful career in Real Estate until surgery stopped me.

After surgery and months of convalescence with little exercise, my weight was out of control. I tried many reducing Within two weeks improvement was certain with the Pat Walker Reducing Program. Results were steady and my general health and circulation improved. I reduced from a 169-pound size 181/2 to a 121-pound size 10. This business world is

-Mrs. Jeanne Grawford, Whittier

After having two children and loving to eat I got quite heavy. I tried many doctors and diet aids without much suc-

After reducing at Pat Walker's I now wear a size 10 and it's just wonderful. You go into a dress shop and everything looks good on.

I don't have to be ashamed to wear a bathing suit with flabby thighs, it gives you a lot of self-confidence to be firm. After being called fatty it's fun to be called "Skinny Kid."

-Mrs, Eunice Pogleman, Lakewood

Sympathetic with my unsuccessful attempts to lose weight on my own, my busband finally told me, "Go see if Pat Walker can back up all that advertising!"

A SPECIAL REDUCING OFFER that you can enjoy Summer with a new figure

May 12, 1968

Dear (Miss) or (Mrs.) ....

(Write In Your Name)

If you feel that your figure problems are next to hopeless, if you think that reducing will work for everyone else but not for you, if you think that you are too old, or too young, or too flabby, or that being overweight runs in your family, or that your bone structure is too large, or too small, or that you have writed too long, or that you have an impossible reducing problem, or if you have found some unique, special excuse for your over-weight problems, then this letter, which may be used as a special incentive offer valued at $20.00, may be used by you to start reducing now, so that you too can enjoy Summer and vacation with a new figure that you will be proud of, because you too can reduce quickly and easily, in com-plete privacy, without strenuous exercise, without disrobing, without starvation diets as over 5,000,-000 women have done with our program.

If you should make the decision to start reducing now you may use this letter valued at $20.00 this week only and apply it to the cost of your figure correction. .

Sincerely yours,

This letter invites you to come in or call for a courtesy treatment and figure analysis without obligation and from the analysis we will tell you where you are going to lose, how long it will take and based upon $2.00 per treatment we will tell you exactly how many treatments you need and the exact cost of your figure correction. It will then be your decision whether you reduce professtonally with us or not, and if you should so decide, the above letter is worth $20.00 to you to be applied to your personalized figure correction program.

Because Pat Walker is introducing her exclusive new computer controlled reducing program, you are invited to have a FRFE trial treatment and figure analysis without obligation. Come in or phone HEmlock 2-2973 or Melcalf 4-0672 to reserve your appointment (collect calls invited). Hours are 8 A.M. ate 8 A.M. to 9 P.M., Monday through Friday; Saturday 9 A.M. to 4 P.M.

The morning I stepped on the scales to check my weight, it was a shock to see the dial stop at 216 lbs Enough of a shock to bring me to my senses and decide to do something about my weight NOW, not LATER.

I decided, then was the time for professional heip. I had been reading your advertisements for several months, and was hopeful that you could do for me what you had done for so many other overweight women.

My weight is down to 146 lbs. and last week I bought a size 14½ dress instead of a size 24½.

—Mrs. Ira G. MacDonald, Long Beach

I have reduced from a size 16 to a size 10 and am still going down.

The way these treatments have helped me reduce is proof positive that any woman who uses Pat Walker's marvelous program will be pleasantly surprised by the wonderful results.

LIEBL, of southern Germany and Austria, means "young beloved one." was also derived from the ancient German "Liut," describing "young man of the people." The Liebi armorial shield from Vienna, Austria, is green, emblazoned with a flaming red heart placed below a pair of silver birds flying down at the heart.

MISS RULE: Would like the background of BUNK-ER. — B.B., Westminster.

BUNKER of England began as the Anglo-French
"Bon-coeur," portraying the forefather as "goodhearted." .London records of 1584 list an ancestor, Edward Buncker or Bunker. This name is tamed from Bunker Hill, Boston, Mass. scene of a famous battle in our Revolutionary War. 1775. Conflicting accounts give the hill's namesake as a man called Bon Coeur, or an early English immigrant, George Bunker,

MISS RULE: Please give genealogy data on CLARK - E.C., Westminster,

CLARK was the old English term for "clerk," describing an educated man who could read and write in the times when few had education. A "Clark" or "Clerk" was town record keeper, one of a minority of educated men outside the clergy. The Bedfordshire Clark armorial shield has three gold leopard heads above a red eagle on a background tinted blue on the upper half, silver below.

MISS RULE: Kindly analyze GUERRA, which means "war." - R.G., Wilmington.

GUERRA, Spanish in origin, actually signified "warrior," rather than "war," when used as a family surname, Guerra families of the Spanish provinces of Asturias, Leon, Castile and Aragon were all inter-related. Their coat-of-arms, a gold shield, symbolizes the name with a knightly warrior in silver armor, holding a sword in his right hand, and over his left shoulder a banner inscribed "A la guerra."

City living often precludes such pleasant and wholesome activities as horseback riding - but not if your city is Rolling Hills, where bridle paths are as important as streets. More than 60 per cent of the families living in that city on the Palos Verdes Peninsula own horses. Our cover photo shows Charles and Cathy Evans going for a ride in the town with a rural atmosphere. Privacy is another factor that appeals to Rolling Hills residents; no outsiders are permitted in the city without a good reason. For more about this exclusive city, turn to Mary Neiswender's article on Page 5.

THE WELLS REPORT

Whirlwinds of Rebellion

By Bob Wells

THE LARGE, TERRACED patio set amidst a grove of tall trees behind the Soroptimist House on the campus of California State College at Long Beach is a pleasant place on warm summer nights when it is the setting for Concerts in the Grove,

Candles wink and glimmer in their colored chimneys on the terraced tables. Young lovers hold hands in the darkness, and sometimes the student example is not lost on faculty members and their wives. On the stage in front of the tables the full gamut of Western dramatic culture from opera to theater games is offered in the six weeks or so of

The Grove was a little cooler on a recent May night, but the setting was not dissimilar. The bright, white stage light bounced off the rear wall of the Soroptimist House to illuminate the Grove itself with a pleasant indirect light. A warming fire burned in the recessed pit in front of the stage, and students, faculty and visitors from the community made their way to the white, wire-wicker chairs on the terraces,

But the program this night was different, Better or worse than the average Grove program, depending on your point of view, but certainly different.

Black poet LeRoi Jones and his troupe, the Spirit House Movers, came to the Grove this night. Mors than 400 people, the majority of them Negroes, were on hand to hear him.

An interesting time was had by all. In different ways.

Mixed audiences are common at the Grove, but the ratio is usually heavily in favor of white people. This night it wasn't. There was a preponderance of black people, Most of them were young. Many were from off-campus. It was their show and they were obviously having a good time running it. They arrived early and took the good seats near the stage. The white people arrived late and a little self-consciously took the seats on the rear and side terraces. A white newsman, accustomed to the ancient prerogatives of the press, asked to be seated down front where he could hear better. A black monitor politely but firmly told him to find himself a seat in the rear.

As I watched, I suddenly had a feeling of what it must be like to be a black man in a white world. Something like it was there in the Grove, where for this night, at least, I was a white man in a black world. A world where blacks made the decisions, listened tolerantly to white requests, vetoed them and the whites did as they were told.

Jones and the Spirit House Movers were late. Their plane had been delayed and the concert started almost an hour behind schedule. Finally, Jones a small dark man in an African shirt and a Lumumba beard with eyes like jungle firelight and the soft, sly, purring voice of a slave biding his time - led his troupe upon the stage.

He stepped forward for a brief talk before beginning the recital. It set the tone of the evening.

The black college students in the audience, he said, should remember that they were receiving a European education, not a black education. Nevertheless, they should accept training, organize and walt their time to take the white man over. The white man was "the slobbering monster, the drooling savage sitting next to you."

Martin Luther King, Jones said, was "before his time. He was speaking to uncivilized cave-dwellers who don't understand peace and love. Only black brothers and sisters could respond to him. . . , "You already know what the white man's going to do. If you don't you're a sap," Jones said: "Let's organize and put our talents on the altar of blackness and show how strong we are."

Hack in whitey-heaven in the rear of the Grove, I glanced in the dim light at the faces of the white men and women around me. They were impassive. Masks. I have seen Negro masks like that but never before white ones. Only in the tense attention of their bodies to the speaker could you judge the effect of his words.

The recital began, Each of the performers stepped forward in turn and read a poem he had written. The rest of the troupe accompanied and responded to each poem with rhythm instruments, a flute, chants and shouts of punctuation.

The poems dealt with blackness - all aspects of blackness, black power, black rebellion and white oppression and indifference. There were harsh, foul four-letter words. There were also soaring transcendent lines of love, of black reaching out to black to create a people, a nation.

There were attempts to create a history as well as a literature. There were references to ancient clv-lizations, to a time when black culture ruled all clvilized lands before its domination by the horse-riding white barbarians out of the "ice-box north."

Racist mythology? Certainly. Black fascism? Negro writer Louis Lomax has called it that, and I agree. But there also was a black patriotism, a need to create an identity where none existed. I was reminded of William Butler Yeats and his efforts to create an Irish literature in English, and even of Parson Weems and his charmingly pathetic attempt to create a mythology for New America around George Washington.

I do not know the private opinion of the black people who attended the Jones recital. But they responded to his denunciation of the white man with shouts of glee. They were enjoying it hugely. Perhaps with some it was a social thing - like the Negro jokes in white society that even people who know better will laugh at rather than offend the teller. I don't know.

The white people present were not enjoying it. Like me, most of them crept away at intermission not waiting for the production of Jones's play, "The Black Mass.

LeRoi Jones is a black patriot. He is also very probably a dangerous man to the America that many of us, white and black, hope will emerge from its present time of trouble, But as I listened to his poetry, I was reminded of another poem, "The Man With the Hoe," written in 1899 by a Californian, Edwin Markham, Bowed by the weight of centuries he leans Upon his hoe and gazes on the ground, The emptiness of ages in his face, And on his back the burden of the world. Who made him dead to rapture and despair, A thing that grieves not and that never hopes, Stolid and stunned, a brother to the ox?

O masters, lords and rulers in all lands, How will the future reckon with this Man? How answer his brute question in that hour When whirlwinds of rebellion shake all shores? How will it be with kingdoms and with kings-With those who shaped him to the thing he is-When this dumb Terror shall rise to judge the world, After the silence of the centuries?

THE EXCLUSIVE CITY OF ROLLING HILLS . . .

A Nice Place to Live, But No Place to Visit

By Mary Neiswender

MOST PEOPLE like privacy.
But only a few can afford it,

In the case of a few exclusive subdivisions in Newport Beach and Laguna Beach, it takes an eight-hour guard to keep out the daytime solicitors and your own gate key for after-hours privacy.

In the case of the City of Rolling Hills it takes more.

Hitching post is familiar sight; more than 60 per cent of families own at least one horse,

Four gates guard the city from invasion — whether it be insurance salesmen or the Avon lady, a tourist or a tramp. And each gate is manned by guards

And each gate is manned by guard on a 24-hour basis,

No cars — except those bearing an exclusive Rolling Hills windshield sticker— are allowed through the electronic gates unless the visitors have a proper reason for entering.

The windshield sticker — showing a rearing horse, symbol of the community—is worn like a caste mark in the Palos Verdes Peninsula area.

The symbol is also repeated on street signs and individual home signs throughout the city.

In order to enter a visitor must have not only the exact name and address of his host, but must register. The license number is taken as the car passes through the slowly opening gate.

A bother? Not according to those who live in the exclusive three-square-mile preserve,

"Not when you like the rural atmosphere... like the feeling of privacy... like the thought that there are only those around who have legitimate business in the hills... like being able to leave windows shadeless.,," residents say.

Party-goers and party-givers, the city's residents must submit the names of guests expected — to facilitate entry. The rule was enforced several years ago after an exclusive party for teen-agers was crashed. The resulting melee brought not only the one sheriff's car that regu-

Horses, white fences and hillside homes are typical of Rolling Hills.

"People move here," a city official said, "because they like the privacy—they want to get away from the noise, the crowds, the bustle of the big city.

"It's an area for professional people — mostly doctors — people who can afford to live here."

(The going rate within the gated city is $35,000 to $50,000 for a one-acre parcel of land — "depending on the view." A two-bedroom home, between 15 and 20 years old, sitting on two acres "not very far up the hill, so the view couldn't have been too good" — sold recently for $90,000.)

"And those who move here," the official adds, "do so because they want privacy — and want it preserved."

So, the city — and its right arm, the Rolling Hills Community Association — keeps it that way.

The city is part of an area purchased in 1913 by a New York combine, headed by financier Frank A. Vanderlip. He had visions of another Signal Hill in the Palos Verdes hills.

It didn't work out.

There was no oil in the hilis — but there was gold in the way the land was developed.

The developer's secret: exclusiveness. With two buildings on the 1,889 acres, developers formed the Rolling Hills Community Association on May 14, 1936. They built two gatchouses on the only roads leading to the rolling acreage and cut up the land in parcels ranging from one to 63 acres.

Then, with a soft-sell approach, they sold

Purpose of the association — even at that time — was to preserve the privacy of the residents and maintain exacting standards of architecture.

Its purpose is the same today.

The association, with the backing of DEBBIE BLOUNT, a 19year-old working girl, will get a vacation in two weeks, and her plans are made. She'll unpack her suitcases, hide them in a closet and spend six weeks at her home in Long Beach "just being lazy."

If Debbte has no desire to spend her vacation on the go, that is understandable. She gets plenty of traveling the rest of the year in her job as a skater in the Corps de Ballet of the Ice Capades, now playing at the Sports Arena in Los Angeles and opening Monday the 20th for a seven-day run in the Long Beach Arena.

The tall, shapely, attractive brunette thinks it's great that the lee Capades, which bills itself as "America's No. I family show," ends its season in her home town.

She's staying in Los Angeles during the three-week run there, but will move in with her mother, Mrs. Catherine Blount, sister (Cindy, 17) and brother (Michael 12) at 4301 Gundry Ave, while the show is in Long Beach.

This way, she gets a head start on unpacking for her vacation, which will extend until just after the Fourth of July, when rehearsals resume in Atlantic City for the 1968-69 season which opens in that East Coast city.

Don't get the idea that Debbie dislikes her life in show business and the considerable traveling that goes with it. The life's "every bit as exciting" as she dreamed it would be when she was a youngster devoting hours to practice each day at Iceland in Paramount.

"And it's even more educational than i imagined," she points out. "I get to see all sections of the country and mect so many people. And there's the responsibility of being on your own—you have to look out for yourself, no one takes care of you."

Debbie joined Ice Capades in July 1966, just after graduating from Poly High, which means she is completing her second year. She isn't a featured performer, but has hopes of being one someday.

"I'd like to be an understudy to one of the stars this coming scasor, but I won't know before July," she says.

Before she retires as an entertainer she wants to perform with one of Europe's ice shows (Ice Capades doesn't play there) so she can see that part of the world, and she thinks she may eventually want to teach ice skating.

"I was pretty good at business courses at Poly—I won a few honors—but after my experiences with Ice Capades I know I could never just sit behind a desk," she says.

Debble has found her

Debble has found her second year with the show to be even more enjoyable than the first. No doubt she feels more sure of herself and more secure in her job. But partly it's because she has been rooming with one of the stars of the show, Ingrid Wendl of Vienna, who joined Ice Capades this season after eight years as a star with the Viennese Ice Regue

Revue.

"We got to know and like each other and decided to room together," Debbie says. "She's really a wonderful person, and we learn a lot from each other. She speaks English, but I'm learning some French and German from her. And we show each other low to cook different dishes — in some cities we take an apartment or stay in an apartment-hotel and have cooking facilities."

She pointed out, also, that Ingrid, in addition to being a star skater (twice European champion), writes a column for Vienna's largest newspaper.

The current season has been unusual in that performances in three cities had to be canceled. Most years pass by with no cancellations.

"In Philadelphia we were about ready to go on for a performance in the Spectrum — there was a very big crowd on hand — when we heard something that sounded like a blast," Debbie recalls. "Pretty soon a workman tells us, "The roof's blown off — the show will be called off."

" 'We should be so lucky,' I replied. But I walked over to the ice and, sure enough, no rooff You could look up and see the sky!"

Riots forced cancellation of evening performances in Raleigh, N.C., and Kansas City, Mo.

"We were doing a show in Raleigh when Martin, Luther King was killed — it was night back there. The National Guard had to escort us back to our hotel after the show and stand guard. There was looting in the drugstore by our hotel, and we could see rioting and fires.

"Never in my life had I really been scared before—but I was then."

The rest of the evening performances in Raleigh were canceled, and the National Guard wouldn't nermit the performers to leave their hotel at night.

The troupe arrived in Kansas City in time for more rioting. The show was canceled on opening night, a Friday, but a Saturday matinee was given. Half of the second part of the show on Saturday night was cut so the audience would have a chance to meet the city curfew. And, because of the rioting, the audiences weren't as large as usual.

No wonder, then, that the I'ce Capades folks hope the nation will "cool it."

From Kansas City the show moved on to Denver, and from Denver to Los Angeles.

There are two Ice Capades troupes playing (in different cities) at the same time. Debbie is with the main company, the one that plays, in general, the biggest cities — including New York, Chicago, Detroit, Toronto, Pittsburgh, Houston, Washington, D.C. Of all the cities Debbie has appeared in though, Montreal is her favorite.

The rioting broke up a good thing in Raleigh. There, the show was staged in an arena on a university campus. "The college boys would come to our rehearsals and would hang around all the time," Debbie recalls. "We got to know a good many of them. I met one from Southern California, and he said he'd look me up this summer."

The long-haired girl from Long Beach admits that usually it isn't so easy for gay young blades to meet Ice Capades girls. And the performers' time for duting is limited. The skaters either have a show or are traveling from one city to the next nearly every night they're on tour. Not that they have to return to their hotel immediately after a show, however.

Debbie is as interested in males as most girls are (among the ones she corresponds with is an ex-classmate at Poly who is now in Vietnam), but she says, "I don't think I'd want to marry and settle down for some time yet." She's having too much fun in her work.

How did it all get started? At age 11 Debbie, a Long Beach native (she altended St. Barnabas and Hughes schools before going to Poly), went to the Iceland rink with the rest of her Brownie troop one day and put on ice skates for the first time.

"At first I just kept falling down, but all of a sudden I was skating! This was about 45 minutes after I got on the ice."

She was hooked. "I knew

'Love Game' on Ice

WOLFGANG SCHWARZ, latest star to join the Ice Capades (he made his pro debut May I in Los Angeles), will bring his Olymplo gold medal and his bride of a few weeks with him to Long Beach when he performs in the Arena May 20-26.

The 20-year-old Vienna athlete, winner of the men's skating championship in the recent Winter Olympics at Grenoble, France, is on his honeymoon. His bride is the second-ranked tennis player in Austria, the former Gerti Vyplasol, Both speak English.

It was a "love match" from the start for the blond Olympian and the brunette tennis star. They met two years ago at a Vienna tenhis club to which both belong. He courted her on the courts, and elsewhere, and the net result was their marriage.

Gerti, also 20, was junior tennis champion of Austria four times, played in the Wimbledon juniors three years, and is her nation's • • • • o n d-ranked woman player — "but we don't have many good players," she says, modestly.

Marriage will curtail her tournament competition, but she does plan to play in the Austrian nationals next month. She will follow the Ice Capades trail with her husband when the 1968-69 season opens in Atlantic City in July. In fact, she will foin the show's Corps de Ballet.

She is a better skater than her husband is a tennis player. Wolfgang has played tennis for a number of years, but both he and his bride say he isn't especially good at it.

Days of Sunshine, Days of Innocence

By Thomas Harvill

SUMMER, and the hot, sticky days lie ahead. The cold winds of March and the chill-warmth of April have slipped away and May has arrived. Even now the days begin earlier and end later with a gradulengthening twilight. In a little while, June will bud and blossom in the garden of summer and to the adult, trapped in his sophistication, it will probably pass unnoticed.

For the adult, having put aside his childish ways and learned to occupy himself with the more mature matters of war, politics and economics, has long ago misplaced his irreplaceable innocence and lost his sense of wonder and amazement at the subtle changes of season. He gazes reluctantly through his bored, smogfilled eyes at the weeks ahead, wipes his brow and oils his air-conditioner.

But the child has not reached the intellectual heights of his elders. He has not yet learned to view society. through practical eyes, and summer is a welcome thing. It is a state of mind, an idea, a reprieve from the long, tedious, humdrum hours of school.

It is an escape from the arena of: competition and the struggle toward higher marks that will win parental approval but ultimately destroy that mystical something he still has leave him strangely sad, puzzled and alone in a world of practicality where the rewards are prestige and position and whose libations are poured to the great god gold.

For the child the fires of innocence, though flickering, have not yet died, and summer is almost here. He waits and listens and already sees that which only cools as a breath of breeze passes through the foot-high grass, and the field becomes, suddenly, many things. Deep in a canyon, in the mountains of Colorado, a stream gurgles over stones and twigs and becomes clearer, colder and infinitely sweeter as it is lifted in a child's cupped hands and drunk, while beside him, on the flat rock, a small wooden boat with a paper sail awaits its maiden voyage.

It is summer and in the early morning stillness of a California beach, small sea creatures move in their timeless way through the tide pools below the cliffs. Two small, brown faces, reflected in the smooth surface, suddenly disappear as a dropped pebble spreads the ripples and sends a tiny crab scurrying toward a crevice of safety.

The small, brown figures run laughing down the beach and behind them their footprints are beginning to fill with water that has washed the sands of Singapore. It is summer, for the faded canvas awning is fluttering over the bleached boards of the hot dog stand, and the umbrellas, like striped mushrooms; burst one by one from the sand.

And the child sees and the child accepts, as we have all seen and accepted in our more youthful years. The child does not know why the parks are greener and the unseen breeze cools the grass in summer, but he sees it and feels it. The sound of water over stones and his reflection in a still tide pool are things he hears and sees, and his faith is not diminished because he cannot yet scientifically explain them. But the day will come when he will put his child-ish ways aside and stride toward adulthood. He will soon have to have a reason for things being as they are, an explanation for the things which now make up his world of fantasy. His knowledge and wisdom will surely increase and he will view the world through eyes of logic and reason. But his sadness will also increase, inversely with the loss of wonder and amazement. His summers may be filled with travel to strange, exotic places; his pockets filled with funds for fine foods and vintage wines, but what he is truly searching for he will never find completely again, for he will have left it in the lost years of his childhood.

And now, with the hot weather of summer ahead and the memories of my own, largely forgotten, childhood returning, I have a chance to relive at least a portion of my innocent years vicariously in the experiences and endless questions of my sons. They are at an age when the beginning of summer fills them with expectation and wonder. I hope I'm not too dulled by lack of sensitivity to at least try to understand what they alone are able to see. I know they can feel breezes I will never feel again. They can see leaves and shadows and images my wiser eyes will completely overlook; and they will gain an understanding of the earth, though briefly, through their shoeless feet that I have long ignored or since forgotten.

So, I will give it a try. I have the whole summer ahead — weeks of soft, sleepy days and long cricket twilights. I might pull off my shoes and try to feel once more the special free dom of the warm sun and the cool grass under my tired feet. I have aircady discovered one thing; the smell of wet sidewalks drying in the sun brings nostalgic pictures flashing before my eyes. If I really try, maybe I can recall even more, I know I was not much different from my boys. The mystery and excitement that will fill the summer days ahead for them certainly filled mine.

The mornings of June that exploded, blossomed, faded and slipped away into a soft whisper of evening 30 years ago can't have changed much. June dies every year and suddenly it becomes July, then August. It will happen again. The same sadness and sense of loss that came with September and the beginning of school in the middle 1930s undoubtedly return to depress my boys.

So, perhaps, all is not lost, really, for it seems such things return with each generation. If I can only train my eyes and ears, my sense of smell and taste, maybe, somehow this will he the best summer yet. And if I can't? If I find I have become too blind and deaf, my senses too far gone for such rehabilita-tion, what then? Well, perhaps there may still be some hope for me this June. I could always go back to my old ways and begin my summer preparations equipped with logic and reason. For one thing, I could oil the air-conditioner. And I would, too, if I had one.

then I wanted to be a skater," she says "and all the time after that I kept asking my mother to let me go skating. Finally, nearly a year later, she let me start taking lessons at Iceland for a half hour on Saturdays.

At first Debbie would go skating once a week, then three times a week, and finally six or seven days a week.

And Debble, who belonged to the Arctic Blades skating club in Paramount, remembers some of that club's members who were killed in a plane crash on the way to the 1961 world competition in Prague.

Before turning pro, Debbis had achieved sixth test status, a high amateur ranking (eight is tops).

Although Iceland is one of the major ice rinks in Southern California, and there are more Ice Capades performers from California than any other state, Debble is the only one from the Paramount rink with the stars and the rest of the cast are working out, so you think that wasn't nervewracking! But that day I was told that I could join the group in July. Gee, was I ever thrilled!"

In this, the 28th, edition of Ice Capades, Debbie makes six appearances. She does one brief pair number with another girl in pre-senting the Bubble for the Ritual of the Waters act (a girl swims in the Bubble). In one of the large-scale, children's fantasy numbers, "Sugar 'n' Spice," she plays the part of an orange ice cream sundae (the headdress weighs 171/2 pounds and the hoop skirt 22 pounds).

A Nice City to Live in, But No Place to Visit

some of the area's most influential business and professional men, has never let down its guard.

It formed the city itself — to maintain privacy. A threat of outside intrusion came in 1957 when the County of Los Angeles threatened to put a public road — a four-lane public road at that — through the most exclusive part of the area. The road would have allowed gawking sight-seers to bisect the area along Crest Road, past the low sprawling homes of some of the wealthier residents.

The city was incorporated in January 1957 and, by accepting no public funds to be spent on the roads within the city, maintains them as private roads and thereby makes them unavailable for public use.

But the duties of the association don't stop with the roads.

They today — as they did in 1936 — police a code that requires residents to build only one-story California ranch style homes with overhanging roofs; the roofs must be natural wood, and the homes must be painted "approved" white. Fences must be uniform — two-rail white, built to exact standards.

No commercial activity — with the exception of perhaps a lemonade stand or two set up by small fry businessmen in the summertime — is allowed.

Another requirement — that each property owner provide an accessible easement on every side of his property — has provided some 20 miles of equestrian trails in the community.

Another bother?

. Not so, say a majority of the landowners — especially when more than 60 per cent of the residents have at least one horse.

And, say city officials, without exception all 558 homes in the city, housing a population of 2,026, adhere to the rules.

The city itself is operated by a city manager — an attractive 43-year-old former aircraft engineer, Mrs. Teena Clifton — and a five-man, unpaid city council.

Mrs: Clifton, who resigned as mayor of the neighboring and much less exclusive Rolling Hills Estates to become city manager of the gated city, works out of a newly constructed city hall, built on "almost an acre" of land purchased some five years ago from the area's developers, Palos Verdes Property Corp., for $27,500.

And whether it's a longtime resident like ploneer aircraft manufacturer Donald Douglas Sr., or newcomer, Philip Battaglia, former aide to Gov. Ronald Reagan, they all abide by all decisions coming from city hall — which, incidentally, was built to rollow the architectural "standards."

"Everyone cooperates," say officials, "because they want to live here .... or they wouldn't buy

The Pleasure of Their Hobby

By Ellen Krec

OBBY and home merge with the pleasure of collecting antiques shared by Dr. and Mrs. Fred M. Seligman.

"We started collecting early American primitives, the usual butter chums and coffee grinders, then our taste developed into more sophisticated French and English country antiques with a strong preference for Victorian," says Mrs. Seligman.

The El Dorado Park Estates home also is shared by two daughters, Susan, 5, and Sara, 3, who collect only pennies to put in the antique reproduction banks!

"We always have liked antiques, fortunately because we couldn't live with them if we didn't," says Mrs. Seligman.

Beginning at the time of their marriage, the Seligmans started collecting for fun, then realized guidelines were necessary and intense study began, Both Seligmans are well versed in period, design and purpose. "And we rationalize our spending by calling it an investment," says Mrs. Seligman.

According to the Seligmans, "After we had accumulated all of our treasures we found it difficult to build a home around them until we called Bryan Wall-

The local interior designer "put the balance in the home" by carefully placing the antiques to advantage and suggesting authentic reproductions to complement the era.

The provincial exterior is the ideal coverup for the interior with a low split-railfence outlining the shrubplanted home. Pansles border the diamond-pane bay window in the wood, stucco and stone single-level dwelling.

WITH A SUNKEN living room the foyer becomes a stage. The setting in the entry is built around a Victorian hall tree containing a rare Toby clock. Bronze wallpaper was the background choice in the leaded glass-tulip-lighted area.

The upper level wall was the choice for the velvet mounted collection of antique chatelaines. This particular group is just part of an extensive collection of fireplace is a rare old French peasant clock with hammered and hand painted brass pendulum.

The setting for the "mostly California collected" antiques is avocado carpeting with baroque swagged sheer draperles in the Victorian fashion.

Flanking a marble-top table are the fine reproduction Mr. and Mrs. Victorian chairs placed to share the light from a leaded glass, Tiffany-type lamp.

The Seligmans added a door to the dinette near the fireplace and Waller suggested, for balance, a "yard-long" plcture be hung at the door top.

At the black wrought fron railing dividing the foyer from the step-down living room is "just a plano," but the faience chicken was a choice selection for the top along with the ormolu clock.

Dated May 23, 1878, the suspension rocker with its dollar-size footstool was placed near the piano.

Originally designed to contain sheet music, the old English music cabinet near the country French sofa presently serves as storage and antique display.

The Tiffany shade above the rust lounge chair is from the Victorian era, but in this instance was suspended from the ceiling.

In the English tradition a Loo table was cut down to serve as a coffee table with Canterbury magazine

At the hall's end is "the cleck room." Although the small room may be pressed into service as a guest room or a study, it is in reality a deml-museum.

The Seligmans installed a full wall unit with custom shelves lighted for their collections of small clocks, clamped sewing birds, glove darners and a pair of glass faced eigar cabinets lighted to show exquisite glass sock darners.

The walls have their own story with coins, keys, checks and notes from the mid 80s all known as "family goodies."

In keeping with the period, light comes from the red cherry Tiffany lamp.

Globe clocks, awlngers, Glorias and cupids all in working order are the responsibility of Dr. Sellgman. He doesn't keep them running except on rare oc-casions when he winds them all

An old stock thread cablnet with the drawers still labeled makes an unusual end table for the tweed sofa and leather chair.

The master hedroom almost matches in the 1880 furniture design. All walnut burl was used in the sevenfoot-tall carved headboard and companion chest. A Queen Anne desk at the foot of the bed resembles the carving and also is related to the curbed high-house just like any other 5year-old.

Several antiques dot the white and blue companion bath - among the more interesting is the small jewelry chest on the marble topped pullman.

Sara's room boasts an art nouveau iron bed painted pale pink and topped with a family quilt.

Blue carpeting with white walls and shuttered windows enclose the room with a 1920s appearance. Even Sara's doll dresser is in the same period.

The girls share a Hickory Dickory Dock clock on the wall beteween the rooms and the fun is waiting for the mouse to go up the clock. This mouse does not run up the clock but moves a second at a time,

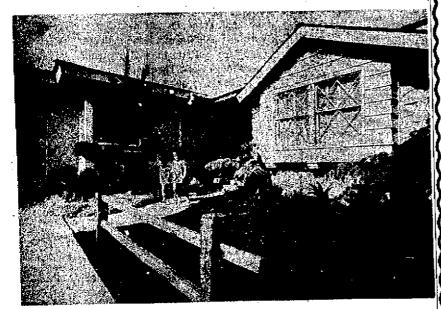

Two wall units flank the dining room entrance to the kitchen, providing an open framework for an extensive pickle castor collection. Pickle castors of every description from about 1800 are displayed but also serve as flower containers and occasionally to hold pickleg!

The French scene mural creates the mood for the country French furniture, A signed Tiffany lamp in soft green leaded glass with pale pink flowers glows near the dining table often graced with Dresden, Mrs. Seligman likes to coordinate the theme of her home with the dinner table and an helrloom coffee um dated 1700 and fluted bridal basket are the focal points.

A combined desk-cabinet in early American rococo allows space for today's mail as well as a foundation for a collection of constantly-in-use cut glass.

The walk-through kitchen has its own Waterbury clock along with the beginning collection of primitives.

With its own exit to the patio, the dinette is a serene place for casual dining. The leftover cuckoo clock collection ticks on one wall and the wide window overlooks the randomplanted gardens and lathcovered patio.

Wallpaper Can Be a World Changer

By Ellen Krec

Somehow I always thought of it as Instant art, and I finally have met an expert who agrees with mel associated with the effort,

Actually the difficult part of the paper hanging is the selection. I never could get the sample books to look like a wall no matter where I stood them.

I thought perhaps after all this time it might be advisable and interesting, to say the least, to find out more about wallpaper and share the information.

I spent almost a full day with expert-in-fine-wallpaper Agnes D, Renz of Albert Van Luit and Co.

I came to realize how frivolous I had been over the course of the years — especially with money. Fortunately I developed a rather siry acceptance of my errors and learned to live with them, at least until I could convince my husband we needed a change.

1 wish I had spent that afternoon with Miss Renz about 10 years ago.

Wallpaper can do anything, as any good decorator will tell you. And before continue, checking with an interior decorator can be advantageous, especially if you plan to buy expensive wallpaper.

Among the amazing things walkovering will do be expand a room without structural change and even give the appearance of structural change. All this may be accomplished by the use of texture or scenics.

TO BREAK out a wall—without hammer—use an open garden or street scene on the desired surface. Country gardens are serens and comfortable to live with for many years.

Fine silk screen landacapes will cover as much as 18 feet if you wish to stretch a room.

Old-fashioned garden prints with hollyhock, larkspur and daisies are cheerful and in case you change your mind about furnishlngs, these will go equally well with other periods than early American.

A fine panel above your bed could eliminate a head-board. You should cover the complete wall, however, in case you decide to move your furniture...or Quality panels are costly but a tremendous asset to a home. You might want to call in an expert paperhanger to do this and it was suggested you do it before you order the paper, since his experience can save you money.

Good border prints for the panels could be carried up to the ceiling or into the companion bath.

If you just want the pand...mount it, then frame

FOR THE do-it-yourselfor-die paperhanger, the following suggestions might be in order.

• Always blank stock your wall if you are using good wallpaper. Actually this can even help less expensive paper look expertly hung.

Apply the blank stock to a well-sized wall, using a good wheat paste.

Wait a week or so to see if the wall develops hot spots. These are sort of brownish orange, and, if they appear, apply more sizing before the final hanging.

ing.

If you use vinyl paper after the blank stock, be sure to use a good vinyl paste.

If you use regular wallpaper rather than vinyl, there are some excellent vinyl coatings you could apply after the paper has dried.

Vinyl paper-backed is the very best wallcovering in the market. The paper backing allows you to remove the vinyl part... when you are tired of it, not when it wears out... and leave the paper. This means you do not have to blank stock the wall a second time. Also vinyl is a dream to clean — if you NEVER use bleach — just soapand water.

It is a good idea to use edible colors in the kitchen. Food seems to look better and taste better in an appetizing atmosphere.

Single or double panels

may enlarge an entry where furniture is impossible.

Pattern on pattern with overlays of silk screen add to as well as change the same wallpaper, allowing it to be used with any decor.

For instance, the original pattern on silk, silk simulated, vinyl burlap or even lace pattern can change from a madly mod young decor to ethereal Victorian.

SIDE NOTES include the change from subdued texture or almost paintlike wallpaper to warm, bright and daring colors and textures in recent years. Bold seems to be in demand and this can be attributed to new decorating courage gained from education, travel and affluence. Stark black and white prints, bold plum with orange, each using a drift of a soft third color, make a considerable difference in application.

Coordination was a much used word in decorating, but color related has replaced it.

Perhaps you wish to wallpaper several rooms relating one to the other, and not use the obvious stripe with print. There always are several possibilities, and some of the compatible papers include the backgrounds of the original with marbles or textured effects.

Some wallpapers include borders which may border the celling as well as the wall in a mitred effect. This could be used in the master bath to blend with the master bedroom, Another possibility is the use of full, bold print with the companion paper smaller scale print.

All periods may be enhanced by the use of wallpaper with near authentic Oriental scenes and prints providing the serenity important to that room design.

Early American furnishings need not rely on the over-all provincial print for atmosphere. There are happy New England scenics.

WALLPAPER is longer lasting than paint and good wallpaper has been known to last for almost too many years. This is a good point if your are trying to sell the idea to the check-writer in your family. Although wallpaper has its own artistic impact, it also may provide a fine background for your

Pears Give Flavor Bonus

By Mildred K. Flanary

Southland Magazine Home Economics Editor

ANJOU PEARS stack up a new flavor bonus in this unique salad treat. Each juicy pear is sliced into thirds, cored, and then spread with ham on the stem layer. Rich cream cheese accented with chopped pecans fills the second layer and ham is repeated in the third filling. The fillings make a refreshing rendezvous of flavor with the juicy goodness of fresh pears.

Ways for serving fresh pears are limitless. One downward stroke of a pear cutter will core and slice each pear in perfectly shaped wedges for eating out of hand. Wonderfully convenient for lunch box carriers. Or, serve fresh Western pears baked in delicious desserts or broiled as tempting meat accompaniments. Since their dellcate skins are flavorful and tender, they need not be peeled.

You'll usually find fresh Western pears ripe and ready to eat at your favorite market. Ripe pears yield to gentle pressure regardless of color. You can always buy firm pears with confidence. They'll ripen at home in a few days at room temperature, becoming sweet and julcy, the way you like them.

PEAR SALAD STACKS

4 fresh Aniou pears 1 (3 oz.) package cream cheese at room temperature

2 thisp, chopped pecans 1 (4% oz.) can deviled ham spread

Crisp greens

French dressing Slice each ripe pear crosswise into four sections. Remove core leaving stem intact. Blend softened cream cheese with chopped nuts. Spread ham on bottom sections of pears. Place. on lettuce lined plates. Spread cream cheese and nut mixture on second sections of pears. Place on top of ham layer. Spread next sections with ham, put in place on top of cheese layer. Cap pears with stem sections. Serve with French dressing. Use salad forks and knives for easy eating. Makes 4 servings.

Recipe of the Week

MRS. M. DURING, 2928 Yearling St., Lakewood, is this week's winner of the recipe prize,

BAKED SPINACH LASAGNE

1/2 lb, lasagne (ribbon noodles) cooked and drained

thisp, minced parsley 1-3 cup white table wine

Ib. mushrooms, sliced and sauteed in butter

pkg. chopped spinach, partly thawed

tbisp. grated parmesan cheese

Cut lasagne to fit shallow baking pan, 9 inches square. Combine tomato sauce, garlie, onion, parsley and wine. Simmer for 5 minutes then add mushrooms. Cover bottom of baking dish with a little sauce. Add in layers the lasagne, spinach, mozzarella, and ricotta cheese, and the sauce, ending with lasagne and sauce. Top with parmesan cheese and bake at 400 degrees for 45-50 minutes.

Gifts You Can Make

ONE OF the most appreciated gifts involves hand decorated note paper, which can be as simple or elaborate as the individual desires, depending upon the time and talent he wishes to expend. Children can learn how to make such gifts, and they can also be made by talented adults with extra time in the sunset years.

The simplest of such notes involve the purchase of plain white correspondence cards, with envelopes, or the making of cards by cutting the white cardboard which often comes in packaging of shirts, sweaters or blouses. Then buy the stickers which are available in the form of flowers and birds, and let the children attach these to the cards. From here it is a simple step to adding a few designs with crayon, perhaps green leaves around the yellow or pink flower stick-

Another way to decorate the white cards is to cut pieces of cloth into circles or squares to paste in the corner, using attractive patterns from which the clothing of the children is made. This is a particularly good exercise in learning to cut out flowers, if the material is a print with blossoms. The child learns to cut accurately by using scissors in cutting the rose or stylized flower from the background cloth.

Use a drop of glue on the card and then carefully place the cloth flower over it, and let it rest beneath a

A variation of this involves using pieces of wallpaper to cut out and apply to the card. The box then can contain a dozen cards. each with a different color flower, or they can all be alike in the same package, depending upon the assortment of wallpaper available for the cutting. Some designs, particularly for nursery wallpaper, have small kittens and puppies which can be cut for cards to be given to children.

Initials can be cut from felt and affixed to the cards, if the maker is more adult, and this a good therapy when recovering from illness or accident, Crocheting simple designs, in block pattern, to put in the corner makes for more elaborate individualized stationery.

Some of the loveliest. most cherished cards, used for the writing of notes of congratulation and best wishes at happy times, are these handmade notes. One such gift box had cards containing flowers which had been made on a tatting shuttle by a shut-in in her late eighties, who keeps fingers limber by such nandiwork. Anyone receiving her note paper with tatting inserts finds it hard to part with a piece, except for the knowledge that such cards are meant to be shared in heartwarming correspondence. - Ruth C. ## What's Your workshop on Decorating?

By ELIZABETH HODGKIN

Do you have a question on decorating? For an answer (only in this column) by a member of the American Institute of Interior Designers, send it to Interior Design Editor, Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach, Calif. 90801.

O. We have purchased a new house and as we have . always lived in a furnished apartment, we have nothing to start with and must start from scratch. Howshould we plan on how much. to spend on furnishing it?

A. There is an old rule that furnishings may cost one fourth of the cost of your new home; however, at today's prices this is rarely enough. Before you start to buy, have an overall picture in your mind of your basic needs and likes.

If you feel that you must immediately furnish each and every room, you may find yourself in trouble. First, it means buying inexpensive suits of furniture which often lack individuality, quality or durability. You may also find that if you must buy on longrange credit plan your furniture will cost considerably more because of inter-

If you are of the temperament, the wisest, and in the long run, the least expensive way is to put your ready cash into good beds with built in box springs and mattresses first.

Next, a Lawson sola and chair with simple lines are a good bet. They will never go out of style, and are less money to recover over the years than ones with turted backs or curved exposed wood frames. A good reading lamp is a must in your basic budget. The lamp should have simple classic lines, a transparent fabric shade in off white rather than a colored paper one. Add to your decorative lamps as you go along.

If your budget allows you more than the above basic survival items, fine.

Question A Shorty Vacation

By Steve Ellingson

For a neat picnic.

DICNICS are probably the oldest and most enlovable forms of shorty vacations, dating back to time immemorial.

Packing a basket of goodies and heading for the countryside for a full day, half day, or just a few hours can be a really gratifying diversion, as every-. body knows. And, ofcourse, here is an activity made to order for young-sters, particularly those who have little opportunity to get out in the open frequently.

Preparing for a picnic can be almost as much fun as the event itself. And to make this a happy chore it helps to have an adequate picnic basket. The one shown here with Barbara Moore of NBC's "Man From Uncle" series is big enough for pies, cakes, sandwiches, a thermos, ice bucket and numerous other items you need for such an outing. You'll notice too that there is ample space under the cover for knives, forks, spoons and things of that Building the basket Is both inexpensive and easy when you use the full size pattern. Hand tools are all you need. For materials, all that's required are some dowels, 1/4 inch rope and a piece of scrap plywood.

To obtain the full size picnic basket pattern number 433, send $1 (add 25 cents per pattern for alrmail delivery) by currency, check or money order to: Steve Eilingson, Southland Living

Flower Grandma

Q. My grandmother's birthday is coming up soon, and there is only one thing she would really like, It is a flower called "trailing arbutus." Where can we get one? L.W., Lakewood.

A. We will put you on the trail of the fragrant, flowering plant. Tim Earhart, a salesman for Park Nursery, 3842 E. 10th St., says he can order you one for $2. The trailing arbutus, also known as the Mayflower, is the state flower for Massachusetts and is found in woods and on hillsides in Eastern states. The white and pink flowers on the shrub appear as early as April and are viewed by Easterners as the first sign of spring.

Moments to Remember

O. I used to go to Wilson High School, and it is very important to me to get a 1968 Wilson yearbook, is there any way I can obtain one? M.H., Compton.

A. Susan Fleming, yearhook adviser, says you can send your request and $6 plus postage to Wilson High School Campanile, Student Body Banker, Wilson High School, 4400 E. 10th St., Long Beach 90814. She estimates that the books will be out by June 10, but says if you will put your phone number with your request, she will arrange for someone to call and tell you the day they arrive.

First. Man

Q. On June 1, our church youth group is having a banquet with a Hawaiian theme. We are trying to locate a large tiki to use as part of the decorations, R. H., Long Beach.

A. Wooden tikis from Hawali are available at Benson's Tropical Sea, 220 E. Pacific Coast Highway, Long Beach. Frank Benson says they have them ranging in size from 12 inches to 5 feet and in cost from $8 to $150. He says if you'll stop by, they will try to help you. In Los Angeles, Roschu Props, 6514 Santa Monica Blvd., rents tikis. For a tiki from 3 to 5 feet, the charge is $12.50; for one 8 feet, it is $17.50; and for one 11 feet, it is $25. The word tiki comes from Polynesian mythology. The myth is that the God Tane decided to make man and formed one from the soil of Hawaii, stood him erect and called him Tikl-Au-A-Ha. For more information, read "Mythology of All Races," Vol. 9, available at the Long Beach Library, Pacific Avenue and Ocean Boulevard.

As You Like It

Q. Last February, I saw the National Shakespeare Company's rendition of "Romeo and Juliet," and last March, I saw their "Twelfth Night." Both performances were excellent. Where can I get a picture of the company and a schedule of their performances in this area? G.M., Wilmington.

A. Pictures, schedule information and other facts about the National Shakespeare Company are on the way to you. A spokesman for the troupe at its New York office said no Southern California performances are scheduled in the near future. The 12-member company first performed In 1963. Philip Meister is the producer.

TEENS IN ACTION

MARY CLAIRE SALLEE is 17, pretty, blonde and blue-eyed. She is an average student at Wilson High where she will be graduating in June, and in her spare time, she clerks at a dry-cleaning shop near her home at 3115 Vista St.

Busy, hard-working, well-adjusted, Mary is a girl who knows what she wants, a girl with both feet on the ground; and a girl with her eyes in the skles.

An aspiring airline stewardess, Mary accepted a light-plane demonstration flight from a customer at the cleaning shop and found flying was simply out of sight. So, paying for her own lessons, she became a student pilot.

Now, with many hours of both flight and ground school instruction behind her, Mary is well on her way toward a private pilot's license and is considered by her instructors as both an unusually talented and enthuslastic flier. She bubbles when she talks about flying:

-I've always wanted to do something really different to please my parents and myself, I guess. Both my brother and sister were straight A students, and my brother is at Annapolis now. I wanted my parents to be as proud of me as they are of them.

-My dad's pretty thrilled that I'm learning to fly because he always wanted to fly himself. My mother is terrified, but tries not to let it show.

The first time I went up in that plane it was so wonderful I couldn't believe it. And I still feel that way every time I fly. I feel so free and independent. I can't remember ever being scared - just terribly thrilled.

-One of the biggest events in my life was when I made my first solo flight on April 12. We didn't tell my mother because we didn't want her to worry. My dad even went out and bought a movie camera for the occasion. But he was so excited he was standing at the wrong runway and didn't get any pictures. I was just beaming when I got out of that plane, and the flight counselor even had a special trophy made for me. When I showed it to my mother that evening, I thought she was going to faint.

-There is so much to learn and I get so mad when I don't do something right. My instructor says I'm a natural. I'm almost embarrassed by his faith in me. I'll never forget how foreign and complicated that control panel looked when I first saw it. Now I've built up a lot of confidence and feel pretty proud as I sail over the rooftops of Long Beach.

I hope to have my pilot's license by June. My friends are already asking me to fly them places this summer. It will be a great deal for me because they'll pay for the plane and I'll get the additional experience and fun of flying. I may one day think about trying for a commercial pilot's license, but right now I'm happy just to fly around Long Beach. This is all so new and it seems to have happened so fast my head is still swimming.

A Mother Who Will Live Forever

By James Aldredge

ON A DARK October day, a century and a half ago, a young mother lay deathly ill in a cabin in the heart of the Indlana wilderness. She must have known that her time in this hard, lonely world had nearly run out.

Like most pioneer girls, she had married while still in her teens. For a time she and her husband had seemed to be making a success of their farm in that day, a century and a But then the struggle grew too much for the heroic deathly ill in a cabin in heart of the Indiana gravely ill.

It was very disturbing for this woman to think of death, for she now had a 9-year-old son. At this time, he was also far from well. As the fever-weakened mother watched him drag himself up the ladder to his bed of leaves in the cabin loft, her heart went out to that frail looking boy.

What would become of him after she was gone? It was heartbreaking to think of the grief and loneliness he would have to bear. Perhaps he would not long survive her. . . Then, he and she both would be only a lost memory to the settlers of that region. With such thoughts, it is possible that this forlorn creature's mind was filled in her last hours.

When the mother finally died, her body was laid to rest in a rough pine box. The neighborhood was so remote that there was not even a clergyman to say a prayer at the burial. Never did a family face sorrow with less to console them.

In later years an artist made a vivid picture of the small son's grief. It showed a barefoot boy in homespun clothing standing with bowed head beside a grave-beneath the overhanging branches of a tree.

But the mother who died so young will never be forgotten. On account of her son, her name has become immortal.

If she could come back today, she would learn with astonishment that there is no land or tongue in which the name of her son is not known.

She would discover that, on every anniversary of the day he was born, banks and schools are closed, and 32 states in America declare a holiday.

She would find that all the words he ever wrote, all-the speeches he ever made, all the documents he ever penned have been collected and are preserved as carefully as if they were price-less treasures — which they are.

And that isn't all this a mazed mother would learn. She would discover that, above the wilderness grave where she was so rudely laid to rest 150 years ago, a monument has been erected at a cost of more money than she and her family saw in their whole lifetime.

In her own state she could also look upon an imposing memorial. When it was dedicated, the governor of Indiana stood with bared head while a famous general delivered an oration. In large letters, upon this impressive stone, her own name "HANKS" is enis engraved.

Fences Can Add to Beauty

Protection and privacy, two basic reasons for building a fence, now are often joined by a third consideration—beauty.

Traditional types of fencing such as steel chain links continue to serve their purpose of enclosing and protecting a property, but they add another dimension when they're planned as a backdrop for roses or other bushes and vines.

Lumber, one of the earliest fence materials, goes contemporary in attractive designs— lunvers, wood "bricks," parquet, herringbone, basketweave and latticework patterns.

Man-made materials such as fiberglass plastic create unusual patterns in combination with wood framing. Panels of fiberglass plastic provide privacy without cutting off light, thus serving many special needs.

Hardboard panels, used as fencing, can match or contrast with the siding of the home, and can be painted for decorative outdoor living room effects.

COIN ROUNDUP

Oddball Collectors to Hold Convention

By Maurice M. Gould

THERE is a group of collectors with the tonguetwisting name of exonumists, numismatists who like tokens, medals, paper money, advertising mirrors, transportation tokens and other oddball material. In fact, they collect anything and get as much pleasure from it as those who collect regular coins.

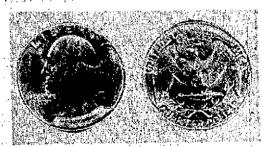

The 2,000-member national Token and Medal Society (TAMS) will hold its annual meeting and convention this year in August in San Diego in conjunction with the American Numismatic Assn. convention. I am one of these exonumists, being a real collector at heart.

This year's presidential campaign will find exonumists out in full force, collecting all of the campaign material, from buttons to large posters.

One hundred years ago, token and medal collecting was popular, prices were high and the catalogs and auctions of the day reflect the tremendous activity. Then for a number of years this phase of collecting was dormant, and collectors switched to other areas of numismatics.

TAMS offers a fine publication, with articles of interest to collectors in this field. President of TAMS is William B. Spilman of Waynesboro, Va., a newspaperman and devoted medal collector. Secretary Byron Johnson, 606 N.W. 80th St., Seattle, Wash. 98107, will furnish further information about this organization.

BECAUSE OF THE CUTOFF date of proof sets, the U.S. government will manufacture uncirculated coin sets, and about July I order cards for 1968 uncirculated coin sets will be mailed to all purchasers of the 1968 proof sets. About July 15 the mint plans to accept orders for these sets, which will contain one coin for each denomination, struck for circulation at the Philadelphia and Denver mints and the San Francisco assay office.

A Cud.

Q-What is a "cud"?

A-A cud is an unusual coin in the numismatic error field, and Mort Goodman, one of the country's top authenticators, says it is caused when a piece of the die that produced the coin breaks away. When struck, the metal of the planchet moves into the area of the missing piece of die and forms the shape and size of the missing piece. The error field has many adherents. A recent national convention was held in Hollywood which was extremely successful, and the third annual convention of the error group is already in the planning stages.

Q-Would you please list a few of the scarcer dates of silver dollars?

A—There are a number of scarce and rare dates—the 1895 is the scarcest in the later dates. This coin comes in proof only and catalogs at $4,750. If it has an O or S on the reverse, for New Orleans or San Francisco, it is not the extremely rare piece. Other scarce dates are the 1879 CC (Carson City Mint), 1881 CC, 1885 CC, 1888 S (San Francisco), 1889 CC; 1893 S, 1894 Philadelphia (no mint mark), 1895 S, 1902 S. There are bihers which still command good premiums.

Asbestos Workers Told to Swear Off Smoking

MEDICINE AND YOU

By Ben Zinser

MEDICAL researchers have come up with additional information about asbestos workers - and the news still is bad.

Ashestos insulation workers, as a group, have a high risk of dying of lung cancer. This has been known for some time. But new research shows that if ashestos workers also smoke cigarettes, they are 92 times as likely to die of lung cancer as men who nelther work with asbestos nor smoke.

In the latest study, of 283 asbestos workmen who smoked, 24 died of lung cancer. Only three were expected to die of this disease.

Drs. Irving J. Selikoff and Jacob Churg of Mount Sinai School of Medicine, New York City, come to the following conclusions:

• There is a great increase in risk of lung cancer if one smokes cigarettes. For asbestos workers the increase in risk is tremendous.

 Asbestos workers who do not now smoke cigarettes should never begin.

• Those who do smoke should stop immediately.

Associated with the Mount Sinal Hospital doctors in the study was Dr. E. Cuyler Hammond, the well-known statistician of the American Cancer Society.

The report is in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

SMALL DOSES of heparin, an anticoagulant, can relieve pain of a rare disorder, Weber-Christian disease, a researcher reports.

Weber-Christian disease is a condition marked by recurring attacks of fever and the appearance of tender nodules in fatty tissue.

Dr. Theodore T. Tsaltas and associates of Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia, say heparin is given by infusion into a vein. It has brought about dramatic improvement. Treatment in the acute inflammatory stage has resulted in complete disappearance of nodules.

Findings were reported recently to a meeting of the American Association of Pathologists and Bacteriolo-

STOP

Over and over again we hear that tobacco is the cause of 98% of all lung cancer cases. Recent studies show that one out of every four smokers is a potential victim of this dread disease. Yes, tobacco is the most deadly poison developed by our civilization. Aside from lung cancer, cigarettes are the cause of other extremely serious diseases.

Tobacco smake is composed of 84 substances, 5 of which are carcinogenic (cancer causing) and 30 are toxic (poisonous). Every time you draw on a cigarette, cigar or pipe, you are exposed to at least 44 different chemicals and poisons, 23 among the most deadly are: lutidin, rubidin, carbolic acid, formaldehyde, methalymine, acreilin, collidine, viridin, arsenic, formic acid, nicotine, hydrogene, sulphide, pyrrol, furfuroi, benzpyrene, methyl alcohol, prussic acid, corodin, ammonia, methane, carbon monoxide, pyridin. Quite a lungful of deadly person for just one putt of smoke!

In a recent survey conducted by a leading American Doctor the incidence of coronary diseases (infarction, angina pectorus, etc.) has been found to be 68% higher in smokers than in non-smokers.

So, if you want to stay healthy, you've got to stop smoking. But, be careful! Don't stop smoking all at once. That could be dangerous.

Now, where's this advice coming from? Some cigarette or pipe tobacco advertiser trying to make the best of a bad situation? Of course not!

OBESITY LURKS JUST AROUND THE CORNER

Well, our experience has shown that a "confirmed" or "heavy" smoker should bel not stop smoking all at once, as this will seriously endanger his health and wellbeing.

For years your body has been accustomed to its regular daily intake of toxic in a shock to your physiological system accompanied nearly always by psychic disturbances. Which results in an imbalance of the sympatheic nervous system.

The digestive system becomes disturbed; the central nervous system be-comes up-set; you become "bad-tempered", you can't be bothered by friends, spouse, children, etc., as the least little I had read?" irritation will make you fly off the handle.

Life becomes hell for you and everybody around you.

But, that's not all; it has been effecwill suffer terrible feelings of frustration. appreciate the results of our program.

A VICE THAT CAN

In order to compensate, he begins to eat and eat and eat. This is why so many former smokers put on excess weight and become fat. Stopping smoking all at once has been the cause of many severe cases of obesity.

So, giving up smoking, by yourself, is not the real solution, as it might endanger your health.

Then, how should you stop smoking? Well, this is what the Anti-Tobacco Center of America is going to teach you.

Just clip and mail the coupon below to receive full information on a program which will help to rid you of your need to smoke. You'll be amazed to learn that you can stop smoking without any danger and without straining your will power; after only a few days the desire to smoke will vanish.

Just think how much happier you will

This is the experience of an ex-smaker we all know: MAURICE CHEVALIER "I was sunk in a vice which had left life no meaning at all. Dr. A. C. "The efficacy of your product surprised everybody. I stopped smoking in ten days exactly. Thank you sincerely."

Dr. J. T. "I have used a supply of your product . . . I was informed of its composition by a friend, Dr. C., who was, truthfully speaking, rather sceptical. But after having used it, I do not smoke any longer and have up desire whatsoever to start again. The result is absolutely clear, without a shadow of a doubt, and I feel it my duty to tell you so."

Dr. E. C. "Since January 23, 1962, I no longer smoke. I have slready given the "tip" to several of my friends and patients."

Dr. P. C. "I am happy that I do not smoke any more, this of course being due to the use of your product. All my thanks,"

Dr. L. D. "The result was rapid. I think that anylody who wishes to stop smoking can do so.'

THE NURSERY rhyme, "Farmer in the Dell," the farmer's wife always takes a child, while the child takes a dog, but if we know anything about mothers, we know that most of them take not only children but dogs, and all other pets that come into the household. Most of America's pets are cared for by the mothers of our nation. It is usually mother who house-trains a cat or dog and sees that the pet, whatever its kind, is raised prop-erly. She buys the pet's food when she is marketing and prepares nearly all the animal's meals with attention to diet essentials.

. Mother never goes along with the old saying, "All dogs (and cats) have fleas." She can see that the continual biting and scratching ruin a pet's coat and can bring on summer eczema as well as cause the pet untold misery.

Mother attends the pet when it is ailing and when it is old and feeble.

When the family mother along returns from an outing that did not include the pet, mother is the first to look to see if the pet's water dish needs refilling with fresh water or if there is any evidence of something having gone amiss during her absence.

Think back to when you were a child. It was almost always, mother who took care of your pet while you went over to the neighbor's vacant lot to play; while you struggled with your school homework; while you went to school games: while you slept, but mother did not when the pet was delivered of babies in the middle of the night.

A great many mothers took advantage of their pet caring and found new hobbies such as an interest in cat, dog, bird, or even turtle shows. Many are still doing so, and also going out for dog obedience competiti-tion, animal breeding, professional handling, even hunting. They deserve these hobbies, for home confinement can be very lonely.

All in all, mother is a pretty nice person to have around when there are pets in the family and, today being Mother's Day, it is a good time to tell her so.

Some Dogs Are Dog dogs

EDITOR:

I just read Mark Clutter's amusing article, "So You Want to Be a Writer? Hah!" (I've always wondered why the "to" and "a" in titles are always lower cased!)

For years I've been typing out German Shepherd Dog, and always the capital D of Dog is lower cased to dog. This breed is registered as German Shepherd Dog. I guess there are only two Dog dogs registered with American Kennel Club the German Shepherd Dog and the Bernese Mountain Dog.

Most people don't say German Shepherd Dog dog, nor German Shepherd Dog bitch, nor German Shepherd Dog puppy, but at dog shows, we do hear these classes being called over the mike: German Shepherd Dog puppy dogs, German Shepherd Dog puppy bitches, German Shepherd Dog novice dogs, German Shepherd Dog novice bitches, etc.

A few other Dog dogs are ortuguese Water Dog (there are a few in our country), Portuguese Cattle Dog (popular in Portugal), Swiss Mountain Dog, Pyrenean Mountain Dog (we call him Great Pyreness), Monkey Dog (we call him Affenpinscher), Belgian Congo Dog (we know him as Basenji), Lion Dog, Sun Dog, Sleeve Dog (all three now Pekingese), and a few others. The Dalmatian probably has had more capitalized Dog nicknames than any other canine, and some are Fire House Dog, Plum Pudding Dog, Carriage Dog,

A Village in Vietnam

IN READING. The Village of Ben Suc," by Jonathan Schell (Knopf, $3.95), we are reminded of a peculiar inconsistency on the part of some who like to think they are liberals.

In the American Civil War, Sherman burned his way to Atlanta. The best of military historians, the most competent of military instructors, have, ever since, regarded Sherman as one of history's most brilliant generals, unafraid to take bold and unpopular actions to shorten a war and to save lives. Political liberals have never been known to cavil at Sherman's methods. They were in a cause of which they approved, and although in themselves the actions were inhumane, they were more humane than the Negro slavery they helped to end.

In the war in Vietnam, villages are frequently Viet Cong strongholds. From them the Viet Cong obtain their food supplies, in them are the Vict Cong arms depots, among their inhabitants are not only the families of Vict Cong soldiers but "civilians" who spy on the Americans and South Victnamese, and who lay the deadly land mines that take so large a toll. Such villages are frequently "pacified," but again and again turn out to be Viet Cong nests. They are, as a last desperate resort, burned, leveled to the Ben Suc, some 30 miles from Salgon, was on the periphery of the famous from Saigon, was on the periphery of the famous from Triangle. It was a farming village, a Viet Cong stronghold. It too, had been "pacified" over and over; the Viet Cong always returned to it. On Jan. 8, 1967, a surprise American attack surrounded it, sealed it off, separated the Viet Cong from the rest of the villagers, sent the non-V.C. to a refugee camp in Phu Loi, and leveled completely Ben Suc and the jungle around it.

Jonathan Schell witnessed the entire action and his report appeared in the New Yorker, and this is it in book form. Schell's is a straightforward account, of the tragedy that comes to farmers when their land is destroyed, their village razed, they themselves uprooted. These villagers, unlike those who incur the wrath of the Viet Cong, suffer no tortures, are not beheaded, do not have dynamite tossed into their huts, but are relocated. Of course, relocation is not satisfactory to the shifted populace; it is more humane than what is done by the other side.

Schell witnesses the questioning of Viet Cong by South Vietnamese, who beat a recalcitrant V.C. "with a rolled-up sheet of vinyl that had covered the map, then jabbed him hard in the ribs." This an American captain deprecates: "You see, they do have some - well, methods and practices that we are not accustomed to, that we wouldn't use if we were doing it . . . Of course, we believe that that's not the best way to operate, so we try to introduce some changes, but it's very slow . . . Actually, though, we've seen some improvement over the last year." Nor are Americans the brutes they are painted in the posters of the "peace" groups, Maj. Hampton, at Ben Suc, tells Schell: "When I was out in the ton, at Ben Suc, tells Schell: "When I was out in the field once, a suspect made a break from a group I was guarding. I could have dropped him like that. But I just couldn't do it. I couldn't shoot him like that. So I ran around in front of him and headed him off, and he was recaptured."

And Try Not to Miss...

GOAL FOR URBAN AMERICA, Edited by Brian J. L. Berry and Jack Meltzer, Prentice-Hall, $4.95.

Noted authorities on urban affairs, politics, sociology and race relations give their views on urban problems in America, Among the authors is Martin Meyerson, formerly of the University of California regional and city planning department.

EPITAPH FOR KINGS. By Sanche de Gramont. Putnam, $6.95.

A colorful history of the decline and death of a dynasty. Under Louis XIV, the Sun King, the Bourbons were Europe's most powerful force. In the French Revolution, they ended up on the guillotine, having sowed their own destruction as a fabulously wealthy court allowed its people to starve. French historian Sanche de Gramont makes the era live while tracing the causes of the monarchy's downfall.

Yukio Mishima, author of the novel "Forbidden Colors" (Knopf, $6.95), the masterpiece of a man who has written such fine works as "The Sound of Waves," "The Temple of the Golden Pavilion," and "After the Banquet," all of which have been translated into English. "Forbidden Colors" is a panoramic story of Tokyo's corrupt life a few years after the end of World War II and an attack on Japan's oppressive marriage customs, in which a young man, Yuichi Minami, is caught between his impulses and the demands of his family. Out of his loveless marriage his tortured homosexual inclinations burgeon.

Great Composer

HEINRICH SCHUTZ. By Hans Joachim Moser. St. Martin's, $6.50.

There were great composers, let it not be forgotten, before Bach, and Heinrich Schutz was one of them. Schutz was born exactly a hundred years before Bach, in Thuringia in 1585, and died in 1672, aged 87.

He was the bridge between two contrapuntal schools, the earlier one of Bryd, Palestrina and Victoria, and that of Bach and Handel. Schutz prefigured Bach, particularly in his settings of the Passion.

Prof. Hans Joachim Moser is THE authority on Schutz; this short biography of the composer and account of his works, ably translated from the German by Derek McCulloch, is the first to be made available to the English reader. Not only are we introduced to a fascinating personage, but all his works, the great Passions, the Christmas Oratorio, and the rest, are chronologically discussed and placed in their historical background. Schutz's life as a composer, be it noted, spanned a half century. Schutz, in Prof. Moser's opinion, "cannot conceivably be omitted from the noble line of composers that he heads—and to which Bach, Handel, Gluck, Haydn, Mozart, Beethoven, Schubert, Schumann, Wagner, Bruckner and Brahms all belong." He is, in the words of Prof. Moser, "the first German classical composer," a fact which "in no wise stamps him as the remotest. It is the peculiar quality of works of genius that they overcome the barriers of Music examples are included in the text, and there are biographical sketches of most of Schutz's musical contemporaries, and a discography. - N.H.

Freud on Politics

FREUD: POLITICAL AND SOCIAL THOUGHT, By Paul Roazen, Knopf, $6.95.

Paul Roazen, Harvard teacher of political theory, decries the dichotomizing of Sigmund Freud's heritage. Professional psychoanalysts ignore Freud's ideas on social matters; social theorists pay no heed to his clinical writings. Both psychoanalysts and social theorists have been the losers. Author Roazen seeks to rejoin the social and clinical aspects of Freud's work, and in doing so makes penetrating observations on Freud's political and social 'Freud saw (the) Janus character of social life, the sense in which society both frustrates and fulfills men's needs . . . Freud held radical social views because he thought that 'it is quite impossible to adjust the claims of the sexual instinct to the demands of civilization'; but he accepted the inevitability of the conflict between the individual and society and sought ways of maximizing individualism within a social context."

Personally, Freud once said of himself: "Politically I am nothing," when asked where he stood, But on two major matters he made himself very plain. He felt Woodrow Wilson had betrayed his promises at the Versailles conference and developed a strong distaste for him. The famous Bullitt-Freud collaboration on a psychoanalytic study of Wilson, widely condemned for its intolerance, was a re-

On the Russian Revolution, Freud was equally out-spoken but more rational, He saw "grandeur" in the plans of the Soviet leaders but, says Roazen, "as early as 1919" he felt that the inevitable suffering would outweigh the cultural benefits of the new regime . . . To Freud communism was another religion, offering believers an illusory compensation in a future world."

Freud's sympathy was for the underprivileged; he was in favor of greater economic egalitarianism; without expecting it would produce significant alterations for the better in basic human nature.-N.H.

What's Your Ouestion on Decorating?

Gradually, add to the above by selecting good old ta-bles, refinished, if your pocketbook cannot afford new ones. Painting is a boon for some tables, chests and chairs which have appealing lines, Just remember that your carpet and drapery come first and they remove a large bite from your nest egg.

Q. For an Early American living room, what type of drapery should I use?

A. If architecturally your room is typical of the perlod, your windows will be fairly small and not to the floor. Shutters, dutch hung curtains and cafe curtains would be appropriate. In these three treatments your curtains would be apron or sill length and would not come to the floor, Since Early American is an informal style, your fabrics

than unbleached, as it is preshrunk! Cretonnes and English chintzes with small all over patterns, or those made to match documentary wall papers, are suitable. If your windows face the front of the house, or you are using a print, it is wise to line them. From the street, unlined prints have an unfinished look, a temporary look.

If you are using Early American furnishings in a contemporary ranch house with silding arcade glass doors, your drapery will be handled in a different manner. Heavy printed draperies, floor length, when closed in the daytime as sun protection, are confin-ing and dark. When open, you may feel exposed and unprotected and may feel the need for sheer underdraperies. I have found cotton or linen fabrics, with a homespun weave and in a neutral color, the most satisfactory over large glass areas. Many loose weaves may look too sheer for privacy, when seen in a small piece, but when made up 21/2 times fullness, they give adequate protection from the sun in the daytime and prying eyes at night.

Want the facts? Want to learn the truth about prominent personalities? Want informed opinion? Write Walter Scott, Parade, 733 3rd Ave., New York, N.Y. 10017. Your full name will be used unless otherwise requested. Volume of mail received makes personal replies impossible.

Q. I am confused about the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. Did he bleed to death? Was he alive when he was wheeled into the emergency room at St. Joseph's Hospital in Memphis? What happened between a little after 6 p.m.

when he was shot and a little after 8 p.m. when he was pronounced dead?—L. W. Allen, Atlanta, Ga.

A. According to Dr. J. T. Francisco, the medical examiner of Shelby County and the forensic pathologist who performed the autopsy: "The wound Dr. King suffered was of such severity that for all practical purposes, death occurred a very few minutes after he was shot.

"The bullet entered the right side of his face, passed through the jaw into the right side of the neck, severing the spinal cord, passing across the neck, and lodging just beneath the skin in the left back.

"From six to 12 physicians saw Dr. King at St. Joseph's Hospital. A few believed he still showed some scant signs of life. They therefore made attempts to treat him. They performed an emergency trachectomy and venous cut downs, incisions over the vein areas to insert catheters, but nothing helped. I performed the autopsy, assisted by several members of my staff, at about 9 p.m. on the night of his death. The report and accompanying photographs of the wound are on file."

Q. Has success spoiled Tommy Smothers of the Smothers Brothers? What happened to him at the Diplomat Hotel in Miami Beach? Did he really wreck the joint?—V. R., Los Angeles, Calif.

A. According to one newspaper account in the Las Vegas Sun: "Tommy Smothers is still feeling the effects of that reckless bit of four-letter blabbing down in Miami Beach at the Diplomat last week. Several pals in the room that night were utterly flabbergasted when Tommy jumped onstage at the close of the Marty Allen, Steve Rossi act and began spouting filthy epithets. What's this about success going to the heads of some stars who can't handle all the prosperity and fame?"

Q. Who started the rumors about a nice, simple, bowlegged actress named Lee Remick, linking her to Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, Sen. Bobby Kennedy, actors Dean Martin and Frank Sinatra? Also isn't she married?— Martha Bernstein, Newark, N.J.

A. Political enemies of Rockefeller and Kennedy and show business gossips are responsible for the rumors. Miss Remick is reportedly estranged from her husband, TV director William Colleran, which, of course, nakes her fair game.

KATHAYH KAYS AND GLENN FORD

Q. Is the Glenn Ford-Kathryn Hays marriage gone sour? Isn't Glenn-boy α tough one to live with?—Helen Kirkpatrick, Los Angeles, Calif.

A. Friends do not expect the marriage to last.

Q. On Meet the Press, I heard Gen. Maxwell Taylor describe the Tet offensive of the Viet Cong in which they successfully invaded 40 South Vietnamese cities, "a net victory for us since we compelled the enemy to change his strategy." What sort of self-delusion is this? Or was the Tet offensive really a genuine victory for us?—Kenneth Young, Bronxville, N.Y.

A. In many neutral quarters the Tet offensive has been considered a political and psychological victory for the Vict Cong. Having originally advised along with Walt Rostow that President Kennedy send U.S. troops to Vietnam, General Taylor may have been exercising on Meet the Press what psychiatrists term "egoreinforcement."

Gen. Andre Beaufre who, during the French war in Vietnam twice commanded French troops, writes: "I have the impression that what the Tet offensive was really aimed at was what has in fact been achieved: to confer international political significance upon the Viet Cong, to ruin the prestige of the Americans and of the South Vietnamese government, and to restore better control over the countryside. In sum, the Tet offensive appears to have been much more of a psychological than a military operation."

Q. How old is Katharine Hepburn? How come she has never been married? —Lambert Farmer, Hartford, Conn.

A. Miss Hepburn is 58, was married as a young woman to Mr. Ludlow Smith from whom she was divorced in 1934.

Q. If Bobby gets the Democratic nomination will Jackie Kennedy and her children campaign for him?

—Lois Devers, Indianapolis, Ind.

A. Mrs. Kennedy will campaign if her brother-in-law so requests, but it is highly doubtful that her children will.

Q. Can you tell me what is or was Harvest Reaper? I mean in terms of secret war code, I believe it has some connection with the Korean War. — Robert Henderson, Charlotte, N.C.

A. Harvest Reaper was the code name of the airplane mission of the first six F-111A's to Vietnam, two of which were lost in combat.

Q. Is it true that President Thieu and Vice President Ky of South Vietnam will never stand still for a coalition government, thus making an armistice impossible?—Gene Fitzgerald, Fort Bragg, N.C.

A. President Thieu declared recently: "We are determined to maintain our position and we will never accept a coalition government under any form. A U.S. withdrawal from Vietnam would mean that the U.S. shuns its responsibilities as leader of the free world. Such a withdrawal amounts to a kind of desertion." The Thieu government feels strongly that the uncommitted South Vietnamese can easily be subverted by Communists and that the U.S. must remain in South Vietnam indefinitely.

Q. I saw the following words about Martin Luther King. I believe they are in Latin. Can you translate them? "Cineri gloris sera venit."—H. D. Abernethy, Chapel Hill, N.C.

A. "Glory comes late when it comes to one's ashes."

Eisenhower is keenly interested in golf. Here he is with old friend Bob Hope and golfer Tom Nieporte (center) prior to the "Desert Classic."

Elder Statesman Eisenhower-At 77 He's Become an Artful Dodger

BY LLOYD SHEARER

t 77, Dwight David Eisenhower is the only living former Republican President of the United States.

As such, he is regarded by Republicans as the party's elder statesman, its oracle, pundit and counselor.

As for non-Republicans, they, too, regard lke as the undefeated hero, the genial mentor, the wise, old grandfather image of the nation.

All winter and all spring long until he left last week for his Gettysburg farm, Ike has played host here to a variety of politicians, newsmen, golfers, and celebrities. He's talked to everyone from President Johnson to California's Senator Kuchel to General Westmoreland to Bob Hope to Governor Reagan and ad infinitum.

Ike's name is still magic in this country. The politicians know it and seek him out, craving his endorsement or hoping some of his good will will rub off on them.

Eisenhower has always maintained that he's not a politician. "The older I grow," he said at a recent press gathering here, "the more I'm sure I'd never have made a good politician."

In 1964 after the San Francisco Convention, he smilingly uttered a similar lament: "I was never trained in politics; I came in, literally, at the top. In the service, when a man gives you his word, his word is binding. In politics you never know."

Despite all the subtle and shrewd attempts of politicians to tie like to their factions, the former President is determined to remain uncommitted until the moment of his choice.

In 1963 when the Republicans were searching desperately for a presidential candidate, lke listed four men he felt could well fill the job: Robert Anderson, his second Secretary of the Treasury; Milton Eisenhower, his brother; Gen. Alfred Gruenther, and Gen. Lucius Clay. Anderson and the two generals expressed no appetite for the presidency, and Milton Eisenhower recoiled from the trials and troubles of political exposure. Thus Ike, bereft of his own candidates, was pressured into issuing statements describing his ideal presidential candidate, whom adherents of Goldwater and Nelson Rockefeller quickly identified as their man.

Above the battle

In the coming election, Ike says he will try to remain uninvolved in any Republican internecine warfare, maintaining the lofty position of a sage who is sure that, exposed to the issues and the candidates, the American people will choose the right man.

Here are samples of Eisenhower, the

artful dodger, giving virtuoso performances in noncommittance at press conferences outside his office on the Cochran - Odlum Ranch:

Q. General, do you think President Johnson moved wisely in announcing that he was withdrawing from the presidential race at the same time he announced the bombing pause?

A. I wouldn't make a guess . . . He evidently thought he was doing wisely. Therefore you just have to stand on that. For the moment.

Q. What do you think, General, this does to the Republican candidate picture?

A. As far as I can see, every Republican that has even looked like he might have some ambitions toward the presidency has talked rather reasonably, rather logically, and I have had nothing to quarrel with any of them about. I think here and there someone made an expression that they might have regretted, but as far as the policies they talk, I read some of their speeches very carefully. I think they're talking sense.

At a press conference with Sen. Thomas Kuchel, who is running for the Republican U.S. senatorial candidacy against Max Rafferty, the following dialogue took place:

Q. General, are you today endorsing Senator Kuchel?

A. He hasn't asked me for endorsement. And I'm not a citizen of California. I served a long time with Senator Kuchel, and I consider him a fine public servant . . . When the chips were down I could count on his vote in the eight years I was in the White House . . .

Q. General, looking at the New Hampshire primary, would you say perhaps that Governor Rockefeller was the biggest Republican loser?

A.... I don't think he made any campaign. Nelson Rockefeller is a very honorable, well-meaning citizen. Probably some of his views are somewhat different from mine at times, but I'm glad to see a number of Republicans coming up as potential leaders...

Q. General, do you intend to participate in any way in the pre-convention or postconvention campaigns this year?

A. Well, it would be only under some unforeseen circumstances that I would campaign in pre-convention affairs. Afterwards I'll certainly do everything I can. After all, I'm 77 and I've had quite a history of illnesses in the last few years. And so I can't do as much as I would have a few years back. But I'll do whatever I can because I believe we need Republican leadership in this country. Q. Do you intend to endorse former Vice-President Nixon?

A. You mean now? I would doubt it . . . matter of fact he's got one Eisenhower with him now I see quite often.

At a press conference with Max Rafferty, California Superintendent of Education who is seeking the Republican nomination for the U.S. Senate, Eisenhower described Richard Nixon as "a very good man, a much better man than a lot of people in this country think."

Q. That's not an endorsement, is it?

A. Well, it's an endorsement of him as a man. I'm waiting for the Republican Party to say who they want as their nominee. At least I'm waiting at this minute. I may change my mind the next day. I have been known to do it.

Reservoir of love

In a nation where there are more registered Democrats than Republicans, political observers hold that Eisenhower's influence on the voters is negligible. This may well be, but what is not negligible is the tremendous reservoir of love, admiration, and respect Ike has built over the years.

In this desert community where he makes his winter home, people of every type speak of him with warmth and friendliness. They know he suffers from a cardiac insufficiency, that he no longer plays the regulation 18-hole golf course, that he limits himself to the Par-3 course. They realize that his physicians have ordered his day to be carefully apportioned out — so much rest, relaxation, and work. They know when he's not napping or strolling the fairway that he's working on two books and a series of articles for The Reader's Digest. And they make it a point not to interfere with his privacy.

Two of his most ardent admirers are fellow Republicans Bob and Dolores Hope. Two years ago the Hopes donated 76.4 acres of land on Rio del Sol Road east of Palm Springs, appraised at $760;000, for the erection of the Eisenhower Medical Center. This complex will cost $7,000,000 when finished, and Bob Hope's latest contribution was $448,000, derived from the Bob Hope desert golf classic staged this past February.

The comedian is most anxious to break ground for the center. "Not that I'm in a hurry for Ike's sake," he jokes. "It's old Bing Crosby I'm thinking of."

The Eisenhower-Hope relationship goes back to 1943 when Hope arrived in

Gen. William Westmoreland pays a visit to discuss Vietnam.

lke plays host to the press and Sen. Thomas Kuchel, R., Calif.

North Africa to entertain the troops, met Ike in Algiers and promptly accused him of "filling in for Charles Boyer."

Their friendship ripened with time, and the Hopes new socialize with Ike and Mamie five or six times during the winter. A fast man with a quip, Hope is envious of Mamie, whom he refers to as "a sweet, sharp doll who can cut you down to size in about ten seconds.

"I remember a few weeks ago," he recalls, "I was just about to emcee the Desert Ball we have each year. That same day I also had to do an interview, go to a cocktail party with Dolores, play golf, and entertain at a benefit. I was petulant and started to complain to Mamie about my crazy schedule. 'What', she cracked, 'if nobody asked you?' That put me down in nothing flat."

What Hope likes best about Eisenhower, he says, "is the way the General plays straight-man. He loves to laugh, even howls at good weather reports. Kidding aside, he's a great man, a modest man, a warm human being with a marvelous sense of humor who doesn't mind laughing at himself one bit."

Last month when the comedian was presiding over a Heart Fund function at nearby La Quinta, Eisenhower attended and took part. When Ike got up to leave, Hope quipped, "You'd better hurry, General, the 18th tee closes in half an hour." As Eisenhower's lips formed a wide smile, Hope continued, "General Eisenhower doesn't play too much golf these days. He prefers painting . . . it takes fewer strokes. And while we're on the subject of Ike's painting, I know he won't mind if I tell you about the most beautiful still life he just finished . . . They won't have apples that shape for 100 years."

The audience roared but no one louder than Ike Eisenhover.

KING'S WIDOW Which Negro has the necessary charisma, the vital magnetism to inherit the mantle of the late Martin Luther King Jr.? Technically the Southern Christian leadership has passed into the hands of King's trusted assistant, Rev. Ralph Abernathy of Atlanta. But does Abernathy have the appeal, the drive, and most of all the following to prevent the Negroes of the nation from joining such militants as Stokely Carmichael and Rap Brown?

The trend was away from King at the time of his assassination. Young Negroes felt that force would accomplish more for them than forensics. They were leaving King by the hundreds. Can Abernathy halt the drift?

Many Negroes feel that Coretta Scott King, widow of the slain civil rights leader, "is a natural to continue the non-violence movement."

At 41, Mrs. Martin Luther King Jr. is a small, beautiful, soft-voiced woman of dignity, strength, and indomitable purpose. She frequently walked side by side with her husband in various civil rights demonstrations. She is intelligent, well-educated, and knowledgeable. Born in Marion, Ala., educated at Antioch College in Ohio and the New England Conservatory of Music in Boston, she was listed in 1966 on the Gallup Poll of the world's most admired women.

Her conduct all through her late husband's jailings, campaigns, and death has been exemplary. "I have faith," she has long said, "in that what we are doing is right."

less jetiniactions of fluoride into the gums of children may help prevent dental problems for life. That, at least, is the hope of two researchers at the UCLA School of Dentistry. Dr. Frederick Goodman and Dr. Arthur Johnson.

Pain-

Dr. Goodman in his investigation reveals that teeth absorb fluoride much better before than after they emerge from the gums. And Dr. Johnson in his study has demonstrated that new jet-injection dental instruments may be useful in delivering protective agents through the gums to unerupted teeth.

Most permanent teeth erupt between the ages of 5 and 13, which may turn out to be the best period in which to inject fluorida into the gums, helping eventually to prevent cavities.

Two for the Cookie Jar

by Beth Merriman

Two unusually good cookie recipes emerged from this year's Pillsbury Bake-Off. While they didn't win big prize money, they were among the 100 finalists. We liked both so much that we want you to enjoy them, with tall glasses of iced coffee or tea, all summer long.

Butter Mint Patties, created by Mrs. Jennie Wren Weeks of Olympia, Wash., are as rich as shortbread, not too sweet and have a refreshing mint flavor. The surprise ingredient — butter mints—provides both sweetening and flavor.

Butter Ball Chiffons, created by Mrs. Edward Skoe of Hillside, Ore., are as light and delicate as chiffon. The unusual ingredients in this recipe are lemon chiffon pie filling mix and crushed chocolate-coated toffee.

Try them both. They are different and delicious.

Butter Mint Pats

1 cup butter, softened 1 cup butter mints, crushed 2 cups all-purpose flour

1 tablespoon sugar

Cream butter at medium speed in large mixer bowl until light; add crushed mints. Add flour; blend well at low speed. If necessary, chill dough for easier handling. Roll out or pat dough into a 9-inch square on waxed paper. Sprinkle with sugar. Cut into 1½-inch squares. Using tiny cutters, press a design on each square. Place on ungreased cookie sheets. Bake at 300° for 18 to 20 minutes, until pale golden brown. Do not overbake. Makes 36.

Note: To crush mints place in heavy plastic bag and crush with rolling pin. Or, using a spoon, crush mints against sides of mixing bowl.

Butter Ball Chiffons

1 cup butter, softened 1/4 cup confectioners'

sugar

1 package (3 oz.) lemon chiffon pie filling mix

2 teaspoons water

1 teaspoon vanilla

2 cups all-purpose flour 1 cup chopped pecans

3 bars (<sup>3</sup>/4 oz. each) chocolate coated English toffee candy, crushed

Confectioners' sugar, optional

Combine all ingredients except pecans and toffee in large mixing bowl. Mix at low speed until dough forms. Add nuts and crushed candy; blend well. Shape into 1-inch balls. Place on ungreased cookie sheets. Bake at 325° for 12 to 15 minutes or until light golden brown. Cool cookies completely before removing from cookie sheet. If desired, dust with confectioners' sugar. Makes about 3 dozen.

My Favorite Jokes by Donald O'Connor

EDITOR'S NOTE: Donald O'Connor, 43, was born into show business in Chicago. His father was a circus strongman from County Cork, Ireland, and his mother was a tightrope walker and aerial specialist.

O'Connor grew up in vaudeville, worked his way through radio, motion pictures and television to become the versatile star he is today. He now limits himself to playing Las Vegas occasionally. O'Connor has been married twice, has fathered three children. Herewith some of his favorite jokes:

Dissatisfied with the way his car had been repaired, a Los Angeles surgeon complained to the mechanic.

"If I repaired people, the way you repair cars, I'd be in jail."
"But doctor," the mechanic explained. "You must admit your job is easier."

"Easier?"

"Of course, doctor. You only have to work on two models, male and female which never change from year to year."

A young Lothario, trying to pick up a girl on the beach at Atlantic City, began with an old line. "Excuse me, miss," he said. "Haven't I seen you somewhere before?"

"Of course," the girl replied: "I go there often."

A corporation president invited an attractive secretary to dine with him in a famous restaurant. The secretary, glancing at the menu, ordered the most expensive meal, starting with caviar and ending with champagne and crepe suzettes.

"Tell me," said her boss, a wee bit sarcastic, "do you eat the same sort of food at home with your parents?"

"Oh no, sir," she reptied. "You see, at home, no one plans to show me their etchings after dinner."

A Hollywood actor, emerging from the shower, called for his butler. "Chalmers," he said, "hold my cigarette, I want to weigh myself."

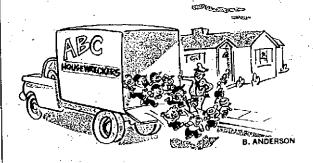

Two sparrows were flying over a cornfield. Said one to his companion, pointing to a scarecrow, "Look, a hippie!"

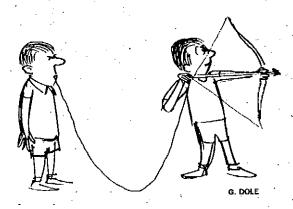

"Why did you spank Billy?" the irate father asked his wife. "For two reasons," the wife explained. "One, he's been driving me mad all day and two, because I want him to have something to tell his analyst when he grows up."

Two young secretaries were discussing their amours. "How's it going with you and Jerry?" one asked.

"I'm afraid Jerry is too practical," the friend confided. "Last Saturday he was in my apartment when the lights went out. What do you think he did? Raced to the hardware store and bought three new fuses."

ANECDOTE OF THE WEEK

William Wyler, 65, one of Hollywood's greatest directors—he's won three Oscars—was reportedly miffed trying to supervise perfectionist Barbra Streisand in Funny Girl, his 67th picture and her film debut.

A studio publicist when told of Wyler's irritation feigned surprise. "Willie shouldn't be aggravated or impatient with Barbra," he remarked. "After all, it's the first picture she's ever directed."

Tests By Doctors Prove It Possible To Shrink Painful Hemorrhoids

And Promptly Stop The Itching, Relieve Pain In Most Cases.

A scientific research institute has discovered a medication which has the ability, in most cases - to actually shrink hemorrhoids and to promptly stop the burning itch and relieve pain.

In case after case, the sufferer first notices relief from itching and pain. Then painful swelling of the inflamed hemorrhoids is gently reduced.

Tests conducted on hundreds of patients by doctors in New York City, in Washington, D.C. and at a Midwest Medical Center proved this so.

The secret is Preparation H. There is no other formula for the treatment of hemorrhoids like Preparation H. In addition to actually shrinking hemorrhoids — Preparation H lubricates, soothes irritated tissues and helps prevent further infection.

Just ask for Preparation H Ointment or Preparation H Suppositories. No prescription is needed.

DO WOMEN MAKE GOOD SPIES?

by Jack Anderson

Soviet intelligence agent here has failed in one of his primary missions. His name is Oleg Kalugin, second secretary at the Soviet Embassy and former Tass correspondent. For some time, he had been trying to place a female acquaintance as his agent in the State Department. He also instructed an aide to cultivate a girl who works at the FBI. Neither attempt succeeded. Both girls had been leading him on under the direction of the FBI.

Soviet "journalist" Oleg Kalugin sought to sneak girl agent into U.S. State Dept.

The incident proves a point: sex has not lost its importance as a means of obtaining information. In this electronic age, it is sometimes said that sex has become passé—that the computer center has become more important to intelligence than ladies with long lashes.

On a recent trip, I spoke to intelligence officials in many lands about espionage. Few said they would trade a good computer for a Mata Hari.

Some said they had become disillusioned with the cloak-and-hatpin girls. One source said that the Central Intelligence Agency no longer uses women in the field because they're "emotionally unstable." But they are highly useful, he added, at such meticulous tasks as intelligence analysis and codebreaking.

A top official of South Korea's equivalent of the CIA agreed that women don't make reliable spies. He reported that his men had captured 139 female agents from the north last year; many of them voluntarily turned themselves in. "Women have less will power and are less courageous," he explained. "They also have a finer appreciation for physical comforts than men do. They aren't tough enough to do the job."

Yet, ever since Delilah seduced Samson to fearn the secret of his strength, sex and espionage have gone together like moonlight and roses. History is spiced with tales of lady spies who delicately extracted secrets from blissful officials. For the surest way to a man's secrets has always been through the bedroom.

And the Soviets, in particular, still believe this. The KGB recruits and trains some men only because they're attractive to women. And they have an equally high regard for lady spies.

A top U.S. espionage expert, speaking in the stilted language of his profession, told PARADE: "The Soviet female personality, based on experience, would appear to be particularly adept to conspiratorial activities and, from an emotional standpoint, Soviet female operatives are better equipped than their male counterparts."

All the experts I talked to agreed that undercover girls are most effective, well, under the covers. In Saigon, the lithe, bewitching bar girls are a constant menace to American security. The bars and bordellos are infested with Communist beauties who pass on any information they can pick up. Result: security officers preach harder than the chaplains to keep lonely soldiers out of the native nightclubs.

In Tokyo, Hong Kong and Manila, the Communists have adopted the protection racket to penetrate seamy night-clubs. Many clubowners have been compelled to hire Communist toughs as bouncers, who use their muscle also to coerce the bar girls and exotic dancers into wheedling information from funloying Americans.

Red China has managed to plant waitresses in restaurants patronized by government officials in Far Fastern countries. The girls have proved alluring to the VIP patrons, who have been caught in the clinches by Communist photographers. The pictures are used, of course, to blackmail the officials into doing Communist bidding.

Beware a sex snare

In Western Europe, the Communists have used seductive women to persuade GI's to desert. The Reds have set up date bureaus and arranged sex snares. In more than one instance, the girl has begged the GI to caoss behind the Curtain and help her family escape to freedom. When he responds and reaches the secret rendezvous, however, he is met not by his beauty in distress but by the Communist police. He may never see her again; likely, she is working on a new assignment.

Typical was the pathetic case of Charles Lucas of Xenia, O., who was enticed into East Germany by a girl who immediately deserted him. He stayed on, miserable, despondent, afraid to return, until at last he died by his own hand. Another seduced George Stabley of Jersey Shore, Pa., into fathering her child in order to get him behind the Iron Curtain. Once on the other side, she coldly dropped him.

The Soviet Union also uses women at other levels of espionage. Russian defectors who were trained by Soviet intelligence to infiltrate the U.S. say that large portions of their indoctrination — including secret writing, language and communications—were taught by women.

Besides its professional spy corps, Russia has also used women of other nations as agents, winning them over on ideological grounds. Some of the most celebrated Soviet spies have been American women. Atom spy Ethel Rosenberg, for instance, was considered to have a far stronger personality than her husband, Julius. Other American women who have spied for Russia: Elizabeth Bentley, Ruth Greenglass, and Helen Silvermaster.

One of the most complex cases involved a Russian agent using the name Joy Ann Baltch who slipped over the border from Canada. She was joined in the U.S. by a man believed to be her husband, who had assumed the identity of a Lithuanian Catholic priest. Their cover might have been perfect, except that the KGB had made one small slip. The Russians had overlooked the fact that the real priest had returned to the U.S.

When the priest turned up in duplicate, Mrs. Baltch and her husband fell under the watchful eyes of the FBI. They were seen making regular visits under a railroad bridge in the Queens area of New York City, where they picked up and deposited mysterious packets. The site was also visited by another Soviet husband and wife team, diplomat Ivan Egorov and his wife, Aleksandra. To explain her stop under the bridge, Mrs. Egorov feigned illness and carried her performance to a theatrical height by throwing up on cue. Her husband was less clever. FBI men saw him place a package to be picked up by the Baltches.

meckly with a mumbled claim of diplomatic immunity, Aleksandra Egorov flailed away with her fists and it took three burly FBI men to subdue her.

But the basic weapon of lady spies is still their sex. One bejeweled beauty, Irmgard Margareth-Schmidt, wooed her way into the confidence of top American intelligence officers in Germany. At one time she managed to keep up a romance with an Air Force colonel and an American civilian at the same time with neither man knowing about the other. She succeeded in getting from them the Western defense plans for West Berlin.

Margarethe Pfeiffer, a buxom, blonde ex-model who graduated from a Communist spy school in Thuringia, Czechoslovakia, practiced her wiles on enlisted men. She was caught after she picked on the wrong GI: Pvt. Robert Eicher, who turned her in after she asked him for one of the Army's secret infra-red tank telescopes.

Even the old camera in the bedroom trick has been an effective espionage weapon. The most celebrated instance involved Ursula Discher, a drab brunette with an alluring voice, who caused the downfall of the first American foreign service officer ever caught in a treasonable act.

When he was assigned to our embassy in Warsaw, Irving Scarbeck, a plump milquetoast of a man, had been warned about the dangers of telephone calls from strange women. Nevertheless, he responded to Ursula's phone call. They met on a street corner and began a 14-month romance. They were together when four Red agents broke down her bedroom door with flashbulbs popping.

A spy for love

Scarbeck agreed to turn over secret information to keep Ursula from going to jail as a prostitute. He refused to believe that she had deliberately trapped him. He traded more secrets for an exit visa to help Ursula get out of Poland. She flew ahead of him to West Germany and went straight to a boarding house used by Red agents as a secret rendezvous. Microphones planted in Scarbeck's office by two American counterspies helped produce enough information to put him under arrest. He testified at the trial that he had betrayed his country only to help. Ursula escape from Poland. Yet shortly after the trial, she returned quietly to Warsaw, Scarbeck was sentenced to 30 years in prison, served two years and is now free.

On occasion, the women themselves spy for love. One American girl with a high security clearance stole several topsecret military documents from her office last year and handed them over to her boy friend, an agent for a Middle Eastern nation. They were both caught, and he was deported.

Mata Hari (above) was most famous of women spies. In World War I she tried to work for both French and Germans. The French executed her. Amy Thorpe Pack was an American who spied for the British in World War II. She died in 1963.

At least one woman spy is important enough to the Russians that they have been dickering behind the scenes to get her out of an English prison. She is American-born Lona Cohen, who has been closely associated with the famous Soviet spies Rudolf Abel and Gordon Lonsdale. The Soviets have made repeated offers to exchange prisoners wanted by the West for Lona Cohen and her husband, Morris.

Meanwhile, spy satellites may be able to disclose the location and production of every factory in Russia, and spy ships may be able to identify a submarine deep under the sea by the hum of its engines. But somehow they seem a dull substitute for the warm-blooded espionage of the petticoat operatives.

Certainly no clandestine recording device can extract secrets with quite the tenderness, say, of the exotic young lady who worked until recently as a guide at the United Nations. Harried statesmen found her an oasis of comfort in a world of chaos. She was not, of course, merely a loose-moraled girl from the office. She was a key part of a Middle Eastern nation's intelligence operation. She shared the secrets of the men who shared her charms.

Essentially, however, espionage more than ever has become a grim business. Gone is the gallantry of Abraham Lincoln who, it is said, ordered a jail door left unlocked so Christine Ford, a sultry Confederate spy, could escape. But even though much spying is now done by cold computers there is still room in it for a charming man like Oleg Kalugin—or for a beautiful woman.

LOOK, PALTRIE! IF I WERE ELECTED TO THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES WITH YOUR HELF I'D REMEMBER THE FAVOR. I'LL ALSO REMEMBER IT IF YOU MAKE ME LOOK SILLY!

THINK MY OPPONENT IS QUEEN OF THE GOOD FAIRIES! THAT'S MY PROBLEM. WHAT "SCANDAL" COULD YOU PIN ON HER THAT THEY'D BELIEVE?

THE VOTERS IN MY DISTRICT I'VE CHECKED OUT CONGRESSWOMAN DOLORES DEEPSIX'S RESORD MYSELF. IF THERE WERE ANYTHING I COULD PRESSURE HER WITH, I WOULD NOT NEED YOU.

REPUTATION BETTER

DEMAG, I'M A LOBBYIST WHO GETS RESULTS ASK MY CLIENTS IN YOUR DISTRICT. IN MY BUSINESS YOU KEEP TRACK OF THINGS. LIKE,

NOPE! THE FAIREST FLOWER ON THE HILL IS ATTENDING A PARLIAMENTARY SEMINAR IN WEST GERMANY, ALL VERY PROPER !..

"However, in her off hours, she's being SQUIRED AROUND BY A QUITE FAMOUS RACING DRIVER. CHARMING FELLOW! JET SET TYPE!

PALTRIE, THIS SMELLS FORTUNATELY FOR US, I KNOW THE GENTLEMAN'S LIKE A FRAME. THERE ARE NOSY CORRESPONDENTS IN THIS TOWN! IF ANY-THING LEAKED LATER ON, I'D BE DEAD!

OH, EXCUSE ME, GENERAL, WHEN THE OTHER GENTLEMEN LEFT, I THOUGHT E THIS ROOM WAS EMPTY

COME, MR. CONGRESSMAN-ELECT, I'LL BUY YOU A VICTORY PRINK ... NOW YOU JUST STICK TO SPEECHES IN FAVOR OF MOTHERHOOD.

HOW DID YOU FIND: YOU MEAN OUT WHAT I, AND NO ONE ABOUT THAT ELSE AROUND HERE MURDERIN' EVEN SUSPECTED? ROOK, KNUKS, MEETIN' MR. TAR ON TH'SLY?

OH, { GUESS THOSE "BUGS" AS KIDS GET T'HEAR YOU CALL THEM. A LOT MORE'N WHY, EVERY WORD THEY'RE S'POSED SAID IN MY OFFICE TO WAND SEE COULD BE HEARD MORE, TOO! BY...BY....

BY MISTER I DID FIND THURSTON TAR AH "ELECTRICIAH" IS MY GUESS: SO HE SAID, IN THERE TESTERDAY: WHO Y'S ROSE PUT "LOCKING FOR A THOSE "BUGS" IN THERE, GRAMMA? SHORT, IN THE WIRING"

Ti Trickery evasion, proceas tination, spoila-TION BOTHERATION UNDER TALSE PRETENSES OF ALL SORTS, THERE ARE INFLUENCES THAT CAN NEVER.

-DICKERS, "BLEAK HOUSE"

COME TO COOD!
